Gasless New Year holiday looms in dispute with IRS

By United Press International

Gasoline station operators and the Internal Revenue Service appear headed for a clash on the price of gasoline at the pumps.

Following reports of gasoline price gouging over the Christmas holiday weekend, the IRS launched an investigation into prices exceeding federal regulations. Rather than sell at government-imposed levels, many stations said they would close indefinitely.

"That's all we needed," moaned a spokesman for the American Automobile Association.

Harold Murphy, head of the Bay State Gasoline Retailers Association in Massachusetts, said: "We can't live on a seven-cent per gallon markup." Despite restrictions, he said, many dealers were pricing gasoline for a 10-cent markup.

He said he was charging 45.9 cents for regular and 49.9 cents for premium. Government restrictions in his case set the price at 44.9 cents and 47.9 cents.

"People are willing to pay 49.9 cents," said Murphy, whose group represents about 400 stations.

He said he expected "many other" stations across the country to join the boycott that would begin "as soon as gas runs out Saturday."

Robert Jacobs, an official of the Illinois and Indiana Gasoline Dealers Association, representing about 6,000 operators, predicted a "gasless Sunday, Monday and Tuesday for the New Year's holiday."

"The overwhelming probability," Jacobs said, "is that 80 to 90 per cent of the gasoline stations will be closed all over the U.S."

Over the Christmas holiday weekend, there were reports that many stations were overcharging customers. At least one in New York city was charging 99.9 cents a gallon for gasoline.

The IRS launched an investigation and late Wednesday said that "as a result of flagrant violations" of the price regulations, IRS personnel, who had taken the Christmas holiday off, would be on hand over the New Year's holiday weekend to monitor holiday gasoline prices.

A spot check, the IRS announced showed that more than one-third of the 25,543 gasoline stations it recently checked were violating price controls.

SURPRISE PASSENGER

President Nixon, en route to California aboard a regularly scheduled DC-10, strolls through the plane meeting passengers and signing autographs. Accompanying him were his wife and daughter.

Nixon sets example; surprises passengers by flying to West Coast on commercial jet

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — The man from Washington, making a holiday trip with his wife and daughter, bought three tickets to Los Angeles on a jumbo jet for $652.92, and finished the trip driving at a sedate 55 miles per hour, thus saving the nation about 40,000 gallons of fuel.

President Nixon figured "he ought to set an example," a spokesman said.

So Nixon— foregoing Air Force One, backup jets, helicopters and other presidential prequisites — made a surprise trip to the Western White House by commercial airliner Wednesday. It was one of the few— perhaps the only—such trips by a President in office.

Nixon paid for the tickets for himself, his wife, Pat and daughter, Tricia Cox, out of his own pocket, the White House said.

With them was a White House staff contingent of 22. The 110 regular passengers on United Airlines flight 55 out of Dulles International Airport had no idea Nixon was on board until he came strolling through the plane, shaking hands, making quips, signing autographs and even, shades of the campaign trail, having his picture taken cuddling a baby.

"He was walking all over the place, shaking hands and wishing people happy New Year," said Tina Myers, 16, of Arlington, Va.

"When he got to me, I said 'You look like Bob Hope' and he said 'Yes, he's a good friend of mine'."

Julie Gilkey, 19, of Fairfax, Va., said she had been worried about a bomb on the plane because of the extraordinarily thorough baggage security check passengers went through.

"I'm glad it's you instead of a bomb," she said to Nixon when he greeted her.

The pilot of the DC10 said he did not learn the President would be aboard until an hour before takeoff, and was told not to inform the passengers. An FBI agent rode beside him in the cockpit the entire flight, he said.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald Warren said that "because of the energy crisis, the President decided to go commercial ... He thought he could, as president, take many steps to set an example in the field of energy."

Ordinarily for such a trip, Warren said the No. 1 presidential plane, "The Spirit of '76," would use about 20,000 gallons of fuel, the backup plane would use 7,380, and the three helicopters employed would use 18,000 gallons.

Waiting at the Los Angeles airport for the drive to San Clemente, about 60 miles to the south, were a Lincoln for Nixon, but Plymouth station wagons for the rest of the party.

The presidential motorcade moved "at exactly 55 m.p.h."— the administration's gas-saving speed—according to a UPI photographer who trailed the President's party. "Not 54 or 56," the photographer said, "But a steady 55," which is 10 miles per hour below the speed limit on the interstate highway they used.

6 gypsum firms, executives indicted for price fixing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's six largest manufacturers of gypsum board and 10 of their executives were indicted by a federal grand jury today for price fixing.

Acting Attorney General Robert H. Bork said in a statement the indictment was returned in U. S. District Court in Pittsburgh, Pa. He said the Justice Department simultaneously filed a criminal attempt petition charging four of the gypsum companies and four of their executives with violating a 1951 court ruling prohibiting the firms from agreeing to fix, raise or stabilize prices of gypsum board.

The criminal contempt petition was filed in U. S. District Court in Washington.

Gypsum board is a widely used manufactured building material for the construction of walls and ceilings.

The indictment and criminal contempt petition charged the firms and officials with conspiring, beginning sometime before 1960 and continuing through 1973, to raise, fix, maintain and stabilize the prices and terms and conditions of sale of gypsum board, and to adopt uniform methods of packaging.

Named as defendants in the indictment were:

—U. S. Gypsum Co., Chicago, Ill. and Graham J. Morgan, chairman and chief executive officer, and Andrew J. Watt, executive vice president;

—National Gypsum Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Colon Brown, chairman and chief executive officer, J. P. Nicely, vice president of sales;

—Georgia-Pacific Corp., Portland, Ore., and William H. Hunt, former president;

—Kaiser Gypsum Co., Oakland, Calif., and Claude E. Harper, former president and current board member, and Robert A. Costa, vice president and general manager;

—The Celotex Corp., Tampa, Fla., and William D. Herbert, president;

—The Flintkote Co., White Plains, N. Y., and George J. Pecaro, chairman, and James D. Moran, president and chief executive.

Named as respondents in the criminal contempt petition were: U. S. Gypsum Co., and Graham J. Morgan and Andrew J. Watt; National Gypsum Co., and Colon Brown; Georgia - Pacific Corp. and William H. Hunt; and the Celotex Corp.

Gas rationing plan, if needed, to allot 35 gallons monthly

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government announced today a stand-by system of gasoline rationing that would provide drivers up to 35 gallons a month but officials were hopeful the program would never be needed.

Federal energy chief William E. Simon told a news conference he has ordered the printing of ration coupons and set up basic ground rules for rationing if voluntary steps fail to ease the energy crisis. The system could swing into active operation by March 1 if necessary, he said.

Simon said one of the major yardsticks he will use to decide if the nonrationing program is working will be the length of the lines of cars at filling stations.

He declared that "three or four hour waits" at service stations "would not be tolerated."

The stand-by plan spelled out by Simon would feature flexible exchange by motorists of colored ration coupons. Those not using their supply could sell coupons to those who needed more.

Simon also recommended that high school students help ease the demand for gasoline by giving up their cars and "walking, taking buses or riding bicycles" instead.

The order to the Bureau of Printing and Engraving called for a three-month supply of coupons.

The plan would cost $1.5 billion dollars a year, if implemented, Simon said. The cost would be offset by a charge of $1 per person for coupons.

The coupons would be distributed to all Americans 18 years or older who hold drivers licenses. The number of coupons each person receives each month would vary "according to the population density of the area where he lives" and the availability of mass transit.

The average distribution would amount to 32 to 35 gallons per month per person, Simon said, but would be flexible enough to allow the coupons to be exchanged on the open market. This would head off the black market that plagued rationing during World War II.

The coupons will be good for 60 days and may be freely exchanged on the open market. The market value of a coupon will depend on local supply and demand.

The out-of-pocket cost for gasoline will depend on the number of coupons used. Consumers who limit their driving to the rationed amount will simply pay the gasoline price at the pump. Consumers buying less gasoline will be paying the pump price, but they will receive income by selling unused coupons.

Consumers who want to buy more gasoline than their rationed amount will pay an extra amount. Their price will be the price at the pump "plus the cost of additional coupons bought on the local coupon exchanges," energy officials said.

According to Simon, the buying and selling of coupons introduces a limited free market approach to rationing.

"This contrasts with the World War II system in which a large public bureaucracy was used to decide hundreds of thousands of questions about individual need for gasoline," he said.

Glendora man found slain in his home

GLENDORA — The body of a Glendora man, with a gunshot wound in the head, was discovered by police Wednesday afteroon when they went to the man's home to investigate an open front door.

The man, identified as Bertalan Antal, 38, was found lying face down on the living room floor of his home at 19645 Juanita Ave. about 12:45 p.m. The discovery was made by Glendora police officers patrolling the county area.

Los Angeles County sheriff's deputies, called in to investigate the slaying, reported that Antal, who was unemployed and living alone, had obviously been dead for some time. An autopsy is to be performed by the county coroner's office today to determine when the shooting took place.

Officials said that a number of spent ammunition cartridges were found near the blood-stained body on the living room floor, but that no gun could be located.

Homicide investigators indicated that no motive could not be immediately given for the murder and that they have no suspects in the case.

Mormon leader dies at 74; Kimball assumes top post

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Harold B. Lee, "prophet, seer and revelator" to 3.3 million Mormons, died unexpectedly Wednesday night of heart and lung failure at the age of 74.

Lee, the youngest president of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints since World War II, headed the faith for just 17 months—the shortest tenure of any of the 11 Mormon leaders.

Under a church tradition dating back to 1844, when Brigham Young became the second Mormon president, President Spencer W. Kimball of the church's Council of the Twelve would succeed Lee. He became acting leader upon Lee's death.

Kimball, 78, had major heart surgery two years ago, and most of his vocal cords were removed in 1957 because of throat cancer.

The Council of the Twelve traditionally meets in the Salt Lake temple the day after a church president's funeral to select a new "prophet, seer and revelator"—who is believed by the faithful to receive direct revelation from God.

Final rites for Lee, which will be held in the Salt Lake Tabernacle, had not been scheduled early today.

Lee died at 8:59 p.m. MST, six hours after entering LDS hospital for his annual physical checkup. His wife, other family members, Kimball and Marion G. Romney, second counselor in the church's first presidency, were at his bedside when he died.

Ontario mayor's son found dead

ONTARIO — Marcus Snider, 21, the son of Ontario Mayor Howard Snider, was found dead in a restroom of the Capri Restaurant, 1217 E. Holt Blvd., early this morning.

Police reports said the body was found about 1:18 a.m. by Max Baca, who was cleaning up the building. Police discovered a hypodermic syringe, a spoon, matches and a balloon containing a substance, next to the man's body. Police called the San Bernardino County coroner's office when it was determined Snider had been dead about two hours.

Police said an autopsy will be performed to determine the exact cause of death. The body was taken to Draper Mortuary in Ontario, where funeral services are pending.

Death toll lowest for 4-day holiday

By United Press International

The 518 traffic deaths during the 102-hour Christmas holiday period were the fewest ever recorded during a four-day weekend, the National Safety Council said Wednesday.

The NSC said the 518 toll was the lowest for a four-day Christmas weekend since it began keeping records in 1947. The previous low was 535 in 1951 over a four-day period.

Eastern to halt OIA-to-Atlanta flights Jan. 6

ONTARIO — The energy crunch has caused Eastern Airlines to temporarily suspend its nonstop service between Ontario International Airport and Atlanta, Ga., effective Jan. 6.

The airline had started the flights on May 1 and officials reported it had received "good acceptance."

The service, they emphasized, will continue through the New Year's holidays.

"Eastern is trying to cut corners because of the fuel shortage," said Adrian Mercado, senior sales representative. "We hope to resume the service as soon as possible."

The Ontario schedule had provided through-place flights beyond Atlanta to the Kennedy International Airport in New York City, plus some connecting flights from Atlanta to the Piedmont region and major cities throughout Florida and the eastern seaboard.

Eastern operated Boeing 727 jets, which could carry 98 passengers.

Airline officials had reported a 25 per cent cutback in flights throughout the system was planned because of the fuel shortage.

The fuel shortage had previously caused three other airlines—Western, Air California and PSA—to reduce their number of flights between Ontario and San Francisco, San Diego and Oakland.

Killer winds, floods loosed on East; ice jams forming

By United Press International

High winds and floods caused by springlike temperatures today brought death and discomfort to parts of the eastern United States.

Two persons died in northeastern Kentucky when strong winds swept the area. One woman died when she was hit by a falling tree limb on a Franklin County highway and a man died in Jefferson County from injuries suffered when a falling wall hit him at a construction site.

Far to the southwest, a woman died at Granby, Miss., when she and her husband and daughter fled their trailer home during a heavy thunderstorm Wednesday.

Unseasonably high temperatures and rains forced rivers from their banks in sections of upstate New York and moderate flooding was forecast. Two electric generating stations on the upper Hudson River shut down because of an ice jam.

Wilmington, Del., reported a record of 65 degrees today and Baltimore a record 62, with 60-degree temperatures extending from the mid-Atlantic coast south into Florida.

Flood warnings were posted along the Greenbrier river and the south branch of the historic Potomac in West Virginia after two days of rainfall in some sections. Some West Virginia highways were water-blocked.

Dozens of families in Mississippi remained out of their homes around Laurel and Hattiesburg, although others who had been forced from their homes near Vicksburg were able to return.

Heavy rains fell in the Pacific northwest and in parts of California, and travelers warnings were posted in Washington state and Idaho.

In West Virginia, the office of Emergency Service said between 15 and 20 persons were forced to leave their homes along low-lying areas of the Greenbrier River Valley where the river had reached flood stages. National Guardsmen were called out to help place sandbags between the river and the business district at Hinton, W.Va.

Rain, snow and swift winds, including a peak of 81 miles per hour, knocked out power lines and tore shingles from rooftops Wednesday in Louisville, Ky. One man was injured and flash flood and tornado warnings were in effect.

About 50 persons, including 30 children, were evacuated from homes Wednesday along the Rock River in Moline, Ill., when an ice jam formed downstream and backed up the river three feet above floodstage.

In Paxton, Ill., a chartered bus taking 39 people to a national religious conference hit a car and overturned on an icy highway, killing two persons and injuring 35 others.

Twisters ripped homes and house trailers in Sylacauga and Mobile, Ala., injuring one mobile resident.

From eight to 11 inches of rain fell at Laurel and Meridian, Miss., and 10½ inches of rain fell at Smith Lake, Ala.

Freezing rain hit sections of New England, snow fell in the Central Plains, and travel advisories were posted in New Mexico.

Report warns of air attack on Belfast

BELFAST (UPI) — British army spokesmen refused comment Thursday on a London newspaper report that the outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA) planned an air raid on Belfast.

The London Daily Mail said army intelligence units had warned of the possibility of IRA air attack and security forces in Northern Ireland had broken out anti-aircraft guns. Army sources here said all units already were equipped with machineguns capable of being used against aircraft.

The newspaper's report followed an interview IRA leader Seamus Twomey gave to a German magazine in which he said: "We will have commando action from the air."

Twomey was sprung from Dublin's Mountjoy prison in October by a hired helicopter. The Daily Mail said flying clubs throughout Northern Ireland had been alerted in case the IRA tries to hijack or rent a light plane.

Blue Shield under fire over claims its settlement practices are unfair

NEW YORK (UPI) — United Medical Service, Inc.—Blue Shield—has been ordered to show cause why its directors should not be fired for unfair practices in the settlement of claims.

A spokesman for the State Insurance Department said Wednesday that the directors must appear at an "administrative hearing" on the matter Jan. 11.

The spokesman said that Blue Shield has 23 directors, 11 of whom are medical doctors. He said that with approximately 6 million policyholders and $150 million in annual premiums, Blue Shield is the largest insurer of doctor bills in Greater New York.

"The show cause order essentially relates to consumer relations, specifically with claims settlements," the spokesman said. "We charge that Blue Shield was in violation of insurance laws having to do with the speed and expedition with which they settle claims."

The spokesman said that the department studied Blue Shield claims operations for several months and discovered that:

—Insurance Department personnel making 237 telephone calls to Blue Shield's claims department between Nov. 5 and Nov. 16, 1973 had to wait an average of five minutes for someone to answer the phone. The shortest interval was two seconds, the longest, 24 minutes;

—Of 2,300 inquiries made by the department on behalf of Blue Shield policyholders complaining of poor service between Feb. 1 and Nov. 10, 1973, Blue Shield failed to respond to "more than 1,000" of them within the 15 working days required by law.

—Of 300 policyholders who went to court seeking claims against Blue Shield during the first nine months of 1973, "approximately half" of a sample of 183 cases analyzed by the department were brought because Blue Shield failed to make payment, and the other half were brought because of allegedly inadequate payment. Most of the plaintiffs won more money.

Wall Street not giving bonuses

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market's disappointing performance in 1973 took a large bite out of Wall Street's profits, and many brokerage houses responded by cutting back on traditional Christmas bonuses, a UPI survey revealed.

"We're not going to be giving any Christmas bonuses," said a spokesman for W.E. Hutton, "since it appears December will not bring us up to a profit for the year." The firm reversed in 1972 its longstanding policy of giving a piece of its profits to employes at Christmas.

Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis Inc., another Wall Street giant, eliminated Christmas bonuses this year. "It's the first time in a long while that we haven't paid bonuses," according to a spokesman, "but we lost $1.5 million in 1973."

E.F. Hutton & Co. Inc. gave a bonus to its clerical employes, but others went empty handed. "As of Sept. 30, we had only a modest profit," said chief financial officer Thomas Lynch.

"We had not contemplated any bonus whatsoever at that time, but the fourth quarter is beginning to look much better, so it seemed reasonable to give something," he added. Each clerical employe received $100 in cash rather than the traditional gift based on length of service.

Blyth Eastman Dillon & Co. Inc. did not give its employes even the nominal amount it usually dispenses for Christmas. "We hope to more than make up for the lack of our Christmas bonus by waiting two more months," a spokesman said, "since the picture is looking a lot brighter and we can do more justice to our employes."

Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, Inc., the nation's biggest brokerage, revamped its salary and Christmas bonus policy in 1972. "Last year we phased out the bonus and reevaluated all salaries," said a spokesman. The company rescaled pension and hospital benefits and all full-time employes participate in cash profit-sharing, he said.

Ellsberg burglary hearing postponed

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A postponement was granted Wednesday for a pretrial hearing in the burglary and conspiracy case of John Ehrlichman, G. Gordon Liddy and David Young.

Lawyers for the defendants agreed in a session in the judge's chambers to allow the prosecution more time to turn over to the defense a list of planned prosecution witnesses. The hearing was rescheduled for Jan. 14. The trial is scheduled to begin April 15.

Ehrlichman, former top aide to President Nixon; Young, a former National Security Agency official, and Liddy, a convicted Watergate conspirator, are on trial for allegedly giving the orders that sent a team of White House "plumbers" to break into the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist during the investigation of the Pentagon Papers leak.

Milk industry charges not supported in W.H. tapes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Special Watergate Prosecutor's Office says White House tapes and documents do not support the charge that the Justice Department filed an antitrust suit against milk producers in an effort to extract contributions for President Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign.

The Associated Milk Producers Inc. (AMPI), defendant in the 1972 antitrust suit, had asked the courts to order the tapes and documents produced, saying they would support the group's claim the suit was motivated by campaign considerations.

But assistant Watergate prosecutor Jon A. Sale said in an affidavit filed last week in U.S. District Court in Kansas city that "none of these documents or recordings support" AMPI's charge. The affidavit was part of a Justice Department brief opposing disclosure of most of the materials, although the department said it was willing to produce some for the private inspection of the judge.

The Senate Watergate committee and the Watergate prosecutors are investigating allegations that Nixon increased the federal price support for raw milk in 1971 in exchange for $527,000 in campaign contributions by the dairy industry. AMPI, headquartered in San Antonio, Tex., is the largest of the three cooperatives in the investigation.

The Justice Department filed a civil antitrust suit against AMPI on Feb. 1, 1972, charging the 40,000-member cooperative with forcing milk haulers to refuse to deal with nonmembers and forcing dairies to buy only from members.

Richard W. McLaren, who was in charge of the antitrust division when the suit was filed, said in an affidavit his "sole reason for directing that the AMPI suit be filed was to prevent and restrain what appeared from our investigation to be serious violations of the antitrust laws."

Geneva talks more like war than peace

GENEVA (UPI) — With the Israeli-Egyptian military talks in a one-day recess, there were increasingly warlike statements today from both Egypt and Israel. Egypt said it was fighting a war of attrition along the Suez Canal and Israel said a new war could come at any time.

Brig. Tahal el Magdoub of Egypt and Maj. Gen. Mordecai Gur of Israel met for 90 minutes Wednesday and said in a brief communique they discussed the principle of disengaging their Suez troops in hopes it would make future discussions more productive. Officials said any concrete talks would have to wait until after Israel's Dec. 31 elections.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmi, who remained in Geneva after attending the opening round of the Geneva conference Dec. 21-22, returned today to Cairo after overseeing the start of the military talks.

Ray claims conspiracy in King assassination

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — A Nashville television station quoted "highly placed sources" Wednesday night that James Earl Ray claims he was involved in a conspiracy to assassinate Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

WSM-TV quoted the sources as saying Ray attached a statement naming several persons he claims gave him money to participate in the conspiracy to kill King to a writ mailed to the U.S. District Court here Saturday.

Federal court officials said, however, they have received no documents from Ray recently. Ray is serving a 99-year sentence in the state prison here for the 1968 slaying of the civil rights leader in Memphis.

The television station said Ray "is reported to have dismissed his latest attorney, Washington lawyer Bernard Finsterwald, and is apparently representing himself."

Efforts to reach Finsterwald failed.

Last week, state Corrections Commissioner Mark Luttrell said he had approached the U.S. Bureau of Prisons about getting Ray transferred from the prison here to a federal maximum security penitentiary.

WSM-TV said Ray reportedly did not like the idea and "reportedly drew up a writ which was forwarded to federal court in an effort to block the proposed transfer.

"Officials in the federal court clerk's office said they could find no record of having received the petition from Ray," WSM-TV said.

"However, the spokesman said Ray filed a writ as a pauper and that it probably went to Judge L. Clure Morton."

Reached at his home, Morton said he did not receive mail directly and that he had received nothing from Ray.

Tunney, wife of 15 years, divorced

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UPI) — Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., 39, and his wife Mieke, 35, were divorced Wednesday.

A decree by Superior Court Judge Thomas Bucciarelli ended the marriage of almost 15 years. The Tunneys, who separated in May, 1972, and their lawyers met privately with the judge for four hours to work out terms of a settlement.

The judge sealed the records, keeping the terms secret. But lawyers for the Tunneys said she would continue to live in their Washington, D.C., home, and would have custody of their three children, ages 6 to 12, with Tunney to have custody every other weekend and half the summer.

Getty III now has a bodyguard

IGLS, Austria (UPI) — Described as "very down, almost crying," J. Paul Getty III, ransomed grandson of the American oil billionaire, now skis with a new companion—a huge bodyguard.

Getty, his mother, Gail Harris, two girls, another youngster and the bodyguard went skiing Wednesday after arriving at a hotel in Igls, five miles south of Innsbruck, Monday night.

"He was very down, almost crying," a television cameraman, who pursued the youth on the slopes, said later.

Millionaire asks for financial aid

CHICAGO (UPI) — Walter Judd Kassuba, who built a family real estate business in Milwaukee into a $550 million nationwide empire of apartments and condominiums, has asked U.S. District Bankruptcy Court for financial help, it was learned Wednesday.

Kassuba, 39, asked the court Friday to prevent creditors from making collections against his companies pending a reorganization of his finances. The petition said he was unable to meet an $800,000 payroll and $1.2 million in accumulated debts without the court's help.

Kassuba and his wife, Christina, residents of West Palm Beach, Fla., are owners of a coast-to-coast string of 119 housing projects catering to more than 40,000 middle income group tenants.

Self-help advocate sentenced to jail

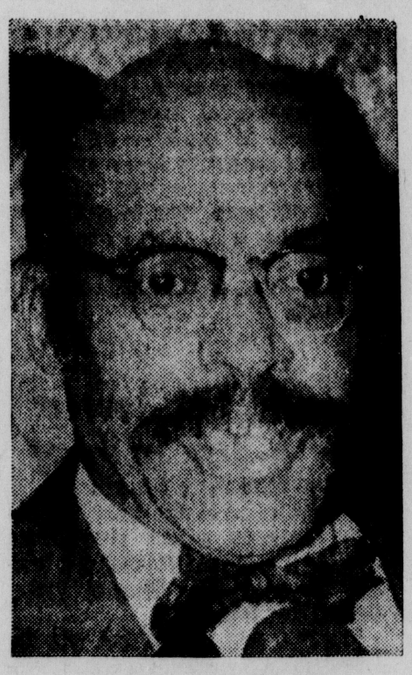

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dr. Thomas Matthew, who gained national fame as a strong supporter of President Nixon and as head of a self-help program for black Americans, was free on $25,000 bail today after being sentenced to up to three years in jail for misuse of Medicaid funds.

Matthew, 49, a neurosurgeon, was convicted by a jury last Nov. 7 on 71 counts of grand larceny. He had been charged with diverting $200,000 in Medicaid funds from one NEGRO (National Economic Growth and Reconstruction Organization) project, Interfaith Hospital in New York City, to other NEGRO enterprises, many of which failed. He also was accused of spending hospital money for trips to the Soviet Union.

Matthew was also convicted and sentenced to six months in jail for failing to file a federal income tax return for 1963. He served less than two months of the sentence at the federal penitentiary in Danbury, Conn., before Nixon commuted his jail term.

Boozed up TV projectionist puts on early morning sex show for viewers

PITTSBURGH (UPI)— Early morning television viewers were treated to some unscheduled stag films on a local cable TV station Tuesday between regularly scheduled feature-length films.

The "blue" show ended shortly after 3 a.m., however, when police in nearby North Versailles Twp. responded to complaints from viewers and arrested the projectionist at the Valley Cable TV Co.

Police said Glenn Kucera, 21, of North Versailles Twp., was arrested under the obscenity section of the Pennsylvania criminal code and faces a hearing Jan. 4.

"He (Kucera) reportedly announced on the air that he was drunk and would show the films until 5 or 6 a.m. unless someone called the police," said North Versailles Police Chief Clifton Stumme.

Martin Barach, manager of the 6,000 subscriber station, fired Kucera Tuesday and apoligized to viewers phoning to protest.

But, Barch added, "We have had a few calls from people who wanted more of the same."

2-car crash hospitalizes passenger

POMONA — A 20-year-old Montclair man is in good condition today at Pomona Valley Community Hospital with facial injuries sustained Wednesday afternoon in a two-car accident at the corner of Palmgrove Avenue and James Place.

Derek Paul Niebergall of 4488 San Bernardino St., Montclair, was injured when the car he was a passenger in, driven by his brother Clifford, collided with a vehicle driven by Mrs. Amanda Gray, 51, of 1839 Singingwood Ave.

Mrs. Gray suffered minor injuries and was treated and released at the hospital.

Both drivers, said police, apparently entered the intersection, which has no traffic control signs, at the same time and failed to see one another.

TV shop owner runs for council

CHINO — Robert Bertschinger, owner of a television repair shop, filed papers of nomination late Wednesday afternoon as a candidate for City Council.

Pistol found in car; youth, 17, arrested

POMONA — A 17-year-old Pomona youth was arrested on suspicion of armed robbery Wednesday night following the discovery of a .45-caliber pistol in the car he was riding in.

According to police, the suspect was one of two youths taken into custody after their vehicle was stopped and searched in the 1000 block of E. La Verne Avenue. The weapon was discovered in the center console of the older model car.

Police said the vehicle was stopped after it was observed leaving the 2300 block of Logan Street, where gunshots had been reported fired.

Recent armed robbery reports revealed that the youth fit the general description of armed robbery suspects that had used a .45-caliber handgun.

The other youth was released.

Registration deadline for cars is Feb. 1

The deadline for vehicle registration renewal payments is Feb. 1, not Feb. 4 as previously reported.

An estimated 15 million vehicles will be registered in California during 1974. Vehicle owners are asked to mail their registration forms to their local Department of Vehicle office for prompt return.

Christmas cheer sends 47 to jail

CLAREMONT —Many motorists who celebrated Christmas with too much cheer had some sobering thoughts in jail.

The California Highway Patrol reported arresting 47 drunken drivers in the Pomona Valley from Friday at 6 p.m. until midnight Wednesday.

This was eight more than were arrested during the same period last year, said Capt. W. C. Jones, area commander.

Officers reported one traffic fatality during the period. There were no fatalities last year.

This Christmas period, however, was marred by fewer traffic accidents and fewer persons injured. Officers reported five injury accidents with 10 persons hurt and 13 accidents involving only property damage.

During the previous Christmas period, there were 14 injury accients with 22 persons hurt and 12 accidents involving property damage.

Rainless, cool days to continue

A moderately weak storm front moving south from Northern California is not expected to bring rain to Pomona Valley today or Friday, according to the National Weather Service.

Temperatures are to continue cool. Skies night and morning will be darkly overcast, but hazy sunshine will break through during the afternoons, the weatherman said.

Highs of 60 are predicted for both today and Friday. A low of 41 is expected tonight. Wednesday's high was 65. The low this morning was 40.

Comets subject at planetarium

AZUSA — "Comets — Mysterious Visitors" will be the subject of Thursday shows during January at the Citrus College Planetarium, beginning at 7 p.m.

The comet Kahoutek, which will be visible during January, will be included in the illustrated program by Kent Miller of Alta Loma, astronomy instructor.

The shows will be presented on Jan. 3, 10, 17, 24 and 31.

King of Siam

The king in "Anna and the King of Siam" was King Chulalongkorn, or Rama IV, who ruled from 1851 to 1868.

Motorcycle overturns; 2 injured

MT. BALDY — Two persons were injured early today when their motorcycle overturned on Mt. Baldy Road near Padua Avenue.

They were driving south when the cycle left the roadway and ran onto a dirt shoulder where the driver lost control, said highway patrolmen.

Ricky Mascho, 20, of 605 Gayville Drive, Claremont, the driver, and Victoria J. Monte, 19, of Azusa, a passenger, were taken to Pomona valley Community Hospital.

Mascho was later referred to Kaiser Hospital in Fontana, while the passenger was treated and released.

Suspect held in new case

ONTARIO — A 25-year-old Pomona man, already scheduled for a preliminary hearing on a charge of rape in West Valley Municipal Court today, was arrested by Ontario police Wednesday night on suspicion of raping yet another woman during the past week.

Robert Hurtado of 1437 W. Holt Ave. in Pomona was booked in the West End Jail Wednesday night on suspicion of rape after a 44-year-old woman reported being held five days against her will and raped numerous times.

The woman said the suspect threatened her with a knife.

Hurtado today was to appear for preliminary hearing on another rape charge lodged against him earlier this year by a 54-year-old Ontario woman. The woman, in that case, alleged that the suspect held her in a hotel room overnight and raped her numerous times. She claimed the suspect threatened her with a knife.

Caretaker, officer battle for life with enraged deer

FORT SMITH, Ark. (UPI) — Louis S. Hope and his wife noticed the gate right away. It had stood eignt feet tall, but was kicked and torn open, almost ripped from its hinges. So began a Christmas horror tale.

They had been visiting relatives when they pulled into the driveway of their home in Kay Rogers Park where Hope is a caretaker.

Next to their home was the deer pen, and gone were his four-point buck and two does. Hope, 69, followed tracks back into the woods. He glanced up at the sound of the snort and saw the wild, mad eyes of the buck as it charged into him, pitching him up and crashing him into the ground.

"What do you think when you see your husband fighting for his life," Mrs. Hope said Wednesday. "I guess I was yelling, and calling for help, but no one heard me, so I ran into the house and caled the poice.'

Stunned, Hope turned over and groggily saw the buck charging again. Like a cowboy bulldogging a steer Hope grabbed its horns on the second charge. He was bleeding from where the horns had hit him in the arms and legs and where the hoofs had trampled him on the first charge. That was what patrolman Johnny Rollins of the Fort Smith police department first saw when his car skidded to a halt in the driveway.

The deer forced Hope back onto the ground, and although Hope held on tightly, the deer's horns pressed against his chest and side as the buck struggled for solid ground that would give him leverage.

Rollins ran over and kicked the deer over and over and then grabbed him around the neck, jerking and pulling him away from the older man. The deer turned away from Hope, shook off Rollins and charged.

"I played three years of high school football and never got hit that hard," said Rollins. Wildly the buck crashed into Rollins and Hope staggered to his feet and tried to run away.

The buck pawed and struck Rollins and then backed off for a second, seemingly undecided as to whether to pursue his new foe or finish off the old man. Rollins, flat on his back and bleeding, unsnapped his service revolver and fired three times, each shot striking the buck. The deer took a step toward his pen, buckled and fell dead.

Rollins and Hope were treated for dozens of cuts, bruises and abrasions at a Fort Smith hospital and released.

Hope, a retired lineman for Oklahoma Gas & Electric Co., was recovering in his bed at home.

"He's sore and stiff and can't come to the phone," his wife said Wednesday as she retold the story. "He hopes to be up and around in a few days though.

The game warden had given them the deer to keep and they'd come across some other animals and were thinking about starting a small zoo.

"But we're through with deer now, I'll tell you for sure," she said. "We had him for three years. You never know."

4 Pomonans arrested on burglary charges

MONTCLAIR — Four Pomona men who police said were stealing automotive equipment from the J. C. Penney Automotive Center in the Montclair Plaza Wednesday night were booked in the West End Jail this morning on suspicion of burglary.

Arrested on the burglary charges at the automotive center were Alvin Le Roy Johnson Jr., 18, of 2504 Tampa St., Pomona; Robert Dennis Lake, 19, of 2057 Titus Ave., Pomona; and Donald Lee Hamilton, 21, and his 18-year-old brother Glen David Hamilton, both of 483 Pembrook St., Pomona.

According to police reports, Montclair Police Reserve Officers Larry Campbell and Bill VanDivers were on burglary and theft prevention patrol in the plaza parking lot when they observed the four men entering and then leaving the automotive center with items under their coats. The reserve officers called regular police officers to the scene.

Police said it appeared that the four men were taking turns distracting the clerks in the busy store while the others would steal the items. A search of the suspects' car revealed a stolen eight-track stereo tape deck, an FM stereo receiver, a speaker system and a set of shock absorbers stolen from the store.

Six perish in Florida home fire

UMATILLA, Fla. (UPI)—A 72-year-old man and five of his grandchildren burned to death Wednesday when an oil heater exploded spewing flames through his two-bedroom frame home.

Gus Herman Wilkerson, the grandfather, ran from the flaming house, turned on a garden hose and pulled it back inside in a futile attempt to battle the fire, witnesses said.

Firemen said Wilkerson apparently dropped the hose just inside the house and never emerged. His body was found inside along with the bodies of Arthur W. Wilkerson, 4; Kenneth W. Wilkerson, 3; Willie Mae Wallace, 4; Teresa Michelle Wallace, 3, and Joseph Leonard Wallace, 4 months.

Dollar shows strength in Europe marts

LONDON (UPI) — The U.S. dollar soared to a six-month high in Frankfurt today and opened strongly on other European money markets. The price of gold held firm.

The dollar leaped to 2.686 marks in Frankfurt as trading opened, the highest rate since June. Between June and today it had sunk as low as 2.28 marks to the dollar.

One dealer said today's dollar gain probably was prompted by Arab oil producers' decisions to limit oil production cutbacks. He said the market was "very quiet with almost no trading."

In Zurich the dollar opened very strongly at 3.225 Swiss francs, up from 3.19 francs on the last previous trading day.

The dollar opened in Brussels at an unchanged 41.20 Belgian francs, and held firm on the two-tiered French market. There, the official commercial dollar began the day at 4.7225 francs and the financial dollar used by tourists at 4.83 francs, a slight drop.

London's currency market reopened after the Christmas holiday by marking the dollar down slightly against the pound. Today's rate was $2.3095 to the pound.

Gold opened in London and Zurich at $107.25 an ounce, no change from previous trading sessions.

Dymally says he'll run for lt. governor

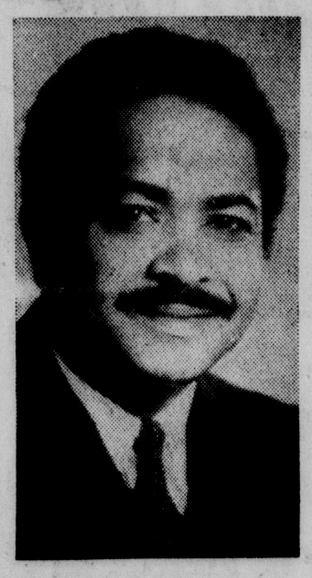

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Accusing the Reagan administration of being "indiiferent" to the people's needs, Sen. Mervyn M. Dymally of Los Angeles has formally announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor.

Dymally, 47, the first black elected to the state Senate, Wednesday disclosed he already has raised about $105,000 in campaign contributions and expected to spend about $300,000 during his primary election campaign.

"The sad fact is the executive branch of our state government is not under control," Dymally told news conferences at Los Angeles, San Francisco and Sacramento. He said many state agencies cater more to special interest groups than to the "public interest."

"I know that an aggressive lieutenant governor can convert our lethargic and indifferent state government into a capable and active government, with the ability to respond quickly to the needs and wants of this growing population," Dymally said in his formal announcement at the three cities.

Dymally said he did not think race would be a factor in his campaign.

SEN. MERVYN DYMALLY

"Anyone who is aspiring for a public office in California must be articulate enough to represent Watts and Orange County at the same time," he said.

Dymally said in Sacramento he viewed himself as a "voice of reconciliation between rich and poor, black and white" and other groups in California.

Open space issues not ready for action by Walnut City Council

By ED PRATHER
P-B Staff Writer

WALNUT — It was not a night for the settling of vital issues Wednesday at the Walnut City Council meeting.

Two important open space-recreation items, the Environmental Resources Management Element (ERME) and the Winnett Ranch Community Park proposal, were to have been acted upon at the meeting, but were not.

In the case of the Winnett Ranch proposal, a feasibility report and preliminary plan prepared by Lampman and Associates was to have been delivered to the council for its consideration.

City Manager Andy C. Lazzeretto told the council, however, that Fred Brooks, of Lampman and Associates, who was to deliver the report was unable to be in attendance because of transportation problems.

In addition, Lazzeretto told the council that there was not enough time, even if the report on the 80-acre site was on hand, to place a bond proposal on the March 5 municipal election ballot.

That drew the ire of Councilman William Cotton, who tersely commented that the city had not "performed very well" on the matter. Mayor Richard Laughter countered, however that the March 5 target date was not reasonable.

As Lazzeretto explained, the city will now continue with the feasibility study and, hopefully, qualify the matter for the ballot next June. Preliminary reports have estimated that approximately $700,000 in bond money would be required to purchase and develop the Winnett Ranch Park site.

Council discussion of the ERME, which was also prepared by Lampman and Associates and which includes the city's open space, conservation and recreation plans, became bogged down over whether proposed policy statements would require universal compliance on the part of all developers.

Charles Stapleton of Lampman and Associates, delivered the report to the council and explained that the policy statements and action program suggested in the ERME were only general guidelines, and that specific implementation of the various proposals would require the passage of city ordinances.

"The City of Walnut has a lot at stake," said Stapleton in reference to the extensive open areas in the city. "Not many cities have this opportunity. It (ERME) is ambitious, but a target to shoot at."

Councilman Cotton repeatedly questioned the enforceability of such policies as returning water runoff to the underground waer basin, or restricting developments due to the type of soil on a particular site.

City Attorney Samuel Siegel stated that such policies could be enforced by the city when deemed practicable.

While the public hearing on the ERME failed to generate any public imput, and although state law technically requires that the conservation and open space plans be in effect Jan. 1, the council nevertheless continued the matter to the next council meeting on Jan. 9.

SNOW FUN — A man and his dog take a stroll along a hill beneath a barren tree in 12 inches of snow which fell recently in St. Louis. The snowfall was the heaviest recorded in a century for the area.

Dog bite settlement cuts off welfare aid

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — The Connecticut Supreme Court has ruled a 10-year-old boy could not receive welfare benefits because he received $14,000 compensation for a dog bite at the age of three.

The court said that Everett C. Langs of Hartford was disqualified from welfare benefits because the $14,000 he received from a negligence suit was enough of a resource for the boy's support.

The suit was brought by his mother, Jannie Langs who said the money should be set aside for her son's education and his welfare status remain unaffected.

Dissenting from the opinion, Associate Justice Joseph W. Bogdanski held the judgment was simply a restoration of the boy's condition before the dogbite. The severance of welfare payments "results in a misallocation of his personal injury award solely because of his mother's poverty," Bogdanski said.

The Supreme Court decision erases the appeal and stops welfare payments to the child.

"This court should not substitute its judgment for that of the commissioner," Associate Justice Herbert S. MacDonald wrote in the majority opinion.

Build in trouble spots

Disaster relief leads victims to shun insurance

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal disaster relief is now so generous that it discourages homeowners and businessmen from buying insurance and encourages them to build in trouble-prone areas, a University of Pennsylvania economist said Wednesday.

In fact, some individuals have come out of recent natural disasters in far better financial shape than they were before, according to a study by Prof. Howard Kunreuther, who teaches management at Pennsylvania's Wharton School of finance and commerce.

In one extreme case, said Kunreuther, a motel owner in Fairbanks, Alaska, whose property suffered $140,000 in damage during an August, 1967 flood, was able to borrow $894,000 from the government at 3 per cent interest for a 30-year period. The conventional loan rate at the time was 7 per cent.

"It is no surprise to find residents of Anchorage and Fairbanks saying that the (1964) earthquake and flood are the two best things that have happened to Alaska in recent years," Kunreuther said.

After a 1971 California earthquake, many homeowners asked for federal funds to repair damage that was not even caused by the quake —and frequently got even more than they asked, Kunreuther said.

After 1972 floods caused by Tropical Storm Agnes, Congress passed laws that in effect gave $5,000 free to victims and allowed them to borrow up to $200,000 more at 1 per cent interest. The result was to swell total claims to almost $2.6 billion this year —more than the past six years put together.

At the same time, Kunreuther said, Pennsylvania residents hit by the storm declined to buy readily available federal flood insurance, and many rebuilt in flood-prone areas despite the fact other land was available.

"The cost of repairing damage from natural disasters is now being treated as a public responsibility," he said. "The general taxpayer is being burdened with an increased role in financing recovery ... despite the availability of insurance, of sites in less hazard-prone areas and of construction methods that will reduce losses."

Korean leader will not tolerate defiance

SEOUL (UPI) — South Korean Premier Kim Jong-Pil said Wednesday the government will not tolerate any defiance of the current ruling system in South Korea, including demands for constitutional revision.

There were recent nationwide anti-government demonstrations by students and some religious groups seeking such reforms.

In a nationwide radio-television speech, Kim said any challenge to the present political system goes against the basic setup of the state designed to protect the country from Communist threats.

"Though it is said that this is an era of peaceful coexistence, it is an illusion to think that there will be no war in Korea," Kim said. "The North Korean Communists do not subscribe to peaceful coexistence."

Kim said political and social stability must be maintained in South Korea in any event. He said the South Korean people should keep in mind that the Communists, who are located only 30 miles north of Seoul, would take advantage of political and social confusion to create what they call a "revolutionary atmosphere."

"If there are upheavals in our country, dialogues with the North cannot make any progress," Kim said.

"Since students and religious people showed signs of unrest this past fall, the North Korean side has been stalling the South-North dialogues, hoping to mark time and take advantage of it for the creation of a revolutionary atmosphere."

Kim said students and religious people may have taken their actions out of good will, but the North Koreans are trying to gain from such confusion and therefore South Korea must secure stability first.

Kim said: "There are people in the country who seek a constitutional revision and the restoration of democracy, and stage a signature collection campaign.

"And some people are circulating a rumor that the nation will face a crisis in next March or April.

"An argument for a constitutional amendment and such actions as described above are factors of social unrest," Kim said.

"We should not create such factors of unrest but seek a common forum of dialogue among ourselves. We should forego seeking turbulence and upheavals, and for the sake of the people, the government will be cracking down on any factors of unrest."

The great oil puzzle

Arabs talk of cutbacks but ship loadings rise

By NEA-London Economist News Service

LONDON (LENS) — The evidence from shipping statistics seems directly contrary to the belief that there has been a 20 per cent cut in Arab oil production. It does lend some credence to the assurances of the Prime Minister that Britain is not desperately short of oil.

An observer near a British port said last week that he had never seen so many supertankers waiting to unload. The oil companies are using them as floating stores, just as they are paying some garage owners to keep their tanks full.

The oil-buying public, and this applies to governments too, are in the oil firms' hands. While the Arabs say that Britain's supplies are secure the multinationals consider that they have the responsibility of running their own world system of rationing, as the chairman of Royal Dutch Shell has admitted. It is also they who, apart from the Arabs themselves, have a monopoly on information on what really is happening in the Gulf.

Little information

The only independent source is the reports of tanker sailings sent to people like Loyd's of London by their agents at the terminals.

In the first four days of December, 39 per cent more tonnage's of tankers sailed from the largest Arab terminal, Ras Tanura in Saudi Arabia, than a year before. A similar picture emerges from Kuwait, Iraq, and the Trucial States. The lowest increase in five Gulf terminals was at Kharg Island in Iran, which is non-Arab and maintaining full production and deliveries. Oil consumption has increased in the west since last year, but not by anything like this amount.

The periods chosen are based on those for which the latest figures are available at Lloyd's. Any one port might have been distorted, but the same pattern emerges from all four of the Arab ports, representing a sample of more than 100 ships.

These Lloyd's statistics only include a ship that has actually been linked up to the oil pipeline. A ship that has been refused oil altogether would therefore be excluded.

Few load problems

The Economist checked with eight of the world's largest independent shipowners (i.e., shipowners independent of the oil companies). Six said they had had no problems in getting a full load. One commented: "We have heard of problems, but we are not saying we have had any." The other owner had the world's two largest ships heading for Japan, and they did have to leave two-thirds full.

It should be pointed out that Arab oil production has been expanding very fast anyway. Saudi output was up 33 per cent in the first 10 months of 1973, and Iraqi output by 35 per cent. So the shipping evidence does not suggest that output is still rising by a staggering amount; it does raise the possibility that the Arabs may not have cut production by anything like the amount that they say.

Plausible reasons

If this is so, there is some logic to explain it. The Arab oil-producers have certainly milked the situation for the maximum political capital, without so far doing anything drastic to destroy the western economies on whose prosperity the value of their dollars depends. The oil firms may have their own reasons for going along with this. One could be that they are prepared to help the Arabs save face if it keeps the oil flowing. Another is that they have been warning for some time that there would be an oil shortage, and these warnings have been falling largely on deaf ears.

Many in the industry believe that this winter would have seen an oil shortage anyway, even without the Middle East crisis. The present situation puts all the blame firmly on the Arabs, and increases oil prices.

Price issue

Higher prices are necessary to generate investment in finding new sources of oil. But, meanwhile, are the oil companies the best people to decide how to distribute the oil? The shortage of bunkers for ships is a good example. Since shipowners usually pay the lowest price for oil, it is commercially sensible for the oil firms to cut their supplies to them most sharply now, as seems to be happening. The Japanese, who fear that half their fleet may shortly be laid up, are naturally the hardest hit because they previously screwed the oil companies for the lowest prices. Last year they sometimes paid less than the freight cost of shipping the crude to Japan. Now the advantage lies in the companies' hands.

It would be wise for western governments to play along with any deception that saved the sensible Arab governments from getting boxed into a position in which they might have to put their threats into action. Last week Prime Minister Heath's emisary in Saudi Arabia, seemd to be making offers specifically designed to get the Saudis off the hook.

Funny business

Statistics on fuel imports really hard to track down

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The author of the following article is the executive editor of "The World Almanac," which keeps annual track of various statistical information, including energy figures.)

By GEORGE E. DeLURY

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Does anybody, anywhere, really know how much oil we really have — and how much we really need? The answer is, simply, perhaps.

A recent attempt to discover the respository of energy statistics resulted in an hour's worth of phone conversations and very little more.

The trail started, naturally enough, in the White House where William Simon, head of the Federal Energy Office, is said to be seen occasionally.

Although the particular phone number had been changed, the present owner was able to provide the right number. One of Simon's assistants as on the other end and he suggested a call to John Hill, director of the National Energy Planning Group.

Hill's office suggested that "The World Almanac" talk to the Interior Department where, it was subsequently learned, Ralph Miller, chief of the data division of the Office of Energy Data and Analysis, was the proper source.

Miller, who is overworked these days, was as helpful as possible but he is not much better off than the man in the street, or the editor of the Almanac.

Miller explained that, despite his title, his office does not collect energy data but exists simply to make policy regarding that data. The basic problem, he said, is that most statistics available are too little and too late. Figures after 1971 are hard to obtain and spotty, while figures prior to 1972 often do not provide the kind of information needed.

Moller cited the Bureau of Mines, the Census Bureau, the Federal Power Commission and the Atomic Energy Commission as the major government sources of data. Industry groups collecting figures include the American Petroleum Institute, the American Gas Association and the Edison Electric Institute.

Miller denied that figures on domestic oil production and imports varied greatly from source to source and affirmed that there is general agreement on how much oil we have and were it comes from, but there is considerable debate over how much we need.

Miller's difficulties begin with the variety of measurements used. There are several basic products of crude petroleum, (gasoline, kerosene, jet fuel, heating oil, etc.) and they can each be measured in several different ways (barrels, gallons, cubic meters, etc.). But a barrel of crude petroleum is not equal to a barrel of kerosene.

In fact a barrel of crude from Saudi Arabia does not equal a barrel of crude from Nigeria. Each oil field produces different qualities and weights of crude. And methods for computing weights of barrels from different sources vary from agency to agency.

Finally, different agencies include a variety of different figures in their totals. Because the Bureau of Mines treats crude oil imports passing through Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and Guam in a different manner than the Bureau of Census Customs figures, those two agencies' totals differ.

Add all of these factors together and it's no wonder we have five different figures in two different forms from four different agencies for U.S. 1971 crude oil imports.

Miller said that he hopes data policy guidelines and consistent energy information will be available in about six months.

It won't be too soon.

Rattles & straws

Early word gets bird

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

Sometimes one encounters a meangingful ambiance that is easy to relate to, and at other times the visceral communication takes on an ambivalence that is at once subliminal and viable. Or vice versa.

As can be seen from the generally miasmatic character of this statement, the time has come, as the old year draws to a foreclosure, to chose the Word of the Year. Most of the nominees are listed in the opening sentence, if that's what it is, like the Top Ten records or the concensus All-American.

Culled from the babblings of the demogogues in Washington, the nightly Second-Coming pronouncements from television pundits, those boob-tube know-it-alls who get everything second hand, and the outpouring of the national press, these words have, in the year of Our Lord 1973, made a significant impress upon the national consciousness and vocabulary. They have one thing in common: they are meaningless.

To qualify for Word of the Year, the word must be found in the dictionary (status and acceptability) and must be just a trifle out of focus so that an on-going overview may offer a variety of interpretations. Thus "viable," a strong contender, can be applied with equal ease and obfuscation to governmental programs, the "stance" of an industry, the growth of a college art department, or the chances of Eve & Eddie's Bar & Grill making it through the year.

"Relevant" is also among the leaders, a word as loose and pliant as a leaky basketball, ready to serve the relationship of a priest to his Diety and a Madison Avenue copywriter to his ad agency. If you ain't relevant, man, you ain't nowhere.

Quoted at respectable odds in the Serendipity Sweepstakes is "charisma," a word thut sprang into popular use under Jack and Jackie Kennedy, and has since been applied to George McGovern, Mama Cass, Chuck Knox and Eve & Eddie's Bar & Grill. The word has become, in the words of one of our wordy wordsmiths "part of the national perceptual apparatus." Whatever that means. It sounds like it has both relevance AND charisma.

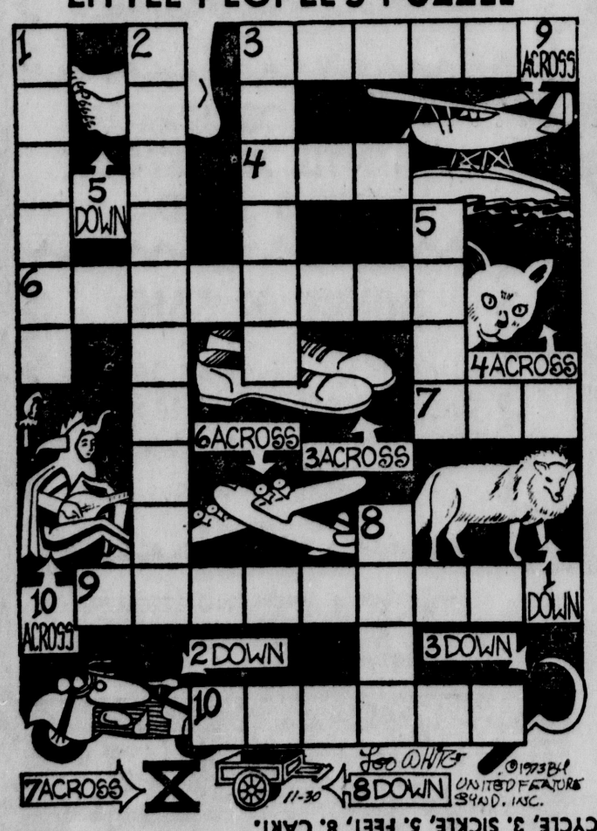

Okay, laugh. The point is, all of these words-of-little-or-no-meaning are only popular, in wide use, and of occasional interest because our political leaders, military experts, professional men and educators use them frequently, hurl them out on an unsuspecting, eager-to-follow populace. The use of empty, ambiguous and high-flown Latinate words by our national leaders is one of the qualifications for Word of the Year.

"Dichotomy" is popular; "ambivalence" has its supporters; "sublimal," "relate" and "alienated" are prime choices. "Dialogue," especially accompanied by "meaningful," can shake the world.

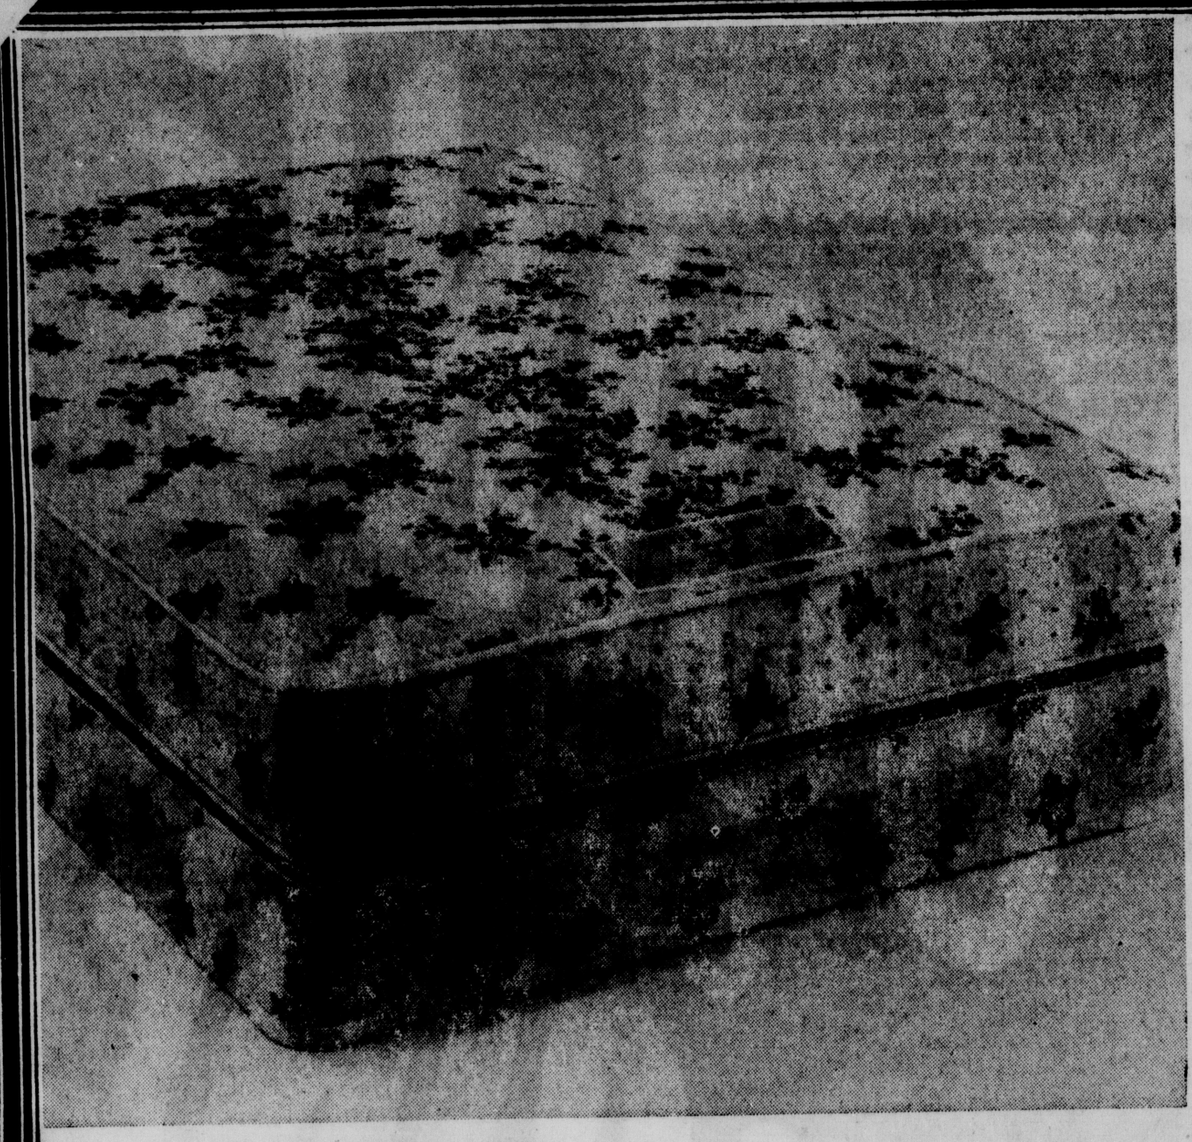

"Ethnic," "input," "visceral" — none has the hopeless inadequacy and illiteracy of "hopefully."

Hopefully literate people will give up saying "hopefully" in the coming year.

VICTIM OF "FOWL" PLAY — This great snowy owl rests at Woodland Park Zoo in Seattle after veterinarian Dr. James Foster bandaged a wing apparently hit by gunshot. The 3½-pound female was found north of Seattle near Everett and taken to the zoo by the game department. The species migrates as far south as Seattle when the Arctic food supply is short. Foster said the owl should be well soon.

Vote on political reform in California 'probable'

By JOHN BALZAR

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. said Monday it is "highly probable" that Californians will vote in June on a measure rewriting the political rules-of-the-game for state and local officials.

Proponents, including Brown, who helped write the measure, maintain it will make politics more open to public scrutiny and much more restrictive for behind-the-scenes influence peddlers.

People's Lobby and Common Cause, two public activist groups, imposed a Christmas Eve deadline on themselves to allow county clerks the maximum, 30-day leeway to count the signatures, verify them and submit them to the secretary of state.

If a county clerk is willing to do the work in less than 30 days, the groups still could submit additional signatures up until the final Jan. 22 deadline, when they must be on Brown's desk. A total of 325,000 signatures is needed. Brown then will announce whether the measure qualified.

Interviewed at his office, Brown, a Democratic gubernatorial candidate, was asked if enough signatures had been gathered so far to assure it of a ballot spot.

"It's highly probable," said Brown.

Actually, most observers said there was little doubt that the measure would qualify. In the climate of Watergate, supporters reported overwhelming response from the public when they asked: "Do you want to reform politics?"

"They've been turning in signatures periodically for months," Brown said.

The hefty, 125-page long initiative proposes dramatic changes in the business of politics.

It would limit the amount candidates can spend seeking office, based on the number of voters. Incumbents would be allowed slightly less to reduce their natural advantage in seeking re-election.

Lobbyists would be barred from making political donations, and be required, along with their employers, to file detailed reports on what they spent to influence legislation. Campaign contributions would have to be reported to the public in greater detail, and cash donations of over $50 would be prohibited. Reports from major candidates or those who spend large amounts would be subject to audits.

All policy-making public officials, appointed and elected, state and local, would have to file reports detailing if and where assets of more than $1,000 are invested if they could pose a conflict. Guidelines for reporting would be established by various agencies and departments.

California's new conflict-of-interest law, passed last legislative session and effective Jan. 1, is similar but spells out no specific guidlines. Already it has prompted some local officials to resign rather than disclose their holdings.

To tie all the elements together and give them "bite," the initiative proposes creation of a "Fair Political Practices Commission," with borad enforcement powers. Local district attorneys, the state attorney general and, as a last resort, ordinary citizens also would be able to go to court to enforce the law.

182,000 live there

The population of St. Petersburg, Fla., is about 182,000.

Now save money on gas, meat, vegetables.

"Sorry no gas," slim pickins in the meat cases and the high cost of vegetables, all point to a time of shortages. Here's a 3-part article that details practical ways you can cope with these cutbacks and still save money. One of 44 articles and features.

Russ critical of Osmond Brothers

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Osmond Brothers may be idols to teen-agers in the West, but Soviet officials see them as capitalist kids raised to be heretics by pious Mormon parents afraid of "the evil eye.'

The Christmas Day issue of the Soviet newspaper Sovietskaya Kultura criticized the pop music sensations in an article entitled "A Christmas Story."

It claimed father Joseph, a baritone singer, and mother Ellen, a saxophone player, "robbed their children of their childhood, turned it into a hunt for dollars, made them make faces before audiences, maimed the souls of thousands of other boys and girls, but with all that they still live a pious life."

It said the childrens' voices, developed in church choirs, were "still weak" and the kids would be called "heretics" except for Mormon Church's attempt to keep "in step with the times and attract more parishioners through pop music."

Ellen and Joseph Osmond may be faithful members of the church, send their children to services every Sunday, keep the boys from smoking, drinking and running around with girls trying to tear off their clothes, but they're far from model parents in the eyes of the Soviet news media.

"The parents became rich," the newspaper said. "They own a recording studio, a factory producing all kinds of souvenirs, little chains, bracelets, jingles."

The newspaper said, "Unlike other normal, average children, they cannot study at school, for they always have to be on the move."

And what kind of friends do the pre-teen idols have? According to Sovietskaya Kultura, "They dont have any friends, only admirers."

The newspaper, however, grudgingly acknowledged that the Osmond parents at least brought their children up in a proper "austere spirit," but attributed it to "fear of the evil eye."

Bridge

Finesse can nail contract

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Our old friend pessimistic Pete writes, "Here is my favorite rubber bridge hand of 1973. It sure illustrates the importance of playing safe for your contract.

"I happened to sit East. My jack of clubs was taken by South's ace. South proceeded to play a diamond to the queen and a second diamond to the king. Then he played a third and fourth diamond. I was in with the jack and had noted that my partner had discarded the three and five of hearts and five of clubs so I promptly led my six of spades. South's 10 lost to my partner's jack. He returned a low spade to my king. I led my last spade and all of a sudden we had five tricks in."

Pete's letter continues for some time, but the gist of it is that South could and should have insured his contract by finessing his nine of diamonds at trick three.

This might have lost to a doubleton or tripleton jack in the West hand, but the three notrump contract would still wheel in. Even if West shifted to a low spade the defense could not gather in more than three spade tricks and South would then be sure of the nine needed for game and rubber.

Impeachment panel denied shredder use

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Administration Committee, keeper of House supplies, has told the Judiciary Committee it cannot have a "Destroyit Superspeed" paper shredder for its impeachment inquiry.

Rep. Wayne L. Hays, D-Ohio, chairman of the administration panel, turned down a request for the machine from Judiciary Committee chairman Peter W. Rodino. He said:

"Reference is made to your request of Dec. 14, 1973 to purchase a 'Destroyit Superspeed' Series 52AM paper shredder for use by your committee.

"I have been under the impression that your committee was going to investigate paper shredding and possibly other activities hiding public business for the public rather than to obtain a shredder and shredding on its own.

"The request is not approved."

TODAY...TOMORROW 10 AM TO 10 PM

Jan. 1—a day to remember to slow down to 55 m.p.h.

By L. T. ROGERS

CLAREMONT — Jan. 1 is "D" Day for California motorists.

That's the day to decrease your driving speeds to 55 miles per hour.

And in case you should forget, there will be a full force of California Highway Patrol officers to remind you.

"We will have a conditioning period for up to 10 days, but motorists exceeding the new speed limit may be cited," warned Capt. W. C. Jones, commander of the Claremont office.

More verbal warnings, however, are expected to be given the first three or four days as drivers adjust to the lower speed.

Officers plan to employ several techniques to attain the new speed limit.

"If we see a group of vehicles going fast, we may form a convoy where a patrol car with flashing lights will get in front and hold them to the 55-mile-per-hour limit," added Jones.

"For individual motorists, officers may use their vehicle's outside loudspeaker to remind them. Or the officers may stop the violators and make a personal contact.

But those persons caught driving 65 or 70 miles per hour can expect to be cited, he said.

"The average motorist used to driving at the higher speeds deserves a warning much more than those driving trucks or cars pulling trailers."

The speed limits for the latter two had previously been set at 55 m.p.h., Jones explained.

But the important message, he emphasized, is that the highway patrol will enforce the new speed limit and those who exceed it can expect to be cited.

"I am hopeful there will be no problem and that motorists realize there is a fuel shortage and this does require drastic action."

Jones plans to have all available officers on the freeways during the initial period. This will include those normally assigned to surface streets.

A noted decrease in freeway speed has been seen during the past four to six weeks with many county, state and federal vehicles setting the slower pace.

Jones doesn't expect an increase in local traffic congestion due to the lower speeds.

"The commuter traffic for this area is pretty much free flowing," he noted. "The new speed limit may also present less weekend traffic congestion. With decreased speeds we stand a chance of having fewer traffic accidents. There will also be fewer cars on the freeway because of the limited gasoline."

The commander urged motorists traveling long distances to stop occasionally to stretch, relax or eat. The reduced speeds will make these trips much longer to travel.

Also affected by the new 55 m.p.h. limit will be those open roads in unincorporated areas now posted at 65 m.p.h.

In the Pomona Valley, these include sections of the Corona Expressway, Mt. Baldy Road, Foothill Boulevard, Brea Canyon and Carbon Canyon roads, Euclid and Central avenues, Mission Boulevard and Grove and Archibald avenues.

Veterinarians scarce; Cal Poly dean has a plan

POMONA — Cal Poly's dean of the School of Agriculture is proposing a "non-traditional" school to fill the shortage of veterinarians in California.

Dr. Fred Beckett said the state needs an additional 1,000 veterinarians "to provide better medical service for both agriculture and the millions of pets in the state."

Agriculture, Beckett said, suffers the most because veterinarians can make more money treating pets and small animals.

Beckett believes the shortage can be eased by establishing another school of veterinary medicine.

"Right now, the only school for veterinarians is at UC Davis. Even under its expanded program, UC Davis will only be able to accept 125 potential future veterinarians each year."

But enough money isn't available to build another regular school, so Beckett has proposed that students take many of the required courses in animal science from any of a number of colleges and universities.

Students could supplement this by studying materials similar to UC Davis courses, but in syllable form. A major feature of the program would be extensive fieldwork treating animals under the supervision of practicing veterinarians.

"A program like this," Beckett said, "would offer an alternative to the more than 700 pre-veterinary students who are turned away each year at UC Davis. The student would have to work much harder becaue he would have to dig out his own education, but in the long run I think he would have more experience in the treatment of animals."

Beckett has been working on the idea for the past year and seeking the aid of practicing veterinarians to develop the program.

As he visulaizes it now, Beckett said the program would feature examinations administered at a centralized location.

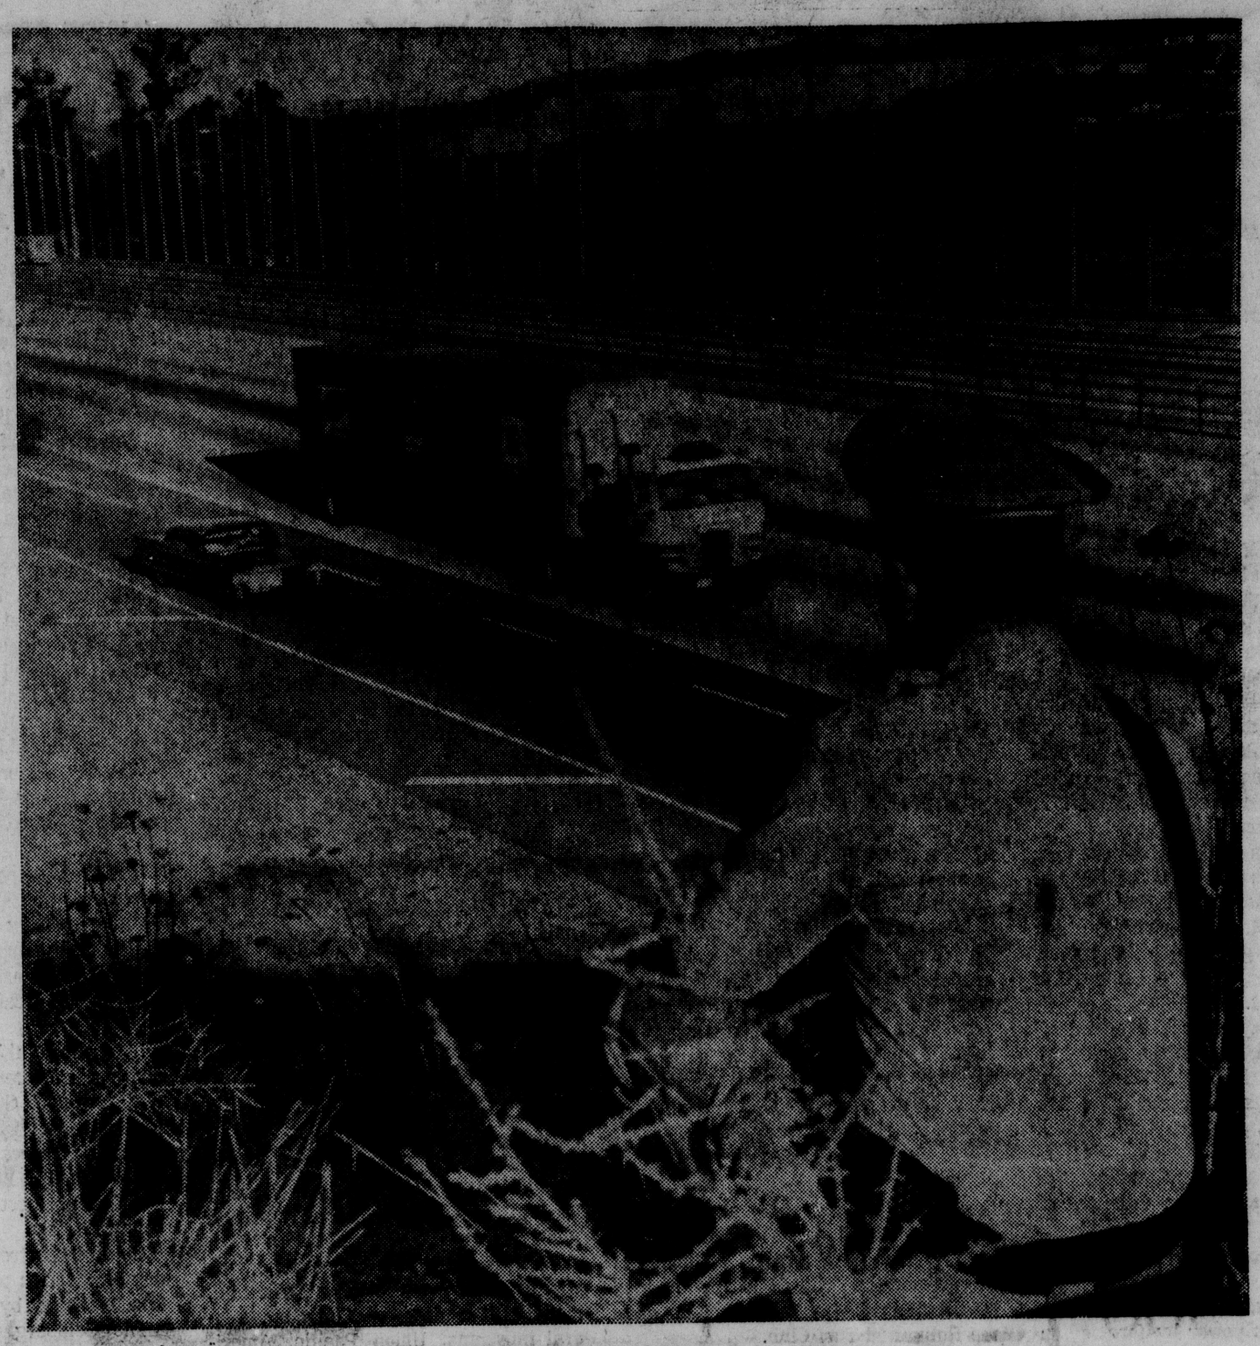

If the program were centered at Cal Poly, for instance, a student would register for the necessary courses and laboratory exercises, study the text material at home or at any college that offered the course, then return at specified intervals to be tested on the material covered.

Beckett feels that Cal Poly would make an ideal location for the program since of the 3,000 veterinarians in California some 2,000 practice within two hours driving time of the university.

Additionally, he said, the area also offers a full spectrum of veterinary practice not readily available on any single campus.

Active support by veterinarians is crucial to the idea since the practical clinical fieldwork accounts for half of the four-year veterinary curriculum, he said.

Once the program is developed and running smoothly, Beckett estimates a maximum of 100 fully qualified veterinarians could be trained each year.

A WATCHFUL EYE

Capt. W. C. Jones of the California Highway Patrol observes a truck and car on the Pomona Freeway traveling at the 55-mile-per-hour speed limit which takes effect on Jan. 1. This is the first time in many years that passenger cars and trucks have had the same maximum speed limits. Traffic officers report that many motorists have already lowered their driving speeds to conserve fuel.

Lancaster will seek seat in new district

COVINA — Assemblyman Bill Lancaster, R-49th Dist., has announced he will seek re-election next year in the new 62nd Assembly District.

The 62nd District, renumbered as part of the recent state Supreme Court-ordered reapportionment plan, includes 80 per cent of the residents of the present 49th District which Lancaster has represented since June 1972.

Claremont, La Verne, San Dimas, Glendora, Covina, West Covina and the unincorporated Charter Oak area make up the 62nd District.

North Pomona and Walnut, which are part of the 49th District, will not be in the 62nd District.

"While I regret losing some areas, I look forward to continuing to serve these people for the next year, and for the opportunity to represent residents of the new 62nd District," Lancaster said.

Lancaster, 42, considered a potential condidate for the new 35th Congressional District, said he decided to run again for an Assembly seat because he has "unfinished business" in the Legislature.

Lancaster was first elected to the Assembly in June 1972 in a special election. He was elected to a full term in November of that year.

He serves as vice chairman of the Assembly Commerce and Public Utilities Committee and is a member of the Local Government, Intergovernmental Relations and Water Committees.

Looking to the future, Lancaster predicted that "the energy crisis will be with us for some time. As vice chairman of the Commerce and Public Utilities Committee and a member of the Water Committee, I feel the legislature has an important role in assuring that our energy sources are developed to achieve self-sufficiency.

"California has many unique problems and it is imperative that energy conservation measures be developed wisely with a view of the legitimate economic, health, and safety needs of our citizens."

As the incumbent in the district, Lancaster will probably run unopposed in next June's primary. He is the first to announce candidacy in the 62nd from either of the two major parties.

BILL LANCASTER

W.C. mayor to seek 35th Dist. nomination

WEST COVINA — West Covina Mayor Jim Lloyd indicated Wednesday he will seek the Democratic nomination next June in the new 35th Congressional District. He will announce his candidacy at Monday at press conference here, in Claremont and in Los Angeles.

He divulged his plans after asking for the resignation of Rep. Victor Veysey, who announced last week that he would run for re-election in the newly reapportioned district. Veysey now represents the 43rd District, which consists of Riverside, Imperial and San Diego counties.

The 35th District consists of the entire Pomona Valley (except for the Diamond Bar area) and the San Gabriel Valley cities of Covina and West Covina. The three congressmen who now represent portions of these areas plan to seek re-election in other renumbered districts.

"Congressman Veysey has deserted his Imperial Valley constituents to find a new political home in our area," Lloyd said in a news release prepared for the press. "Since Veysey no longer wants to represent the people who elected him in 1972, he should resign to allow them to select a new representative."

He said Veysey would save taxpayers more than $250,000 in salaries and office expenses if he resigned.

Lloyd charged that Veysey was guaranteed a "clear shot" at the 35th District Republican nomination after agreeing to a scheme allowing Southland Republican congressmen to avoid primary election opposition.

Income tax return help to be offered to local residents

POMONA — The state Franchise Tax Board again has agreed to station representatives in Pomona City Hall to assist Pomona Valley taxpayers with the preparation of their 1973 state income tax returns.

City Administrator Jerrold R. Gonce reported that representatives of the board will set up a temporary office in City Hall from Feb. 12 to Feb. 15 and from April 3 to April 15. The office will be open during regular City Hall business hours.

Florists salute Lawrence Pollock

POMONA — Lawrence Pollock, owner of Pollock's Flower Shop, has been recognized for his 50 years of meritorious service as a member of Florists' Transworld Delivery (FTD).

He was presented a plaque marking the occasion by Victor Levy of Victor's Flowers in Long Beach, chairman of Southern California District of FTD.

Kohoutek topic for astronomers

CLAREMONT — The comet Kohoutek will be the topic of discussion Friday at a meeting of the Pomona Valley Amateur Astronomers.

The 8 p.m. meeting will be held in the Community Room of Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan at the corner of Indian Hill and Foothill boulevards. The meeting is open to the public at no charge.

In addition to a discussion of the comet, telescopes will be set up for viewing the planet Saturn. Saturn's rings are now in their best position for viewing until the year 2000.

Named to 'Who's Who'

POMONA — Cindy Spaethe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Spaethe of 1435 Farrell Ave., has been named to "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges" in recognition of outstanding leadership qualities while a student at the University of Northern Colorado.

Miss Spaethe, a 1970 Pomona High School graduate, is a senior recreation major at the university.

Optimist Club sets New Year's Dance

POMONA — The Pomona Breakfast Optimist Club will sponsor a New Year's Eve dance at Griswold's Pavilion in Claremont.

Tickets at $12 per couple inciude snack buffet, entertainment and complimentary drinks.

The dance will begin at 8:30 p.m. and last until 1 a.m. Music will be by The Mixed Bag. A snack buffet will be served starting at 11 p.m.

Honor students

CHINO — Principal Richard Meyer recently announced those students in group four of the all-year program at Magnolia Junior High School who earned a place on the first quarter honor roll.

Students receiving a B or better grade average are:

Eighth Grade — Jill Briggs, Elizabeth Coelho, Tony Emmenegger, Teresa Gonzalez, Janet Harrison, Steven Haston, Kelly Liebel, Cindy Lovelace, Tammy McEvoy, Richard Miller, Terri-Lee Mitchell, Karen Mitchem, Lana Nielsen, Scott Nine, Michelle Pickens, Dawnelle Roth, Debbie Tejera, Randy Walswick.

Seventh Grade — Mike Borg, Linda Borelli, Margaret Calicher, Laura Cooke, Cynthia Flores, Nancy George, David Harper, Linda Lensch, Erin Lynch, Murl Miller, Marv Saucedo, Patricia Stueland.

Culture center, shopping, housing top citizen concerns

POMONA — A majority of residents believe the city should get involved in developing social and cultural facilities, in redeveloping the downtown business area and in correcting blighted housing, the results of a Community Attitude Survey indicate.

The survey represents a random sampling of 912 of the city's 28,000 households and was conducted by consultants Lampman and Associates in connection with the updating of the city general plan.

Survey results were not adjusted to reflect an admitted underrepresentation by blacks and Mexican-Americans and overrepresentation by whites and retired persons.

According to 1970 census figures, the city's population was broken down into 69.5 per cent white, 12.2 per cent black, 16.3 per cent Mexican-American and 2 per cent "other." Retired persons of all ethnic backgrounds accounted for 7.3 per cent.

Survey returns tabulated came from 78.3 per cent white, 7.9 per cent black, 10.9 per cent Mexican-American, 3 per cent other, and 20.7 per cent retired.

Those surveyed were asked to answer yes or no whether they thought the city should be involved in improving blighted housing, beautifying the entrances of the city, redeveloping the downtown business area and developing social and cultural facilities like a civic auditorium.

On housing, the response from whites (W) was 73.2 per cent yes, 26.8 per cent no; from Mexican-Americans (MA), 90.7 per cent yes, 9.3 per cent no; from blacks (B), 90.2 per cent yes, 9.8 per cent no; and from the elderly (E), 71.2 per cent yes, and 28.8 per cent no.

Because the sampling of persons listed as "other" was small, the results are not included here.)

On the entrances, the results were: (W) 47.6 per cent yes, 52.4 per cent no; (MA) 44.7 per cent yes, 55.3 per cent no; (B) 57.1 per cent yes, 42.9 per cent no; (E) 52.3 per cent yes, 47.7 per cent no.

On redevelopment, the replies were: (W) 61 per cent yes, 38.8 per cent no; (MA) 65.1 per cent yes, 34.9 per cent no; (B) 68.9 per cent yes, 31.1 per cent no; and (E) 67.3 per cent yes, 32.7 per cent no.

On cultural facilities, the responses were: (W) 58.1 per cent yes, 41.9 per cent no; (MA) 71.8 per cent yes, 28.2 per cent no; (B) 76.9 per cent yes, 23.1 per cent no; and (E) 54.6 per cent yes, 45.4 per cent no.

Residents were asked which cultural activities their families enjoyed.

Citywide responses ranked libraries as first; theaters as second; churches as third; schools as fourth; public gardens and zoos as fifth; museums as sixth; orchestras, bands or choral groups and drama as seventh; painting, drawing, sculpture, handicrafts as eighth; dancing as ninth; rock concerts as 10th; writing and literature as 11th; and "other," 12th.

Asked to rate Pomona as a place to live, the majority of whites, Mexican-Americans, blacks and elderly said "average."

There were notable differences among the four groups in how they described their neighborhoods.

Forty-six per cent of the whites, 34.7 per cent of the Mexican-Americans, 33.8 per cent of the blacks and 57.2 per cent of the elderly said "desirable."

Forty-five and sixth-tenths per cent of the whites, 57.1 per cent of the Mexican-Americans, 54.9 per cent of the blacks and 41.4 per cent of the elderly picked "fair." The others rated their neighborhoods as "less than desirable."

The most number of whites, Mexican-Americans and Negroes said they moved to Pomona to be near a job while the reason checked off most often by the elderly was to be near friends or family.

Asked if they had found the type of housing wanted, the largest percentage of yes responses—91.4 —came from the elderly, followed by 85.9 among whites, 80.6 among Mexican-Americans, and 76.5 among blacks.

Residents also were asked to rate schools, streets, police protection, parks, street lighting, trash collection, shopping facilities, medical facilities, public transportation, street landscaping, sidewalks, neighborhood cleanliness as good, fair or poor.

Of all the returns, the largest number rated schools, streets, police, parks, street lighting, trash collection, shopping facilities, medical facilities and sidewalks as good.

Trash collection received the most favorable response. Of the city total, 73.9 per cent rated it as good, 22.6 said fair, and 3.6 said poor.

The largest number rated public transportation, street landscaping and neighborhood cleanliness as fair.

Following are some of the other questions asked and the response for each:

—Would you support establishing smaller voting districts to elect more councilmen?

(W) 35.3 per cent yes, 64.7 per cent no; (MA) 45.8 per cent yes, 54.2 per cent no; (B) 51.5 per cent yes, 48.5 per cent no; and (E) 30.8 per cent yes, 69.2 per cent no.

—How much does Pomona need more restrictions on billboards and signs?

—The highest percentage in each of the four groups was: (W) 39.5 per cent, (MA) 37.1 per cent, and (E) 36.6 per cent saying "strongly need," and (B) 37.9 per cent saying "probably need."

—How much does Pomona need a decrease in city services to reduce property taxes?

Highest percentage in each of the four groups was: (W) 55.7 per cent, and (E) 58.7 per cent saying "don't need," (MA) 50 per cent and (B) 36.1 per cent saying "strongly need."

—How much does Pomona need a plan to enforce integration of neighborhoods and schools?

Of 845 respondents, 59.1 per cent chose "don't need," with such a plan supported by more than 40 per cent of the Mexican-Americans and blacks and not endorsed by more than 65 per cent of the whites and elderly.

—Do you feel there is enough park space to meet your needs in your neighborhood?

Of 889 respondents, 604 said yes, and 285 said no, with the four groups each generally divided in the same proportions.

Asked if the city should buy more land for parks, 470 of 880 respondents said yes.

Skin-deep deeper than we think

A fellow in Fort Worth, Tex., has formed an organization called "Uglies Unlimited" to fight a different kind of discrimination.

"The blacks, the Chicanos and the American Indians have all had their day in the sun," says Danny McCoy. "Now it's time for the ugly people."

McCoy is compiling a list of employers who advertise for "attractive" secretaries and hostesses and the like. His group, which has a couple hundred members and is growing, recently picketed an airline in Fort Worth for allegedly discriminating against ugly people in their ads and application forms.

The situation may even be worse than the uglies of Uglies Unlimited claim.

In a study conducted at the University of Michigan Law School, 91 undergraduate students acted as jurors in a mock automobile negligence trial that had been recorded on tape. As they listened, photographs of a defendant and plaintiff appeared on a screen.

For some of the jurors, pictures of an attractive plaintiff and unattractive defendant were shown, while the process was reversed for a second group. As a "control" condition, jurors saw no photos at all.

In the case where the plaintiff was attractive and the defendant unattractive, 49 per cent of the jurors gave a verdict favoring the plaintiff. By contrast, only 17 per cent of the jurors favored an unattractive plaintiff, while 41 per cent of the control group found for the plaintiff whose photograph was not shown.

The average damage award for an attractive plaintiff was $10,000; for the unattractive plaintiff it was only $3,600. When no photos were shown, the jurors awarded damages averaging $8,600.

In a similar study at the University of Maryland, a professor of psychology found that a physically attractive woman has a better chance of receiving a light sentence for a criminal conviction than an unattractive one.

Dr. Harold Sigall conducted a mock trial before 60 male and female students, a third of the jurors was given a photograph of a good-looking defendant in a burglary case, another third a photograph of a less attractive woman. The remaining control group was given no photograph.

On the basis of the same evidence, the jurors gave the attractive defendant a sentence averaging 2.8 years, while the less attractive woman was sent to the clink for a term nearly twice as long.

Now that's discrimination.

Goodbye sedan

Among other accomplishments in a sweeping energy bill, the U.S. Senate has legislated the standard American sedan out of existence. If the House of Representatives follows suit, the average American automobile will be required by 1984 to deliver at least 20 miles per gallon of gasoline.

The passage of the bill may be symbolic only. Rising prices and declining petroleum supplies may accomplish the same result without congressional help long before 1984.

Would that someone could legislate the internal combustion engine itself out of existence. This polluter and consumer of resource that has too many other valuable uses has clearly seen its day.

Unfortunately, no replacement — neither an electric nor steam-powered car nor anything else — appears as a feasible alternative. Each has serious drawbacks and limitations.

Yet if we can't go all the way from the internal combustion engine to a new kind of power, maybe we can go partway — to some sort of hybrid vehicle which combines the maximum advantages and minimum disadvantages of two different power sources.

The hybrid most usually talked about is a gas-electric car. It's more than being talked about. Students at the University of Illinois, for instance, are in the process of building such a car. Their experimental hybrid has three main features:

— An electric motor operating at various speeds to drive the wheels is through a gear train.

— A small internal combustion engine driving an electric generator.

— Storage batteries, with an automatic switching system.

The car is designed for expressway speeds of 65 to 70 miles an hour and a crusing speed of 55. In cruising, the car is powered by electricity from the generator. In starts and other power demands, as well as above cruising speed, the batteries automatically kick in to add energy. Below cruising speed and while stopped for traffic or signals, the batteries are recharging.

Fuel is saved and pollution reduced by using a medium-sized motorcycle and aeronautical engineering departments have been involved from time to time on the project.

Who knows? Maybe if enough people show them the way, Detroit may get involved in something similar one of these years.

Thought for today

Some people are always grumbling; if they had been born in the Garden of Eden, they would have found much to complain of. Others are happy anywhere; they see beauties and blessings all around them. —John Lubbock, English astronomer.

Greed of oil barons created crisis

WASHINGTON — A growing number of congressmen believe that the reckless greed of the oil industry helped bring on the oil crisis. This has stirred talk in the cloakrooms of putting a government checkrein on Big Oil.

The troubled legislators contend that fuel, like the postal service, communications satellites and other government-industry enterprises, is too vital to the national security to be left in irresponsible hands.

The potentates of petroleum not only have put profits ahead of patriotism, but they have kept a tight hold on the facts about fuel. Oil executives must be brought into government, therefore, so the nation can deal intelligently with the energy crisis.

Not only congressmen but federal officials have had it up to the neck with the oil and gas industry. The Federal Trade Commission, for example, has charged Exxon, Texaco, Gulf, Mobil, Standard of California, Standard of Indiana, Shell and Atlantic Richfield with violating antitrust laws in contempt of the consumers.

Seek to curb power

Senators Phil Hart, D-Mich., and James Abourezk, D-S.D., are seeking to curb Big Oil's power by forcing the oil barons to break their hold on oil from the well to the gas pumps and to give up their interests in natural gas, coal and related industries.

Senators have also learned that oilmen have quietly infiltrated the media, universities, banks, insurance companies and transportation operators, not to mention the Metropolitan Opera, Los Angeles Rams and Boy Scouts.

An unpublished study, conducted by the Center for Science in the Public Interest, shows that directors of all 18 big oil companies hold interlocking directorships, which give them enormous influence upon just about every facet of American life. Although the report is under lock and key in the Senate, we can reveal the highlights:

—Exxon's directors also sit on the boards of six banks, including the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago. Their tentacles reach into the Northwestern Bell System; Mayo Foundation; Toledo, Peoria and Western Railroad; National Pollution Control Committee; Dow Jones; 3M; IBM; and the Committee for National Trade Policy.

Texaco, Gulf

—Texaco's directors also serve on the boards of four insurance firms, nine banks and numerous chemical, mining, drug and tobacco companies, they maintain "interlocks" with the Metropolitan Opera, two hospitals and the Hollywood Turf Club.

—Gulf, which recently pleaded guilty to making criminal political contributions for President Nixon's campaign, has placed directors in the board rooms of the Mellon National Bank & Trust, General Foods, Ralston Purina, Jones Laughlin Steel, the University of Texas and elsewhere.

—Mobil men sit on the boards of Time, Inc., Princeton and Columbia Universities, American Express, Con Ed, and about 57 other varieties of firms including the H.J. Heinz Company.

—Directors of Atlantic Richfield (ARCO) also have a voice in the counsels of the Boy Scouts, the Eisenhower Fund, the University of Chicago, Pepsico, Lockheed and the Atchison Topeka and Santa Fe. Phillips, another criminal contributor to the Nixon campaign, is represented at Campbell's Soup, Hallmark Cards, Sears Roebuck, United Aircraft, Kansas University and the Falcombridge Nickel Mines, just to name a few.

Other companies

The pattern is the same for Standard of California, Indiana and Ohio, Shell, Continental, Sun, Union, Cities Service, Getty, Marathon, Amarada Hess and Ashland.

Their directorships range into such various enterprises as New York Life, National Broadcasting Company, several museums, Union Pacific, American Automobile Association, National Biscuit, Red Cross, the New York zoo, United Airlines, AT&T and American Potato.

PAUL HARVEY

The seniors are coming to bat

Americans past 65 have been tuned out, turned down, prematurely buried alive. Americans past 65 still are discriminated against, deprived when it comes to jobs, taxes and sex. They are hit most by muggers, hurt worst by inflation and humiliated by condescending advertising.

But that is about to change: The seniors are coming to bat. The year 2000 will be here in just 27 more Christmases. By then, one in three Americans will be over 65.

And between now and then, a society which has been geared to deference to young people is going to shift gears. Our preoccupation with pampering young people will evolve into a culture concerned with the problems and the potentials of the elderly.

It's interesting to note that American Airlines retired C. R. Smith as president because he was "too old" at 70. Now the airline's in such desperate financial trouble that they've begged him to come back and run it — at 75.

Young people, seeking to "find themselves," haven't yet. One of the masterminds of mental illness and most monumental examples of mental health is Dr. Karl Menninger, at 80.

We don't all run the race at the same pace, but enough Americans are remaining alert, energetic and enterprising indefinitely so that government, merchants and society will have to relearn respect for their elders.

It has not been until the last two years that doctors, clergy and relatives have recognized the biological interests of the Geritol generation. For the first time since Solomon, we're able to talk aloud about and seek consideration for the sex drive of many elderly.

Families who have been turning away from their own kin at a time of life when their need for love is greater than at any time since infancy will no longer be warehousing the elderly. In Colorado Springs, I have previewed tomorrow: a retirement ranch.

For the able over 60, it's a lifetime home in one of the world's most magnificent natural settings.

The Cheyenne Mountain Ranch: Everything about the buildings, grounds, facilities, villas and apartments is in the image and likeness of a luxury resort. In this atmosphere, and others sure to imitate it, we'll add years to our lives and life to our years; the deplorable suicide rate for the elderly will turn around.

Arlie Hochschild, assistant professor of sociology at the University of California, Berkeley, says "The myth that older people are alike has delayed research on what some are like and what some do like, and most want to live in a community of their peers as 'independent equals.' "

With the birthrate in decline, our nation's disproportionate preoccupation with young people is tapering off; the country and the economy will now have to answer to their elders again. The bush leaguers ended their inning with some runs, some hits, many errors. Now the seniors are coming to bat.

LETTERS FROM P-B READERS

As others see it . . . letters

Reprieve for animals

I am a girl 15 years old, and I have just finished reading the article in your paper 12-23-73, titled "Animals are crying."

Your article has touched my heart very much and very deeply. I am fully aware of the fact animals are dying every day due to how people leave them when they are no longer able to care for them or care about them.

I think it is quite cruel how they treat them. Then someone comes out with another article "How to save your animals from breeding". They advise you to have them fixed, perhaps not in an article exactly like this, but many similar to this. But that is not easy. It costs money, usually more than the average family can afford with prices as they are now, so instead of doing that, they wait until it is too late.

Then you have cute puppies, many times without homes. Now after all this has happened, people say "well, we still have one alternative left, we can take them to the humane society, they will give them a good home." But this is not true, mainly because people think of the humane society after it is too late.

I don't think the humane society is all bad, it tries to do a good job with what they have. True, thev kill a lot of animals, more than most people think, but what choice do they have? True, they try to give as many animals homes as possible but it seems that there are not enough homes to go around. (Is there?) How many people do you know that have gone down to the humane society to pick out a new puppy or kitten, only to find that it costs more than they are able to afford right then?

There you have the whole reason for this letter — some animals could have had a nice warm home, but they just couldn't afford it. It's sad, don't you think? Just because they didn't have the money, the animal has to stay there, with the thought "will I get a home, or will I have to die?" Also, there are the families who want to give an animal a home, and want a pet, but can't because it costs too much.

So what I am trying to say is, "Come on people who set the prices for fixing the animals so they can have no little ones, and who runs the humane societies, lower your prices. I know it costs money to take care of the animals while they are there, but come on — couldn't you cut it down to what people can afford? Every little bit would help! — Dawn Renee Williams.

Gossip for today

Americans open their big mouths and guzzle 6 billion gallons of soft drinks a year. During that same time they will eat approximately 16 billion hot dogs and consume 350 million pounds of popcorn. And so it is hardly surprising that the average weight of American males has gone up 7 pounds during the past 7 years. In the case of American females, they managed to keep their average weight where it was 7 years ago but in order to do so they spent 50 per cent more on reducing courses and diets. In the light of such statistics it seems quite clear that although the eating habits of the American public are definitely not creating a race of super men and women, at least they have resulted in a lot of super stomachs.

INSIDE REPORT

Turning down the Zionists

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — A major effort with quiet backing from the White House is now underway to tamp down the more militant and extremist pro-Israeli lobbying in the U.S. during the Middle East peace conference at Geneva, but its success thus far seems limited.

The purpose of the move by some of the most prominent and respected leaders of the American Jewish community is obvious: to reduce the pro-Israeli political passions which have immediate impact on Congress and, through Congress, tend to harden political intransigence in Israel.

It is no secret, for example, that intimates of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger are fearful that Kissinger himself will become the chief target of pro-Israeli militants. That's because Kissinger is playing the leading role in trying to arrange for Israeli withdrawal from most of the Arab territories captured by Israel in 1967.

"They'll cut Henry up into little pieces," one State Department official told us. The fact that Kissinger himself is Jewish — but not a Zionist — is scant protection. As champion of the move to persuade Israel to agree to withdrawals it regards as militarily dangerous, he has become enemy No. 1 of the militants.

However, responsible Jewish leaders take exactly the opposite view of Kissinger. The real salvation of Israel, they feel, lies in precisely the diplomatic moves that Kissinger is now making. Anything less, they believe, will lead to a predictable fifth Middle East war with the danger of awful Israeli casualties and incalculable consequences for world peace.

Secret peace proposal

Symbolic of this view by responsible American Jewish leaders was a secret proposal for settling the Middle East conflict that Arthur J. Goldberg, then U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, sent to Lyndon B. Johnson in 1968. That plan, never published, suggested that Israel could safely return large territories seized in 1967, provided they were demilitarized: almost all of Sinai, most of the west bank of Jordan and part of the Golan Heights.

Goldberg's strong additional recommendation: enforce the demilitarization provisos not by joint American-Soviet inspection forces but by joint Israeli-Arab teams.

The Goldberg plan came in a Democratic administration from a highly respected Jewish leader. Yet its basic outline agrees in most particulars with both the old Rogers plan of 1969 (named for former Secretary of State William P. Rogers) and the plan, never publicly detailed, known to be in the back of Kissinger's mind.

In line with this view, highly responsible figures in the American Jewish community are moving to tamp down virulent pro-Israel, anti-Arab political pressures from American Jews. Success has been less than conspicuous.

In a full-page advertisement in the New York Times last week, for example, the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith attacks "a handful of kings, sheiks and dictators trying to tell America what its foreign policy should be."

Ad verged on incendiary

B'nai B'rith is a highly responsible and effective national service organization. Its Anti-Defamation League was established 60 years ago to fight anti-Semitism in this country. Yet the tone of its full-page ad verged on the incendiary.

"These Arabs would like you to believe that, if we give in to their blackmail and change our Mideast policy, everything will be just like it used to be . . Don't you believe it," it said. "Don't let the Arabs convince you that the reason for this oil crisis is America's Mideast policy. Because the real reason is profits."

Since this ad appeared in the Times Dec. 17 (for $7,000), the Anti-Defamation League has had nearly 10,000 individual requests for reprints—giving some idea of the power of the anti-Arab emotions among American Jews. It is precisely the effect of this powerful political thrust on Congress and the transfer of the same political thrust from Congress to Israeli leaders at the Geneva negotiating table that responsible Jewish leaders here want to stop.

But it seems clear now that no effort to rein in the highly individualistic, remarkably independent Jewish community in the U.S. can work. President Nixon tried it once, with his struggle to end the pressure against Soviet trade equality because of Moscow's restrictions on Jewish emigration. He failed then.

The stakes could be much higher for American Jews today, because far greater U.S. commitments—and far more damaging economic results—are tied to Kissinger's diplomatic efforts in Geneva than to Soviet trade.

C of C promotion pays off in L.V. renovations

LA VERNE — Fresh paint jobs on a number of stores in downtown La Verne have been the result of promotion by the La Verne Chamber of Commerce.

First to make a move for improvement was Dr. Robert Chaney, who owns the southeast corner of Bonita and D Street and the Chamber of Commerce building. He had the 40-year-old Mobile Oil station run by Homer Dacus returned to its traditional colors of white, blue and red. The old pumps also came in for a fresh paint job.

The paint job extended east across the front of the antique shop. Dr. Chaney had the chamber building repainted on the exterior and some on the inside. The chamber board authorized new carpeting and some new office furniture for its central reception room.

Other businesses took on the project of new paint jobs. Haines Barber Shop just south of the newly painted Mobile Station has a new look of brown and white. Across D Street, the La Verne Jewelers and Belcher's Shoe Store as well as the Tin Lizzie restaurant scheduled face-lifting jobs. The Alpha Beta Market was recently painted with shades of orange and yellow. John Knerr, before opening his Warehouse Pizza Parlour, brightened up the exterior of his building.

There has been talk for several years of getting the downtown businesses to cooperate in some type of architectural coordination but so far nothing has materialized.

The Chamber of Commerce has explored several possibilities and continues to do so. The present improvements are in harmony with suggestions made by a Cal Poly group several years ago which made a study of the entire community to try to capture the flavor of La Verne before making any suggestions. They felt that the downtown business section could very well reflect the 1890s which marked the beginning of the town.

CENTER ALMOST COMPLETED

Late-afternoon sunlight gives La Verne College's multi-million dollar student center an eerie, futuristic look. Landscaping work is now in progress on the buildings which will be the first permanent fabric-roofed structures in the country. An official opening is scheduled in March.

The Thurl Myer family now in northern Idaho

LA VERNE — The Thurl Myer family has moved to northern Idaho where he will be involved in the lumber business, in a splitting mill.

Myer has turned over the managership of his service station at Third and E streets to David Kautz, who has been with San Dimas Auto Parts for several years. He has 20 or more years of experience in the automotive business.

The Myers, while vacationing in Idaho last year, were captivated by the opportunities for a change of life style and work. He had been the owner of the local service station for 19 years and was a resident of La Verne since early youth.

Remaining on the job at the station for the present is Thurl's brother, Del, who has been with him as a co-worker and mechanic for many years.

L.V. supports child centers, is praised

LA VERNE — The City Council has been lauded by a local official of the National Organization of Women (NOW) for supporting a campaign to establish child care centers in new residential developments.

The council passed a resolution, requested by NOW and other women's organizations, supporting and encouraging the development of such facilities in "all new residential projects where homes or apartments are planned for families with children."

The resolution stopped just short of making the establishment of such centers a requirement, but Mrs. Jessie Butler, coordinator of child care centers for the local NOW chapter, was nevertheless elated.

"This is the first time any council in the state, perhaps in the whole nation, has ever given us such a resolution," she said. "It's a real move forward. The council should be commended."

She said she already has a similar resolution from the Pomona Planning Commission, but not from the Pomona council. She is now trying to convince San Dimas, Ontario and Claremont to follow the example set by La Verne.

She said women with young children would rather have child care centers in their neighborhoods than fancy frills and luxuries in their homes.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Former residents come back to visit

LA VERNE — Former La Verne residents Dr. and Mrs. Jack Melhorn and family are visiting in La Verne over the holidays. He is a former mayor of La Verne and faculty member at La Verne College. At present he teaches at the State University of Kansas at Emporia.

The Melhorns were here especially to take part in the celebration of the 50th anniversary of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Woody.

Joining them were the Carl Woody family of Taft.

Forester on leave

LA VERNE — Dene Brandt is in La Verne visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Brandt, and sister, Barbara.

Brandt is now working in Ketchikan, Alaska, with the U.S. Forestry Service. He has carried assignments in other parts of the Northwest during the past several years in forestry work.

Home for holidays

LA VERNE — Dena Pence, who has been working among the mountain people of West Virginia, is home visiting her family, Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Pence.

Miss Pence is involved in volunteer work which she chose while taking a year or so away from college.

Out-of-state guests

LA VERNE — Houseguests of Mrs. Mamie Morris are Mr. and Mrs. Harvey King of John Day, Ore., and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Anderson of Bloom, Kan.

Mrs. Anderson and King are a sister and brother of Mrs. Morris.

Students come home

LA VERNE — Among college students home to visit parents and family in La Verne are Scott Schechter and Cindi Welch from Indiana, Ethel Herbst from Kansas, Rick Flora from Texas and Dan Blocher from Colorado.

Visiting relatives

LA VERNE — Holiday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rodriguez and Mr. and Mrs. Max Moyer of Ridgeville, Ind.

Mrs. Moyer and Mrs. Rodriguez are sisters.

Guests from Oregon

LA VERNE — The Ivan Bowmans are hosts to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jess Dunning of Eugene, Ore., for several weeks.

They are also visiting Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Wolff.

Bowerses are guests

LA VERNE — Mr. and Mrs. Steven Bowers are visiting his parents and relatives here. They live in Phoenix, Ariz.

Volunteer vacations

LA VERNE — Miss Ruth Hanawalt is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Hanawalt.

After the holidays she will return to her assignment with Brethren Volunteer Service in Pennsylvania where she is a supervisor of high school youth groups. She is expecting to be present at the ceremonies on Dec. 30 in the Germantown Church of the Brethren which will mark the beginning of the denomination at that place in 1723.

Arizona visitors

LA VERNE — Mr. and Mrs. Richard Minnich and family of Sedonia, Ariz., are here visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Minnich, and other family members.

Ontario restaurant damaged by blaze

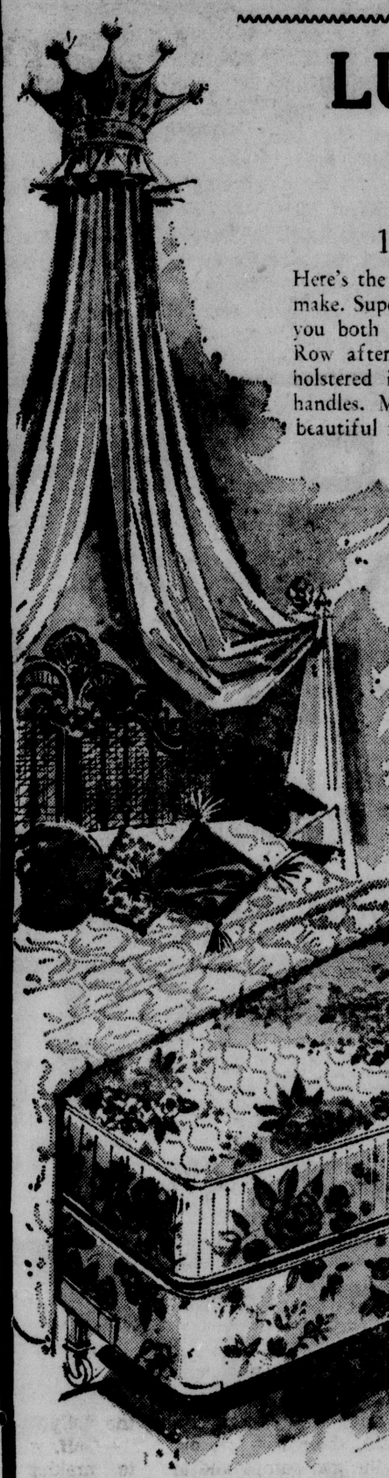

ONTARIO — A fire raced through the rear portion of the Hamburger Ding-A-Ling Drive-in at 334 N. Euclid Ave. Monday night, causing an estimated $2,800 damage to the building and its contents.

The fire was reported about 11:44 p.m. and three truck companies and one engine company from the Ontario Fire Department responded to the scene.

Inspectors said the fire possibly was caused by some trash or other combustible material placed near a water heater.

MAN OF MANY HATS — With all the shortages these days, here's one man who doesn't suffer from a shortage of hats. Dr. S. I. Hayawaka, former president of San Francisco State, made the "Tam-o-Shanter" famous during campus turbulence of 1968. As a result, he was inundated with head coverings sent from almost every part of the world. Here, he poses with a few of them. The man of many hats still maintains an office at the university, although he has not returned to any teaching duties.

Canadian oil could help solve U.S. problems

OTTAWA (UPI) — In northern Alberta lies an oil source rivaled only by the Persian Gulf. But so far only a tiny trickle is flowing to market, for the oil is almost solid and mixed with sand to form a thick sludge.

The Athabasca tar sands contain an extimated 800 billion barrels of oil, enough to meet current United States consumption for 123 years or current Canadian consumption for about 1,000 years.

But only about 80 billion barrels are recoverable with the current technology of mining sludge and cleaning out the sand—though this is still enough to meet U.S. demands for a decade or current Canadian use for a century. About 300 billion barrels are close enough to the surface to be exploited in the foreseeable future.

The problem with the tar sands is the high cost of building and operating plants to extract oil from them. Until events this year sent oil costs skyrocketing, it had been thought that major development of the tar sands would not be really profitable for another 10 years.

The National Energy Board refuses to even count the tar sands in estimates of Canada's oil potential except to the extent that capital has been invested for extraction plants. Their estimates of Canada's oil potential from conventional sources—mainly off the east coast and in the Arctic—are about 80 billion barrels.

Nearly all of Canada's current domestic oil production is from Alberta and Saskatchewan conventional oil fields which are already at near peak development and are expected to decline by the 1980s. Present output is 2 million barrels per day.

The only plant currently producing from the tar sands is the Great Canadian Oil Sands Ltd. plant, in operation since 1968. The operation, originally expected to cost $200 million, has run into numerous difficulties and so far has cost $545 million.

The plant produces 45,000 barrels per day of high-quality synthetic crude oil"—actually a semi-refined produce with no sulphur and no residual oils, high enough in quality that it can be used directly in railroad diesels. The company has announced plans to increase capacity to 65,000 barrels per day.

Syncrude Ltd., a company organized by U.S. oil companies with the support of the Alberta government, has announced plans to build a second plant with a capacity of 105,000 barrels per day. It is scheduled to begin operation in 1977 at a capital cost of between $900 million and $1 billion.

Shell Oil Ltd. has applied for permission to build a third plant, which it says will cost only $700 million to produce 100,000 barrels per day. It expects to begin construction in 1976, start partial production in 1980 and reach full production in 1982.

All these plans would add up to production of a mere 270,000 barrels per day in 1982—little more than one-eighth of Canada's current production and all likely needed to supplement expected shortfalls in domestic production from conventional sources.

However, the Middle East war brought new attention to the potential of the oil sands. Rapidly escalating costs have made them attractive to investment, and they offer a secure source of supply for the North American market in comparison to the Middle East.

Both Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau and Alberta Premier Peter Lougheed have announced intentions to accelerate development of the tar sands. The federal government has pledged a minimum of $40 million over the next five years to develop new technology for extracting the oil.

New applications

NASA giving food industry clues

NEW YORK (UPI) — Lessons learned in feeding astronauts aboard the various Apollo spacecraft and the Skylab may have significant applications in the food industry.

Hospital feeding is one area. Eventually, lessons learned in space may be important in preparing foods for campers and vacationers, for boaters, for people engaged in scientific and other explorations in remote areas and, to some extent, the military.

This is the conclusion of Dr. Robert Pavey, a Cornell University-educated nutritionist who has had overall direction at Swift & Co., Oak Brook, Ill., of preparing foods and menus for the astronauts in the Apollo and Skylab ventures.

Whirlpool Corp. of St. Joseph's, Mich., was the prime contractor on both programs, and Swift obtained the subcontract to supply all the meat and meat-related foods and some vegetables and fruits.

"A great many other companies were drawn in the program," Dr. Pavey said. "Pillsbury for baker products; Oregon Freeze, dried Products; General Foods, Kraft and many others."

It was a big jump from the pouched, liquified foods sucked through straws by the astronauts on the early space trips to the variegated stock of 70 virtually fresh foods enjoyed by the crew of Skylab. In the process, much was learned, Dr. Pavey told United Press International.

Not all that was learned concerned the food itself. For example, work with officials of the National Space and Aeronautics Administration helped Dr. Pavey develop a compact, insulated combination stove and table that can hold unmelted ice cream next to a steaming main course. Another mechanical development was an improved warmer tray that could have a revolutionary effect on the preparation of meals for airliner passengers and in schools and other institutions.

Dr. Pavey said the program developed more variety in five kinds of foods that have special clinical nutritional applications. These are:

—Formula foods—used for "nutrification" of patients and convalescents who refuse most regular foods. They can correct deficiencies quickly.

— Fortified foods — adding potassium to orange juice, for example, or adding some other mineral or vitamin designed to combat a specific medical problem.

—Bite size foods—prepared to enable very ill patients to feed themselves and thus lift their morale.

— Adjustment foods — those with few or no calories.

— Intermediate moisture foods—also used to tempt very ill patients to feed themselves.

Dr. Pavey developed the Skylab menu with a staff of about 20 in a laboratory at Oak Brook. The 70 items included such delicacies as filet mignon and lobster newburg. There also was a variety of fruits and vegetables, hot dogs, chili and peanut butter.

In addition to nutritional studies made in order to prepare the food, "we learned a lot by studying the effect of our menus on the astronauts,' Pavey said. "We were happy that no one returned a fat astronaut in spite of the plenitude of food."

Congressmen sampling Nixon's popularity

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's chance of survival may depend on what Senators and Congressmen discover in the Christmas recess about his popularity with the folks back home.

Each lawmaker will be a "walking Gallup poll" according to Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott who predicts the voters will be "more supportive" of Nixon than the polls have shown.

The lawmakers have been super cautious and few are ready to stick their necks out in favor of impeachment, though fewer still are prepared to give the President the ringing declarations of support that will restore confidence in his Watergate-shattered administration.

Nixon's staunchest backers are insisting on full disclosure of White House documents to verify his proclaimed innocence in the Watergate scandal.

Washington political speculators insist that Nixon has only a few months, perhaps until April, to recoup his losses.

Some observers believe by that time there will be no more bombshells and the record will be clarified.

The President himself relays the word almost daily, in various ways, that he has "no intention" of resigning.

"That will never happen" is the strongest statement he has made on the subject so far. It was given to 97-year-old former Pennsylvania state senator M. Harvey Taylor of Harrisburg, Pa. who came by to express his support.

Part of an apparent new campaign has been to run in two or three vocal supporters from around the country each day to back up the President.

Within three days Nixon saw not only Taylor but two Texans who have staged pro-Nixon rallies in the Corpus Christi area, and the president of the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce, J. Craig Smith. to thank him for supporting ads run in Birmingham newspapers.

Nixon is also showing a greater inclination to cooperate with Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski in the prosecutor's pursuit of official documents, in marked contrast to the hostility he and his top aides displayed toward former prosecutor Archibald Cox.

His aides insist that they have seen an upswing in the past couple of weeks in terms of public reaction to the President. Nixon's legislative staffers claim congressmen's mail is now running three and four to one in his favor.

However, none of Nixon's inner circle believe the battle is won.

Most of them are banking on the President's personal psyche to see them through. "He's not a quitter," said one of his advisers.

"We're toughing it out," said another.

With the energy crisis adding to his troubles by keeping him pinned down in the White House, Nixon looks tired and drawn.

In trying to set an example to the rest of the nation, he has refrained from traveling to Camp David, his favorite retreat where he has so often rejuvenated his spirit in the past and made his most important decisions in solitude.

Japanese zoo feels energy crunch

TOKYO (UPI) — It's going to be a long, cold winter for Lily and Hanako and all indications are they're not going to be too happy.

Lily and Hanako are Thai elephants, accustomed to tropical temperatures even though the snow may be piled up outside their cavernous house in the Maruyama Park Zoo in Sapporo.

For the 10 years they have lived on Japan's northernmost major island they have never really been cold. But all that is probably going to change this year because of the energy crisis.

The zoo, like all other institutions in Japan, is going to have to cut back on its fuel useage. And the 20 per cent drop the zoo will face is going to mean less heat for Lily and Hanako as well as the other animals.

As part of an experiment to see what will happen when the fuel really gets short, zoo officials early this month lowered the temperature from 68 degrees Fahrenheit to 59 degrees while the thermometer outside registered a cool 14 degrees.

Lily and Hanako shuffled over to their huge radiator and lay down for a nap when their house first started cooling off. When it got cold they woke up and stamped around the room, much the same way humans do to get the blood circulating.

But it may be an indication of how the winter is going to go for the elephants as well as the dozens of other animals in the zoo.

Ford skis on holiday

VAIL, Colo. (UPI) — Vice President Gerald Ford spent two hours skiing in the Colorado mountains Christmas day then returned to his condominium to stay with his family.

Ford and ski instructor Dennie Hoeger, a longtime friend, have been skiing every day since he arrived in the mountain community of 2,000 people early Saturday.

"It's hard on my old legs," Ford said, "but it's just great to ski. It is nice to be up here and have some time to relax and enjoy the beautiful country."

Ford attended a late Christmas Eve mass at the Vail chapel and spent a leisurely Christmas Day with his family.

"He hasn't asked for any special favors," said Pam Conklin of Vail Associates. "He's a very pleasant person who just wants to get away from things and relax. That's just what we are letting him do."

Natural for teens not to gain weight

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — What would be the best way for a teen-age boy to gain weight? The diet is our main concern. He is six-feet-one and weighs 160 pounds. He plays football and gets lots of exercise, but still does not gain weight. He will eat any fruit or vegetable raw but will not eat them too well when cooked. Also, he does not eat many sweets or breads. Anything you can tell us that might help him to gain weight will be appreciated.

DEAR READER — It is natural not to gain a lot of flesh in this period of life. There just aren't a lot of extra calories left over for fat. In my opinion that is good. It's good for health, but maybe not for football. I'm more concerned with good health than good football.

Our bodies grow muscles according to inherited characteristics and living patterns. Most endurance exercises such as running, jogging and swimming are not designed to build large powerful muscles, but tough muscles capable of exercising a long time. You can do strength-type exercises and, by increasing the load on the muscle, gradually train the muscle and stimulate its growth. When this happens, a larger amount of the protein in the food will be used to grow larger muscles.

When the male hormones are produced in large amounts they stimulate the body to develop more muscles. That is why men tend to have larger muscles than women. Without a stimulus of this type, though, muscle growth will not occur.

Gaining weight by getting fat isn't good for one's health. Many tall, slender people are supposed to be that way. We often overestimate how much a tall person should weigh. Your boy probably has good eating habits. Developing good nutritional habits early in life is a lot more important than gaining more weight for football. I would not encourage him to eat sweets, and it's great he likes raw fruits and vegetables. If you encourage him to overeat and to eat things that contain a lot of calories, you may be training him to have heart disease early in life. I'm sure that is not what you want.

My advice would be to let nature take its course. Time takes care of so many things, if we don't try to rush it.

Rivalry has two sides

By JEAN ADAMS

WINNER-LOSER: (Q.) My sister makes me feel very cheap. Every boy I fall in love with she puts me down right in front of him. She tries to get him disinterested in me.

My parents think I am immature and my sister is great. If she is so great why am I the one that gets all the guys? I think she is just jealous. Please help me. — 16 in Connecticut.

(A.) I gather your sister is older, although you do not say so. Be understanding with her. Face the fact that having boys interested in you is not the only thing in the world. Do not flaunt boy friends before her. Do not rub it in that she has few or none.

She is probably having a hard time and probably needs help more than you do. You seem to be having it good. But your gloating over your good fortune appears to be a trial for both your parents and your sister.

NONDRIVER: (Q.) I like Patricia. She's 16 and I'm 15. I have talked to her a couple of times and she seems to like me and I want to ask her for a date. The problem is that I don't drive but she does. What should I do? — On Foot in Florida.

(A.) No doubt you have a male friend who drives. Get together with him and arrange for a double-date to begin with.

Patricia may offer to do some driving in the future if her parents approve and if you and she get along well together.

India angry over blood sale to U.S.

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Charging that 10 U.S. companies earn profits of $150 million a year in buying and selling imported human blood, India's health minister said that he intended to make it as hard to get blood from India as from a stone.

Dr. Karan Singh told parliament some Western firms, whom he did not identify, had stationed agents near Bombay to buy blood for export from the blood bank staffs of hospitals.

He said India's Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) and Interpol will be asked to investigate "the extremely serious matter so that any such racket is nipped in the bud."

Singh said a report by the World Health Organization showed 10 U.S. firms made $150 million a year by importing human blood from Latin America. The report called the profits "blood money."

He was commenting on Indian press reports that said the Western "agents" pay hospital staff members to give them blood for export to pharmaceutical companies, mostly in the United States.

The minister said under the law, the export of whole blood and blood plasma is totally banned, although some plasma could be exported.

SANTA MONICA: The pictorial presentation of Dickens' "A Christmas Carol" at the Mall and 14 Nativity scenes at Palisades Park will continue through Monday.

Retiring mom-pop grocers rewarded by customers

DETROIT (UPI) — Twenty-five years of hard work and top notch service in their small mom-and-pop grocery store have paid off for Joe and Margie Jeremias.

Customers at their Northwest Side market chipped in and gave the couple a pair of round trip tickets to Florida and more than $1,000 in spending money as a retirement gift.

"We never expected anything like this," said Jeremias, 60. "We just tried to give people what they wanted: quality, service and a fair price."

Jeremias and his wife of 34 years sold their market last month after 25 years at the same location.

The donors for the gift trip included many of the families that continued to shop at the Jeremias' market long after moving away from the neighborhood to the suburbs.

Mrs. Jeremias noted that while other stores in the area were looted and burned during the 1967 riot, their market was untouched.

"I think it's because we treated everyone with respect, even a little child with 10 cents to spend on a bag of potato chips," she said.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) A member of your family may have some unkind words about a friend of yours. She feels he has a negative influence on you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Something's going on behind your back. You won't know of it for a while. One you think to be for you is not completely loyal.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Weigh your words carefully today. Others are doing so. Be sure what you say has substance, and can be verified.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) One you will be working with won't be inspired by your attitude. Anything he does for you will be done grudgingly.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You'd be better off today not attending a social function you feel is an obligation. You won't have a good time.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Suggestions a friend has regarding changes you're thinking of are not sound. Analyze carefully before trying them.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It will take all your reserves not to replay in kind to one who behaves arrogantly toward you today. Let her sound off.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Something you might buy that you feel will have educational benefits for a loved one is likely not to be used. Save your money.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You will have to give some serious thought to a matter where you share a joint interest. All is not well.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It's important at this time that you try to balance income and expenditures. Set up a budget. Stick to it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your ideas at this time are good, but likely to fail. You'll not put forth the effort required to make them a reality.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You will not make as much progress as you should. There's no one to blame but yourself. Take responsibilities more seriously.

Your birthday
December 28

You have some loose ends to clean up this year before your track is clear. Once you get things in order, solid, lasting improvements will result.

Erma Bombeck

In reading over the public opinion poll on the "most honest and trustworthy public servants" it came as quite a shock to me to see my trash collector in the No. 2 spot. (He followed my family physician, who after three drinks I wouldn't trust with my eye examination scores.)

I certainly don't mean to imply that my trashman is not honest and trustworthy. It's just that if other housewives share confidences with him, he must be taking out more than the garbage. Ours has been an impersonal relationship, sparked only by an occasional wave and a plea, "Can you take eight cans?"

I mentioned this to my neighbor, Mayva, who said I was wrong. "Your garbage man knows you better than anyone in this world," she said. "After all, you are what you throw away."

"That is the most ridiculous thing I ever heard," I said. "I don't even know my garbage man's name, so what could he possibly know about me?"

"Everything," she said flatly. "He knew when you had that party for the Proctors by the big bag of empties and paper plates. He knows when you're on a diet because you have tons of yogurt boxes. He knew when you got your new portable TV set because he saw the box."

"That's incredible," I said. "I had no idea . . . "

"He knew when you went on a vacation last year because you only had 6 cans at the curb. He knew when you tried that new peanut butter-veal casserole that didn't turn out, and he knew when your bird died and when you shaved your legs."

"Good grief, is nothing sacred?"

Mayva leaned closer and continued in a whisper. "He knows when you file your income tax, when you pay your bills, when you're sick and when you get called to school to talk about your under-achiever. He knows what book club you belong to, what magazines you read, when you're called for jury duty, how you feel about ecology, and that you use Brand X to save money. Your trash collector knows how often you clean . . . "

"STOP!" I don't want to hear anymore. And to think I never realized what a confidence this man has kept all through the years. Incidentally, Mayva, how did you know all that stuff?"

"Your trash collector told me," she shrugged.

"Then how come he's No. 2?" I demanded hotly.

Mayva shrugged. "Because he isn't trying."

Stained teeth often mean other problems

By DR. Frank Miller

DEAR DR. MILLER: Frieda has always had a pretty attractive smile-until lately. Now her teeth are discolored and I am having trouble getting the "white" back. I know what scale and tartar look like on the teeth. She doesn't have that, just that they are discolored. Isn't there some strong stuff you can use just on a dog's teeth that will take off that stain? — A. B.

Dear A. B.: "Strong stuff" there is and it can remove stain if the stain is on top of intact enamel. Unfortunately, most dogs with stained teeth often do have tartar and related gum problems. Gum problems would certainly be aggravated or even caused by the careless use of the super-strong stain remover. Such a product is difficult to use on Freida effectively unless she is under anesthesia. The awake dog will likc it off about as fast as it is applied. In the process, she can get enough of the solution spread around to cause severe irritaion to other parts of her mouth and tongue. This is not a do-it-yourself project. Keeping your dog's mouth clean in the first place by brushing her teeth or providing harmless chewables to help keep them clean is a far better approach. When the problem is beyond the brushing stage, it's better to let a professional handle it.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I'm worried now because the brother of the cat I was recently given just died from what was pronounced to be feline leukemia. My cat and that one grew up and lived together until just this last few weeks. Does this mean my cat is in greater danger of getting leukemia too? Of course, I am hoping you will tell me it won't. — E. E.

Dear E. E.: Unfortuately, I can't give you that kind of good news. There us no certainty, of course, that your cat will become a leukemia victim but he should be watched very carefully by his veterinarian FeLV (Feline leukemia virus), a couse of leukemia is transmittable from cat to cat.

Kiddie Club is expanding at Claremont Y

CLAREMONT — Beginning Jan. 7 the Claremont YMCA will expand its Kiddie Club program to a three-day-a-week session — Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

Kiddie Club provides gymnastic experiences for toddlers 2½ to 5.

The program involves a trampoline, balance beam, motor coordination games and tumbling. Trips, indoor and outdoor play and craft activities also are scheduled.

A morning group will meet from 9:30 a.m. to noon, while the afternoon group meets from 1 to 3:30 p.m.

Tennis instruction slated in Claremont

CLAREMONT — The Claremont Recreation Department will offer a series of tennis classes beginning next week.

Three adult sessions are scheduled: Thursdays from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., beginning Jan. 3; Saturdays from noon to 1:30 p.m., beginning Jan. 5; and Tuesdays from noon to 1:30 p.m., beginning Jan. 8. The fee is $12 for eight weeks.

Adult intermediate instruction will meet Thursdays, starting Jan. 3, from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Junior League (8 to 18) students must know how to play and to score in the league which starts Jan. 5 from 1:30 to 3 p.m. The sessions last eight weeks and cost $6.

All classes will be held at Cahuilla Park and the Claremont High School tennis courts. Instructors are Penny and Bob Daoust and Mike Bechard.

More information may be obtained by phoning 623-4531, Ext. 273.

Citrus has new security officer

AZUSA — Arthur J. Davis is the new campus security coordinator at Citrus College.

He served for 12 years with the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department, a number of them in the special enforcement bureau headquartered in East Los Angeles. He also worked in the patrol division of the Industry and Temple City stations. He held the rank of sergeant when he retired in 1971 as the result of a service-connected disability. He resides in Rowland Heights.

In his new position, he will coordinate activities of the seven-man security force, including five campus security officers and two sheriffs.

Claremonter elected to high Edison post

CLAREMONT — Howard P. Allen of Claremont has been elected an executive vice president for the Southern California Edison Co.

He joined the utility firm in 1954 following service as assistant dean of the Stanford University Law School. He was elected an Edison vice president in 1962, assistant to the president in 1969 and senior vice president in 1971.

Allen is also director of the Irvine Co., the California Federal Savings and Loan Association and the Republic Corp.

Ganesha falls in first round

Chino field wide open

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

CHINO — The Chino High Lettermen's Club Invitational Basketball Tournament can start looking for a new tournament favorite.

The one it picked before the tourney started Wednesday morning won't make it to the championship finals this year.

That favorite, of course, was Ganesha, which was coming into the tournament with a 6-2 record.

Wednesday afternoon at Chino High, the Giants were bumped into the consolation bracket by an undefeated Cerritos team in the first round. The Giants, though, had to go into two overtimes before dropping a 58-57 decision to the Dons of Cerritos.

That Ganesha loss, which highlighted the opening day of the 33rd annual classic Wednesday, opened the door for a number of title-hungry teams.

Included in the eight first-round contests who will now shoot for the tournament crown are Upland, Claremont and Chino.

All three, plus Temple City, Miraleste, Cerritos, La Canada and University, walked away with first round victories and advanced into today's second round — which began this morning at 9:30.

Upland knocked off Bonita in the morning opener Wednesday, 74-60, Claremont easily dumped Escondido, 67-47, and Chino slipped by Santa Ana, 63-55.

Other tourney games saw Temple City dispose of Pacifica, 85-73, Miraleste manhandle Duarte, 83-34, La Canada defeat Montclair, 82-66, and University down Ontario, 75-69.

Tonight, beginning at 6 p.m. at the Chino gym, Claremont will take on La Canada in the championship bracket, while Ontario battles Santa Ana (7:30) in consolation action and Chino tackles University at 9 p.m. in the final championship-round game of the day.

Earlier today, Bonita confronted Pacifica (9:30 a.m.), Upland tangled with Temple City (11 a.m.), Ganesha played Duarte (12:30 p.m.), Cerritos and Miraleste battled (2 p.m.) and Montclair tackled Escondido (3:30 p.m.).

Ganesha's hopes against Cerritos, which won its own tournament already this year, were dimmed considerably when Giant coach Gary Fulkerson benched starting forward Gary George and starting guard Earl Wilson for disciplinary reasons.

George only saw limited action in the fourth quarter, while Wilson remained on the bench throughout the game.

Even without its two regulars, Ganesha hit its first three shots of the game while Cerritos failed to score on its first four attempts from the floor.

But as soon as the Dons found the range, it was curtains for the Giants. After Ganesha took a 6-0 lead, Cerritos poured in the next nine points and gradually pulled away to a 15-10 lead by the end of the first quarter.

That lead was opened up to nine points midway through the second period and eventually ended up in an 11-point spread when the first half ended, 27-16.

Ganesha came out in the third quarter and installed the full court press, which seemed to somewhat stifle the Don attack momentarily. After Cerritos took a 29-18 lead in the third period, Ganesha dumped in the next 13 points to pull to a 32-29 advantage with 1:52 showing on the clock.

Cerritos then tallied the next two baskets to take the lead again, but Giant forward Broderick Hunter gave Ganesha the lead going into the fourth period with a field goal at the buzzer.

The lead changed hands three times in the fourth quarter before Don forward Steve Guderian put Cerritos ahead with 3:30 remaining in the period, 43-41.

The Giants didn't catch the Dons until center Cleve Porter converted on one of two free throws with 15 seconds left in the quarter to tie the score at 47-all.

Cerritos guard Ben Howland attempted a 20-foot jump shot at the buzzer, but it bounced off the rim — sending the game into overtime.

Don guard Ken Scott emerged the hero in the two overtime periods when he scored two field goals and made good on five of eight free throws. His free throw with 30 seconds left in the game provided the victory for the Dons. Scott did make the game a little exciting at the end when he missed a free throw with four seconds left. Porter grabbed the rebound, raced down the court unmolested, and missed a hurried 15-footer at the buzzer.

Porter led all scorers in the game with 24 points, while Hunter added 20 and Cerritos' Scott potted 20.

Unbeaten Chino, playing against winless Santa Ana, couldn't quite shake loose from the Saints.

Even though the Cowboys never trailed the Saints in the game, they were unable to open up more than a nine-point lead. That came in the fourth quarter twice, 51-42 and 56-47.

Chino (6-0) held a four-point lead at the end of the first quarter, and five-point cushion at halftime, and a shaky six-point advantage going into the final eight minutes of play.

Forward Tim Smith and guard Bob Hairston led the Cowboys in scoring with 15 points each, while forward Mark Milton also contributed 13 points to the winning cause.

Claremont jumped out to a quick 5-0 lead against Escondido. But the one player which gave the Wolfpack the early momentum was guard Rip Sears, who was responsible for 10 of his team's 14 first-quarter points. But he cooled off and finished the game with 12 points.

Claremont, which enjoyed a 34-17 halftime edge, pulled to its 20-point lead near the end of the third quarter and coasted the rest of the way.

Lakers lose pair by margin of 59

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — After losing their last two in a row by a total of 59 points, the Los Angeles Lakers lead the Pacific Division of the NBA by only a single game.

The Phoenix Suns are headed for the Forum Friday night to try to follow up their 135-100 drubbing of the Lakers Tuesday.

Still apparently suffering the shock of their worst loss of the season, Los Angeles stumbled again Wednesday night, losing to the SuperSonics in Seattle 129-105.

Both games saw the Lakers in contention only for the opening minutes.

The two-game disaster extended Los Angeles' losing record on the road to 11 of 20.

The Lakers, now in front of Golden State by just a game, are only three games above .500. The Warriors have lost six in a row.

Seattle pulled out to a 9-2 lead in the first three minutes and then steadily built up their margin, eventually reaching a 107-82 advantage with 7:45 to play, their biggest of the night.

SuperSonics center Jim Fox hit for 25 points and collected a team record 30 rebounds to lead Seattle, which finished with six other players in double figures.

Gail Goodrich, still hobbled by a sore leg hurt in a minor traffic accident Christmas Eve, got 26 points for the Lakers. Jerry West missed both road games because of a pulled groin.

Coach Bill Sharman rejoins the team Friday night after being absent the last two contests because of his wife's illness.

Sun Bowl is big 'Turkey'

By United Press International

Welcome to bowl weekend — unless you're going to El Paso, Tex., where the Sun Bowl is suffering the effects of some leftover turkey.

A total of 16 college football teams will finish up their 1973 seasons beginning Friday night and climaxing New Year's Night. But, as has become more and more embarrassing with the increasing number of bowl games in recent years, at least one "classic" is saddled with two teams which on the basis of their won-loss records could hardly be considered worthy of a post-season bid.

This year's candidate for the "Turkey Bowl" is the Sun Bowl at El Paso where Auburn takes its 6-5 log (including three losses in its last four games) up against Missouri, which wound up 7-4 with three straight season-end defeats. One wonders what teams each had to lose to in order to clinch their bowl bids.

The first of the eight-game bowl avalanche will take place Friday night when Georgia hosts Maryland in the Peach Bowl at Atlanta. Here the Peach people couldn't decide whether to give Georgia a bid until the Bulldogs beat Georgia Tech on the final game of the regular season to make them 6-4-1. Maryland, meanwhile, was one of college football's pleasant surprises this year, winding up 8-3 under Jerry Claiborne who finished second in the coach of the year balloting.

Next in line is the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl on Saturday where Tulane, which finished 9-2 under coach of the year Bennie Ellender, takes on Houston (10-1). This could prove to be the most wide-open scoring affair of all the bowls— the Cougars employing their explosive veer offense under quarterback D.C. Nobles and the Green Wave countering with double threat quarterback Steve Foley who accounted for over 1,400 yards in total offense this year. The oddsmakers like Houston, however, by eight points.

Also on tap for Saturday is the Gator Bowl, the East-West Shrine all star game and the aforementioned Sun Bowl.

In the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla. Tennessee (8-3) meets Texas Tech (10-1). The Vols, one of the nation's top teams until they lost to Alabama and then limped home 3-2, boast, in Condredge Holloway, one of the most exciting running quarterbacks in the country. Texas Tech, meanwhile, lost only to Texas and, as such, is a 2 ½ point favorite.

Once these preliminaries are over, the "big boys" will come striding out beginning with Notre Dame and Alabama Monday night in the Sugar Bowl and followed with the New Year's Day tripleheader of Texas-Nebraska in the Cotton Bowl, Ohio State-Southern Cal in the Rose Bowl, and LSU-Penn State in the Orange Bowl.

Santa Anita starts 37th meet

ARCADIA — Thoroughbred racing's year in California began today when Santa Anita Park opened its gates for the inaugural program of the 37th season.

More than $8 million in purses will be at stake during the 75-day meeting which annually attracts top jockeys and horses from the East and West coasts.

Sprinters are putting their speed on display opening-day when the $30,000-added Palos Verdes Handicap highlights the nine-race program.

The Palos Verdes launches a schedule of 51 stakes events, including 10 on the first 10 days of the meeting. Immediately following the Palos Verdes will be the La Habra Stakes on Friday, the alifornia Breeders' Champion Stakes on Saturday, and the San Gabriel Handicap which will be featured on the initial Sunday racing program.

First post time on weekdays and Saturdays will be 12:30 p.m. with first post at 1 p.m. on Sunday, Dec. 30. Beginning Sunday, Jan. 6, when daylight saving time goes into effect, the first Sunday race will go off at 1:30. Weekday and Saturday programs will begin at 1 p.m. after Jan. 6.

Three winners of 1973 Eclipse Awards — the "Oscars" of Thoroughbred racing — are at Santa Anita when the season began today. Two of them, jockeys Laffit Pincay, Jr., and Steve Valdez, are in action opening day. The third, Susan's Girl, is in training for the major fill-and-mare event of the meeting, the Santa Margarita Invitational.

The Santa Margarita is one of six $100,000 races on the Santa Anita schedule. The half-dozen also includes the Charles H. Strub Stakes, the San Luis Rey Stakes, the Santa Anita Derby, the San Juan Capistrano and the prestigious Santa Anita Handicap.

Fired-up Raiders plan to cancel Miami's 'guarantee'

OAKLAND (UPI) — Practicing in the rain and mud isn't exactly the way to get ready to play football on a synthetic turf but that's what the Oakland Raiders are contending themselves with today, and they aren't all that worried about it.

The Raiders, who meet the Miami Dolphins in the Orange Bowl on Sunday for the AFC title and the Super Bowl berth that goes with it, sloshed through the mud and rain during a long workout Wednesday and the prospects are for more of the same today.

"All we're concerned with is getting in the necessary work to stay sharp," said Raiders' Coach John Madden. "Sure, it would be better if we practiced on solid ground, but really it's not all that bad."

What has the Raiders a bit miffed, though, is a prediction by Miami All Pro offensive guard Larry Little that this time "it will be different."

Little, in the form of a guarantee which appeared in the Miami News the other day, was referring to the first meeting between the Dolphins and Raiders—in a pre-season exhibition which the Raiders won to end Miami's winning streak carrying back through last year.

Someone clipped Little's "guarantee" out of a newspaper and placed it on a wall in the Oakland dressing room.

Buckeye tackle has it all, except...

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — He was second to Penn State's John Cappelletti in the Heisman Trophy voting.

Woody Hayes calls him the best lineman he's ever had. He's a first team All-America and winner of the coveted Outland Award given annually to college football's top interior lineman in the country.

John Hicks has it all—except a Rose Bowl victory.

On New Year's Day, Ohio State's gifted offensive tackle will become the first Big Ten player in history to appear in three Rose Bowls.

A year ago, Hicks and the Buckeyes were humiliated by University of Southern California's national champions 42-17. Four years ago, he played in a 27-17. Ohio State loss to Stanford.

"Winning is a personal incentive every aspect," said the 6-3, 250-pound senior from Cleveland. "It (what happened in his two previous Rose Bowl appearances) just means I want to win."

Hicks will play at Pasadena, Calif., against USC in 1974 because he didn't end his college career on schedule last season. He sat out the 1971 season because of knee surgery.

The big tackle is the leader of the Buckeyes, according to Hayes, who says:

"He's got great physical ability—strength and quickness—but more important he's got a great competitive spirit and the ability, an unusual ability, to lead his own team.

"He's not a drill sergeant but he's a fella who leads them. He's right out there in front."

In the Heisman balloting, Hicks collected 524 points to Cappelletti's 1,057. It was a strong showing by the Buckeye for an award never won by a lineman.

"I really didn't give the Heisman Trophy much thought," he said. "I just felt honored that I could have even been considered."

Hicks was asked how he felt about Hayes now that his Ohio State career was one game away from being over.

"I have a lot of respect for the man," he replied. "He's been more than a coach. He's given me good leadership toward life and he's helped me to understand a lot of things about life.

"He's the roughest man I've ever been under on the field but that's Coach Hayesand you've got to understand that. Over the years, he's won that way and he's not going to change."

Kunzman may leave hospital

UPLAND — Injured race car driver Lee Kunzman may be released from his private room at San Anotnio Community Hospital sometime this week, according to doctors.

Kunzman, 29, of Guttenburg, Iowa, is recovering from injuries he suffered in a crackup Dec. 11 on a practice run at Ontario Motor Speedway.

He was in the intensive care unit until last week. His condition is listed as "fair."

Tigers rout Aquinas, face S.G. tonight

SAN BERNARDINO — Chaffey High defeated Aquinas, 70-56 Wednesday night to win its first game in the 16th Annual Kiwanis Invitational Basketball Tournament.

Mark McQuaid, the Tigers' fine sophomore, led all scorers with 18 points. Rod Weigand had 14 and Mike Partington chipped in 12.

Two big quarters, the second and the fourth, gave Chaffey the game. The Tigers outscored the Falcons 20-11 in the second period and 24-14 in the fourth.

Chaffey faces San Gorgonio tonight at 6:50. San Gorgonio topped Long Beach Wednesday, 74-72.

Host Chino, Claremont earn wins

Center Bruce Abraham was the Wolfpack's leading scorer with 18 points, 11 of which came in the second quarter.

Chino and Claremont will be seeing their second tournament titles of the year this week. The Cowboys won the Edgewood Tournament and Claremont claimed the Azusa Tournament championship already this season.

Upland held a 12-point lead against Bonita at halftime, but the Bearcats played even with the Highlanders in the second 16 minutes. The Scots were only able to pick up two points in the third quarter and couldn't pull away any further in the fourth.

Forward Curt Oldenkamp provided for 27 of Upland's points, while center Stu DuVall (19) and forward Orien Ogg (15) also tallied in double figures.

Forward Harold Drake collected 25 points in the game for Bonita, and teammates Scott Johnson (14) and Steve Hines (14) helped the effort.

Montclair fell behind quickly, 14-4, against La Canada and never really had enough to stage a comeback.

After La Canada, the defending tournament champion, took a 16-4 lead early in the game, the Cavaliers did follow with the next eight points of the game to make it 16-12 in favor of the Spartans — but that's as close as it got for the rest of the game.

La Canada guard Dick Sinclair led the game and the first day of tournament play with 29 points. Montclair center Mark Gosswiller picked points in the loss.

Trailing by 13 points early in the fourth quarter, Ontario did manage to put up some kind of a fight against University. The Jaguars slowly battled back to get to within four points, 69-65, with 1:45 left in the game.

The Jags kept that close for the next minute of play, but University guard Ken Vieira put the game away with 35 seconds remaining with a pair of free throws.

Trojans display their cage power

By United Press International

Yes sir, there is another college basketball team in Los Angeles besides UCLA.

The team, of course, is Southern California, which showed how much muscle it really has in a convincing 98-76 victory over Southwestern Texas Wednesday night in the opening round of the All-College Tournament at Oklahoma City.

The victory was the Trojans' seventh in eight starts and it was achieved with the kind of consistency good teams have. USC hit on 57 per cent of its shots from the floor, dropping 46 of 79.

California, another team playing far away from home, fought for its life before pulling out a 64-63 victory over Pennsylvania in the opening round of the Quaker City tourney in Philadelphia.

Carl Meier converted a free throw with two seconds left to pull it out for the Golden Bears, now 4-4 on the year. Cal seems to thrive on tournaments. Earlier this month, the Bears lost by only two points to West Virginia in the Mountaineer Classic, then bounced back to beat Seton Hall for the consolation prize.

They played the first round of the Far West Classic at Portland Wednesday night and Oregon State and Indiana were winners. The Beavers whipped Army, 82-52, while the Hoosiers routed Brigham Young, 96-52. Paul Miller had 21 points, 19 of them in the second half, to pace Oregon State's victory.

In the opening round of the Rainbow Classic at Honolulu, Hawaii ran down Santa Clara, 91-81. In an earlier game, St. Joseph's (Pa.) defeated Washington State, 72-65. The winners meet in Friday's semi-final.

While the Pac 8 schools are trying to gain glory on the road, UCLA sits resting at home for the start of its own tourney Friday. It's the Bruin Classic, appropriately enough, with UCLA in with San Francisco, Michigan and Wyoming.

There were a few other games of note Wednesday night with Utah whipping Montana State, 110-86, as guards Tickey Burden and Ty Medley combined for 52 points; Pacific edged Virginia Commonwealth, 80-75, for its seventh victory in eight starts, and Great Falls dropped Portland State, 80-71.

Action continues tonight in the Far West and Rainbow Classics, the Quaker City and All College tourneys, Stanford plays in the Holiday Festival at New York and Seattle is at Rhode Island in key contests.

Fans honor Dawson as man of year

CANTON, Ohio (UPI) — Kansas City Chiefs' veteran quarterback Len Dawson, the top career passer in history based on the new passing rating system, was voted Wednesday the 1973 NFL Man of the Year Award by a nationwide poll of fans.

Dawson, chosen in the voting coordinated by the Pro Football Hall of Fame, was honored for his civic contributions as well as his athletic ability. He will receive a bronze gladiator trophy and will be formally honored Sunday at ceremonies at the AFC championship game in Miami.

This will result in the creation of a $20,000 Len Dawson college scholarship fund in the Kansas City area. In addition, $1,000 college scholarships will be established in the names of the top vote getters from each of the other 25 NFL teams.

Shrine teams feature power at running back

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — There will be a lot of driving power on both sides Saturday in the annual East-West Shrine football Classic at Candlestick Park.

For the East, it will be 6-2, 238-pound Barty Smith of Richmond and 6-1, 212 pound Charles Young of North Caroline State at running back with 6-2, 210-pound Mark Van Eeghen of Colgate in reserve.

For the West, it will be 5-11, 200-pound Charles Davis of Colorado and 6-1, 202-pound James McAlister of UCLA with 6-0, 195-pound Ken Grandberry of Washington State in reserve.

Both head coaches—Paul Dietzel for the East and Jim Sweeney for the West—named their starting lineups Wednesday with the exception of quarterback.

Dietzel will pick from Gary Marangi of Boston College and Norris Weese of Mississippi while Sweeney will pick from All America David Jaynes of Kansas and Mike Borgla of Stanford. Sweeney also has Danny White of Arizona State, who will handle the kicking chores and see some action at quarterback.

The teams practiced in the rain Wednesday but thanks to the synthetic turf, no mud.

Practice sessions are on tap both today and Friday with kickoff set for 1 p.m. PDT Saturday.

There was the usual gang of pro scouts in the stands at Candlestick Park Wednesday with most of them watching little Rod Garcia of Stanford. Garcia is the man who booted the winning field goal in the final minute of play in Stanford's 1972 Rose Bowl victory over Michigan.

Garcia, expected to go early in the next pro draft, kidded with newsmen Wednesday while kicking in the rain.

"I can pass a lot better than Garo," he said. "In fact, I can wing it 40 yards."

His reference was to Garo Yepremian of the Super Bowl champion Miami Dolphins, who tried to throw the ball after a bad snap on a field goal try in last year's Super Bowl game.

"I can also tackle if I have to," said the 5-9, 165-pound Garcia. "As a sophomore at Stanford I made five tackles, but I was crazy then."

Garcia has been kicking the ball 60 yards off the ground and 70 yards off the tee in practice for the East-West game. The colleges permit tees but the pros don't. Garcia has been kicking off the ground mostly for the benefit of the pro scouts.

Janice Metcalf ninth in doubles

Claremont's Janice Metcalf and her partner Jane Stratton are ranked ninth in the U.S. in Women's Doubles on the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association 1973 rankings.

Billie Jean King and Rosemary Casels headed the Women's Doubles listing. Miss Metcalf attends the University of Redlands and is a member of the varsity tennis squad.

Five valley gridders on CIF 3-A squad

Five Pomona Valley high school football players, including two from the San Antonio League co-champion Chino team, were named to the All-CIF 3-A teams, it was announced today by the Citizens Savings Athletic Foundation.

Defensive tackle Randy Rizo of Chino, who was one of the Pomona Valley's Co-Players of the Year this year, was the only one of the five to be placed on the All-CIF first team.

Randy averaged better than 10 tackles per game this year, making 103 unassisted tackles in 10 games. He also averaged two sacks of the opposing quarterbacks per game.

Rizo was voted the Defensive Player of the Year in the San Anotonio League by the league coaches.

Ganesha center John Bean was named as the second-team center on the teams, while defensive backs Kent Stalwick of Claremont and Mike Nieman of Chino, and linebacker John L. Jones of Garey were also selected.

Both Stalwick and Nieman were first-team selections on the All-SAL teams this year as defensive backs, and Jones also made it as a linebacker.

Bean was the SAL's first-team center.

Mark Miller, Crescenta Valley's talented all-around performer who led his Falcon teammates on both offense and defense, was named the 3-A Player of the Year by the Citizens Savings Athletic Foundation's All-Southern California Board of Football.

Miller, who did everything for coach Gordon Warnock's Foothill League tri-champion team, wound up the season with 1263 yards rushing. The talented 5-11, 170-pound tailback also passed, received, returned punts and kickoffs for close to 1000 yards, which placed his overall yardage responsibility at over 2000 yards for the season.

The Falcons, who knocked Pomona out of the opening round of the playoffs this year (25-0), defeated Monrovia High 14-7 for the 3-A championship.

Crescenta Valley and runnerup Monrovia each placed four players on the offensive and defensive teams to lead all other schools in representation.

For the first team in 1973, the All-Southern California Board of Football selected both offensive and defensive units—two on offense and two on defense.

Teams with more than one player named to the honor squads are St. John Bosco with three, Villia Park with three, and Burroughs, Culver City, Thousand Oaks, Chino, St. Genevieve and La Mirada with two each.

Sharks try new goalie

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Slumping goalie Russ Gillow will be benched and Ian Wilkie will be in his place tonight when the WHA Los Angeles Sharks try to reverse a five-out-of-six game losing streak by taking on New England.

"All goaltenders have slumps and you just have to be patient," said Sharks coach Ted McCaskill. "Russ proved last year that he is an outstanding goaltender. It's simply that he's lost his confidence. He has been struggling.'

Gillow was the second-leading goalie in the WHA last year. Wilkie is 7-3 as a starter.

Nogales, Rowland post wins

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Staff Writer

LA PUENTE — Two local teams are still enjoying the Christmas spirit after first round wins in the 10th Annual Nogales Christmas Basketball Tournament.

Walnut and Rowland presented their coaches, Bill Murray and Don Livingston, respectively, season greetings with wins to advance to the championship bracket.

Walnut capitalized on its press to rout Baldwin Park, 61-45, while Rowland edged Mountain View 59-56.

Rowland (2-5) was slated to play Azusa (7-2) today at 3:30 p.m. while Walnut (7-1) and Wilson (4-5) were scheduled to get underway at 5 p.m. Nogales High is the site of both contests.

The Mustangs raced to a 17-0 lead before the Braves' Tom Hanley registered their first points of the evening on a field goal with 1:38 left in the period.

Murray's 'Stangs put on a devastating full court press in racing to a 19-6 lead. A hustling quintet of Kirk Christ, Lance Parrish, Ken Czarnecki, Steve Will and Marcello Maurin pressured the Braves into eight turnovers, six coming on steals.

While the Walnut defense continued to play good basketball the remaining three quarters, creating 23 Baldwin Park turnovers, the offense sputtered. After enjoying a 50 per cent first stanza, nine of 18 from the floor, the Mustangs finished the evening at 35.3 per cent, making just 23 of 65 attempts.

Baldwin Park finished the night with a dismal 33 per cent from the floor, making just 20 of 60 shot attempts.

Center Tom Hanley, who averages 20 points a game, was held to just 10 points, including three of 17 from the field. But the 6-foot-5 senior hauled down a game-high 14 rebounds.

Christ, who made last year's All-tourney team and is averaging 25.4 points per game this season, paced Walnut with 16 points and 10 rebounds followed by Parrish and Maurin with 14 and 13, respectively.

Rowland nipped Mountain View by three points in a contest that was tied six times with the lead changing hands on nine occasions.

The game was so close that the largest margin was 57-52 Rowland, with 39 seconds to play. Mountain View's biggest lead was 24-20 with two minutes left in the first half.

The Raiders, in snapping a five-game losing streak, had a lot of problems with their much smaller opponents under the hoop. Mountain View scored half of its points on follow up shots and bank shots from four to six feet out.

Glen Thompson and Robert Malave kept the Raiders close with fine outside shooting performances. Thompson finished with 14 points, hitting seven of 11 attempts while Malave, who is averaging 19.5 points per game, connected on 12 of 16 attempts for 24 points.

Center Steve Nichols added 11 points while forward Nick Davis tallied just four points but grabbed 11 caroms.

But the surprise of the game, at least to Livingston, was supplied by Ron Goldman. The 5-foot-9 guard, playing in his first varsity game, directed the second half offense with the poise of a veteran.

Although he had just two points Goldman, who was called up from the Rowland jv team (idle this week) was able to supply the spark the Raiders needed. Besides playing sound defense, his crisp passing assisted several easy buckets.

Toronto buries Montreal streak

By United Press International

The Toronto Maple Leafs spread around the goals Wednesday night while the Montreal Canadiens spread around the blame.

The Maple Leafs soundly snapped the Canadiens' 10-game unbeaten streak with eight different Toronto players scoring in the 9-2 rout of Montreal.

"Our letdown all came in the same game I guess," said Montreal Coach Scotty Bowman. "Everything they touched just went in. In the last period our guys didn't even want to play."

Goalie Michel Plasse, the victim of Toronto's nine goals, said he couldn't put all the blame for the Canadiens' performance on his defensemen.

"Our forwards never came back to check," said Plasse, who suffered his first loss of the season in his seventh game. "Every time I looked up the Leafs had three-on-one or three-on-two breakaways.

"This wasn't my worst game, however. On the same night six years ago I was playing for Jacksonville of the Eastern Hockey League and Greensboro beat us 13-2."

"It was a super team effort," said Lanny McDonald, the only Toronto player to score two goals in the Leafs' rout. "All the guys were working hard and it's not hard to win that way."

Forwards Paul Henderson, Dave Keon, Inge Hammarstrom, Rick Kehoe and Darryl Sittler also scored for Toronto as did defensemen Bob Neely and Jim McKenney. The Leafs got two big breaks when the goals credited to Sittler and Henderson went into the net off Montreal defensemen.

Montreals goals were scored by Murray Wilson and Yvan Cournoyer, who registered his 20th tally of the season.

In other National Hockey League games, the New York Rangers edged Philadelphia 2-1 on power play goals by Ted Irvine and Rod Gilbert, Minnesota nipped the New York Islanders 1-0 behind Lou Nanne's goal and the shutout netminding of Cesare Maniago, Vancouver got by California 6-4, Los Angeles tied Chicago 3-3 and Pittsburgh tied Detroit 2-2.

Irvine's 11th goal of the season midway through the second period snapped a 1-1 tie and enabled New York to edge Philadelphia. Gilbert's 18th goal opened the scoring for the Rangers but Philadelphia tied the score on a first period marker by Bill Clement.

Maniago stopped 29 Islander shots to protect the slim margin provided by Nanne's first period goal. New York's Gerry Desjardins turned back 44 North Star shots including a breakaway by Bill Goldsworthy in the third period.

Third period goals by Bobby Schmautz, Dennis Ververgaert and Paulin Bordeleau powered Vancouver over California. The loss stretched the Seals' 1973 road record to 1-19-0.

Syl Apps' goal with three minutes left to play earned Pittsburgh its tie with Detroit. Apps beat Detroit goaltender Bill McKenzie with a 12-foot backhand shot just 61 seconds after Billy Collins had put the Red Wings in the lead.

Carolina Cougars return to play in ABA East chase

By United Press International

The Carolina Cougars, counted out when Billy Cunningham checked into a hospital for kidney surgery two weeks ago, are laying down for no one. And now they're on top in the ABA East again.

"We needed this one," said Carolina's Ted McClain after he contributed 19 points and an ABA record 12 steals to the Cougars' 105-95 victory over the New York Nets last night.

"We want the league to know we're no pushovers without Billy Cunningham," McClain said. "Look at Supersub (Ed Manning). Off the bench with 18 points. He really made up for Billy's absence.'

Cunningham, who underwent successful surgery to remove a kidney blockage, is expected to be sidelined until March 1. The Cougars began to slide as soon as last year's league MVP went out, losing three of four games and dropping behind the streaking Nets.

Certainly, without their best player the Cougars must be considered underdogs in the division race but if they can continue to play opportunistic basketball as they did against New York, they may just be able to hang together until Cunningham returns.

McClain seemed to be everywhere against the Nets, making his own opportunities.

"It was just one of those things," said the 6-1 third-year man out of Tennessee State. "I happened to be in the right place all night."

In other ABA action, Kentucky routed Indiana 106-78, Virginia beat Denver 118-113, Memphis edged San Antonio 96-95 and Utah defeated San Diego 102-98.

Kentucky held Indiana to only 28 points in the second half as the Colonels played their best defensive game of the year. The Colonels, led by Dan Issel's 28 points and Artis Gilmore's 19 points and 27 rebounds, rallied from a halftime deficit of 50-45 to defeat last season's league champion Pacers.

George Irvine scored 12 of his 16 points in the fourth quarter to lead the Squires over Denver. The Squires shot 61.6 per cent from the field to only 43.9 per cent for Denver, but Denver pulled down 52 rebounds to only 34 for Virginia to stay within reach.

George Gervin led the Squires with 28 points, followed by Jim Eakins with 22. Denver was paced by Ralph Simpson wiith 24 points and Warren Jabali with 22.

Guard Moe Layton and center Lee Davis combined for 18 points in the final quarter to lead Memphis over San Antonio, enabling the Tams to snap a 13-game losing streak.

Layton, playing his first game for the Tams after being cast off by the NBA Portland Trail Blazers this season, and Davis had nine points each in the final period.

Ron Boone tossed in 34 points to lead Utah past San Diego. Boone hit the opening two baskets of the final quarter to give Utah a six-point lead and the Conquistadors never moved ahead again.

Palomares Cowboys win flag football title

POMONA — The Palomares Cowboys are champions of the Division Two Pomona Park and Recreation Departments boys' flag football program. They defeated the Fremont Rams last Saturday at Emerson Junior High, 18-0.

Twenty two teams making up five leagues began play in early October. The five league titlist and top three runners up were selected to compete for the city championship. The Cowboys and the Rams were the survivors.

The Cowboys dominated the final game with quarterback Byron Edwards passing for three touchdowns. The first was to Dexter Belcher for 25 yards and gave the Cowboys a 6-0 halftime lead.

The champions blew the game open in the fourth quarter when Edwards hit William Sims for a 28-yard score and then tossed again to Belcher for two yards. The last TD was set up on Sims' 32-yard run.

Cowboy coaches were Wayne Martin and Ken Gaskin. The remaining players were: Ricky McConnell, Eric Davis, Charles Whetstone, Charles Hunter, Benny Austin and Bruce Soto.

Coach of Year

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — Wittenberg University football coach Dave Maurer Monday was named the 1973 Kodak College Division Coach of the Year by the American Football Coaches Association.

Kings battle Black Hawks to 3-3 tie

CHICAGO (UPI) — A bad goal cost the Chicago Black Hawks a chance to move into a tie for first place in the National Hockey League's West Division, Hawk goalie Tony Esposito declared flatly.

Speaking of the ricochet score by Tom Williams of the Los Angeles Kings which gave them a 3-3 tie with the Hawks Wednesday night, Esposito said, "It was my fault."

"I was too slow in recovering after his first shot. I should have been covering the post quicker. I saw him coming and the puck bounced off the boards. He whacked at it and it hit me and went in.

"It was a bad goal and you shouldn't score like that."

The tie left the Hawks one point behind the West Division leaders, the Philadelphia Flyers, who also have a game in hand.

The Kings, who had been shut out by the Black Hawks in both previous meetings this season, were ahead once in the contest and later came back twice to tie. Coach Bob Pulford was pleased with the comebacks but still felt "we could have won it in the last minute when we had a two-on-one break.

"But Esposito stopped us and that's why he's one of the best in the league," he said.

Pulford believed the Kings were a far better hockey team than in their previous games with the Black Hawks.

"Winning gives you confidence," he said, "and we've started to win."

Hawk Coach Billy Reay, not upset with the tie, said, "When you go to the 26th of December with one loss in a month, I'll take it."

The tie was the 11th of the season for Chicago and the seventh in 14 homes games, where the Hawks have lost only once.

"But if you get a one-goal lead at home," Reay said, "you should be able to hold onto it."

Stan Mikita, J.P. Bordeleau and Dennis Hull got the Chicago goals while Barry Long and Butch Goring scored for the Kings before Williams tied it.

A STRONG BOOT — Karen Curtis of the Majestics shows her form in helping her team defeat the Imperials, 2-1, in the girls' soccer championship game at Palomares Park last Saturday.

Majestics win first Pomona girls' soccer championship

POMONA — The Majestics captured the Pomona Park and Recreation Departments' Girls Soccer title last Saturday posting a 2-1 victory over the Imperials. Both teams had won their divisions with 6-0 marks to set up the battle of the unbeatens.

Judy Fuqua coached the winners of Pomona's first soccer program for young ladies. Angelica Dow handled the losers, who prior to the championship contest had yielded but one goal.

The Imperials scored first in the game with Evelonia Hunter accounting for the goal. Karen Curtis came right back to tie the score on a penalty kick.

Playing the tight defense they had all year, the Imperials kept the Majestics away from their goal until late in the second half. With five minutes to go in the contest, an Imperial defender, attempting to clear the ball away from the net, erratically put the ball in.

So, on a freak goal, the Maestics became the initial city champs on what was otherwise an evenly played game. Both teams did receive individual awards for their efforts.

Preliminary games between the second and third place teams found the Hawks and Pintos prevailing. Doris Hughlock's Hawks edged the Daffodils, under the direction of Evelyn Wilbur, 3-2.

The Pintos, coached by Ron Flint, tripped the Picadillys, 2-0. The losers were handled by Larry Harks.

Rice grid assistant takes job at Cameron

LAWTON, Okla. (UPI) — John Linville, an assistant football coach at Rice University, was named head coach of Cameron College Wednesday.

Linville, 41, replaces Lester "Bear" Johnson who will remain at Cameron as athletic director.

Linville coached the defensive ends at Rice and also served as recruiting coordinator. He began his career at Rice in 1969 after coaching in Texas high schools for 14 years.

He was born in Crescent, Okla., and received his bachelor degree in history from Central Oklahoma University in 1954.

Pomona AYSO shows balance

By ADRIAN MERCADO
P-B Correspondent

The Pomona American Youth Soccer Organization (AYSO) is winding up 1973 in traditional fashion — tighter pennant races and tougher competition. Without a doubt there is not a single team that can be considered a patsy and league leaders are becoming increasingly aware of the many "upsets" registered each week. "No One Gives Up" could very well be added to the well known AYSO motto "Everyone Plays."

In Division I, the Pomona Police Assn. Rangers widened their lead by blanking the Diamond Bar Broncos, 7-0, on a three goal "hat trick" by Jim Fox, two more by Mike Dominguez and single tallies by Kip Keough and Rick Harbour. The Pomona Cobras gained a second place tie by slipping past the Diamond Bar Gunners, 1-0, on a Rick O'Shea tie breaker.

In Division II, the Eastern Airlines Wings gained one point on the leaders by coming alive in the second half to beat the Bond Trucking Co. Chargers, 4-0; Peter Trejo, Steven Mercado, and Sam Stavros tallied twice. The Pomona Optimist Hawks flew faster than the Pomona Valley Datsun Jets to win 3-0 and earn a first place tie in their league; Roy Botsford, James Loftis, and Kenneth Froessel hit the net for the birds. Once again the Jets showed that they have the potential of a greater performance as they held the Hawks scoreless in the second half. The league leading Pomona Police Assn. Marauders were not able to protect their first half 1-0 lead attained on a penalty kick by Jon Traber and had to settle for a 1-1 tie against the S&T printing Cardinals when Vernon Overby penetrated the Marauder defense and put a well placed shot out of the reach of goalkeeper Randy Martinez; Cardinal goalie Robbie Preska made outstanding diving saves during the game.

The Pomona Truck Electric Tigers put it all together and could do no wrong as they blanked the Mustangs, 5-0, on goals by Marty Moran, Donald Scarcia, Philip Salkelk(2), and Marty Foutts. The Mustangs are, unfortunately, suffering from a change in coaches and will surely make a strong comeback.

After a brilliantly played, and scoreless, first half, the Fraada Homes Eagles' Mike Fox scored late in the second half to nip the impressive Jandron's Carpets Torpedos 1-0. By winning, the Eagles keep the pressure on the Renegades who beat them by only two points. The Southwest Concrete Products Renegades maintained their lead in the Red League by edging the Auto Parts Co. Thunderbirds 1-0 on a goal scoring penalty kick by Rusty Grimes in the second half of the game.

SIDELINES: Los Angeles has received a franchise from the North American Soccer League (NASL) and will start play on April 7, 1974. Fourteen games will be scheduled at home at the 22,000 seat East L.A. City College Stadium in Monterey Park. San Francisco, Seattle, and Vancouver have also been given franchises bringing to 16 the total number of teams in the NASL. The locals will be called the L. A. Aztecs and will wear tangerine and white as their colors.

It is hoped that owner Dr. Jack Gregory will not fall into the easy temptation of signing mostly foreign players and coaches for his team.

There is no need to as there is enough good American talent around if he takes the time out to look for it, and it will pay long term dividends by catering to the preference of the entire community instead of a much smaller ethnic segment of it.

Dr. Gregory might do well to observe that two seasons ago the St. Louis Stars ended in second place with at least eight starters from St. Louis University. The Philadelphia Atoms were last year's champions with seven local boys as starters and coach Al Miller of Hartwick College at the helm. If nothing else he should not ignore the great support that the Dallas Tornados are receiving from their fans who are happy to pay at the gate to cheer for their local hero — Kyle Rote Jr.

St. Joseph, St. Margaret post wins

LA VERNE — Wednesday marked the opening round of action in the Our Lady of Assumption Grade School Basketball Tourney, and local Catholic schools met with mixed results.

Host school, Our Lady of Assumption (Claremont) was defeated by Holy Name of Mary (San Dimas) by a 34-17 count, St. Margaret of Chino dumped St. Madeleine of Pomona by a 41-10 score, while St. Joseph of Pomona downed Sacred Heart of Covina 31-28.

Individual high-scorer honors for the first round of tourney play went to Ron Torrance of St. Dorothy of Glendora who tossed in 24 points to lead his team to a 62-5 romp over Our Lady of Lourdes (Montclair). Marty Eattola of St. Luke's had 21 points on the day, while Peter Huysman of St. Margaret's scored 16.

The double-elimination tournament will continue today at Damien High, starting time for the first game was 12 noon and games will continue through 7 p.m.

Claremont Kings win own soccer tourney

CLAREMONT — The Claremont Kings proved less than gracious hosts as they won the Claremont Pacific Soccer League Tourney held Saturday at El Roble School.

The Kings posted a 2-0-1 won-lost record in the tourney, with the tie played against a very strong Culver City team. Culver City also finished tourney play with a 2-0-1 record, but the Kings were awarded the title since they had a better goals-for-and-against ratio.

The Celtics Rangers were 1-2 in tourney play, while the Claremont Stars were 0-3. Sergio Melgar of Culver City was selected as the outstanding player in the tournament.

Hunters net 2,722 birds

LONG BEACH— Hunters took 2,722 cock pheasants during the 1973 season on state and federal areas managed by the Department of Fish and Game, according to a preliminary report on hunting results from the DFG.

On the 10 areas managed for pheasant hunting, 21,572 permits were issued to sportsmen to hunt on 35,040 acres on regular dates and on an additional 4,100 acres on special dates.

The harvest compared to a take of 2,331 cocks during the 1972 season.

According to the DFG, the five state areas accounted for 14,375 permits and 2,419 pheasants during the 23-day season that ended Dec. 9. On the five federal areas 7,197 permits were issued and 303 pheasants were taken.

Gray Lodge Wildlife Management Area near Gridley, Butte County, led all areas with 1,414 pheasants and 4,412 permits.

There was rain on opening day and throughout the first week in northern and central California, but weather conditions improved toward the end of the season, although fog was moderate to dense during the final week.

Cover conditions were good throughout the Central Valleys. Inclement weather during the early part of November prevented the harvest of many crops, leaving rice, milo and other crops standing in fields throughout the pheasant country.

Waterfowl continue to congregate

SACRAMENTO — California's wintering waterfowl are continuing to congregate on the flood waters of the river bypasses although there has been some movement of birds into the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta and Suisan areas.

This was the word from the Department of Fish and Game following the latest biweekly population survey, which was limited to the area north of Stockton because of fog.

On the basis of the partial survey, duck numbers in the area covered were estimated at 4.4 million.

Of the total, 2.1 million were found in the Yolo Bypass, 570,000 in the Butte Sink, 468,000 on the Sutter refuge and 360,000 on the Sacramento refuge. Slightly more than 3.5 million of the ducks were pintails.

Goose numbers were esimated at about 471,000.

Nacimiento Gas plentiful

SAN LUIS OBISPO — If it's a fishing weekend you're planning, the place for you is Lake Nacimiento, northwest of Paso Robles, where the fish are big and hungry and gasoline is plentiful.

That's right . . . no gas shortage at Lake Nacimiento, Resort Manger Danny Heath declared. Heath said that his storage tanks were full and boaters and fishermen could fill up, for his gasoline pumps would be doing "businesses as usual" Saturday and Sunday.

"The fishing is great," Heath said. "The White and Black Bass are biting and limits of Crappie and Bluegill are common."

Heath pointed out that all indications point to a sunny weekend. An added attraction for weekenders, he said, was an invitation from Heritage Ranch, adjoining the Lake, to drop in and visit the new "Flying H Western Ranch" and see the ranch's herd of Buffalo.

Gun exhibit to be shown

LOS ANGELES — A fantastic array of all-new, 1974 models of handguns, shotguns and rifles of 14 major manufacturers will be on display during the 15th Annual International Sports Vacation-Travel and RVI recreational Vehicle Expo, Jan. 4-13, at Los Angeles Convention Center.

The exhibit will be presented by the Grant Boys, specialists in guns and camping equipment, with stores in Anaheim and Costa Mesa.

On hand to impart facts about new features of the various models will be a group of experts.

On display at the Grant Boys spacious booth will be the products of Winchester, Armalite, Remington, Weatherby, Browning, Charles Daly, Walther, Beretta, H&R, Sako, Colt, Llama, Ithaca, Ruger and Smith & Wesson.

The exhibit will delight any target enthusiast or hunter, according to Expo Producer Fred J. Tabery and Co-Producer Fred J. Hall.

Trout plant

LONG BEACH — The following Southern and Central California lakes and streams, listed by county, are scheduled for restocking this week with catchable-size rainbow trout from Department of Fish and Game hatcheries:

LOS ANGELES — Hansen Dam Lake, Legg Lake, Puddingstone Lake.

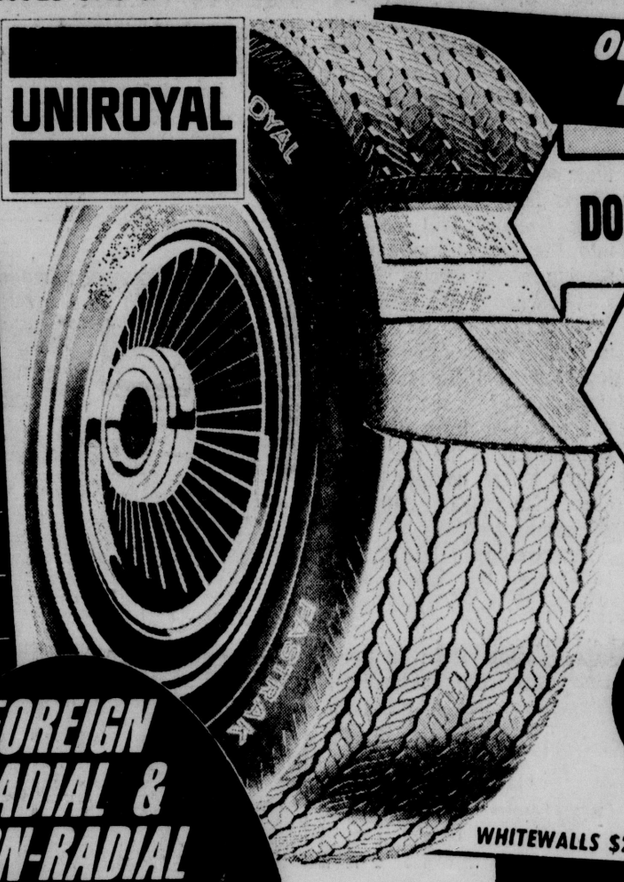

SAN BERNARDINO — Glen Helen Park Lake.

All stocking is scheduled road and weather conditions permitting.

Pitzer planning 3-day celebration of comet

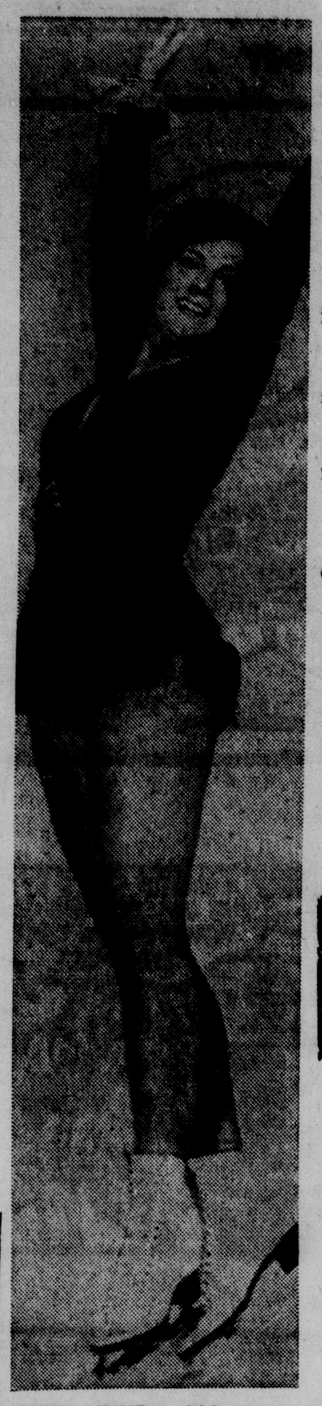

CLAREMONT — Pitzer College has invited Czechoslovakian astronomer Lubos Kohoutec, discoverer of the comet bearing his name, to attend a three-day "celebration" of the comet on the college campus Jan. 11-13.

The program, "The Kohoutek Comet Festival," is billed as "an observance of the appearance of the Kohoutek comet and a celebration of the beneficial quality of life." On the program are chamber music, country-western music, juggling acts, poetry readings, sand paintings, a visit by the Goodyear blimp, and a parade of the Mystic Knights of Oingo Boingo, a nine-man mime group.

The festival will open with the parade at 4 p.m., Jan. 11, followed by street theater performances in 19th Century French style, an outdoor dinner and a concert.

On Jan. 12 there will be music by Stanley Crouch, performances by jugglers and musicians, a concert by the 12th Street Mini-Band, sand painting and ceramic working by Pitzer students, readings by poet Ralph Angel of the University of Oregon, folk music by Guy Carawan, mural painting by grammar school children, and the planting of ivy by all in attendance as a symbol of involvement in the celebration.

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — A Reno man with a broken leg used an ambulance to go to the Internal Revenue Service to iron out his tax problems.

Mechanic Siggi Willwerth said that he received a notice last week to pay back taxes within 48 hours or face closure of his business. He telephoned the IRS and said he had a broken leg and was confined to bed.

"You've got your problems and we've got ours. If you're not here in 48 hours, we close it up," he quoted an IRS spokesman as saying.

Willwerth, who said he didn't owe the money in the first place, summoned the ambulance and went to the office where the spokesman conceded Willwerth's view of the matter was "in most instances correct."

Willwerth said he will deduct the ambulance costs from his next income tax payment.

Immunization musts

Gary Crosby knows meaning of 'hanging in'

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Gary crosby has survived the onus of being the son of a superstar, alcoholism and the despair of unemployment to become one of the most popular and respected citizens in Hollywood.

Every step of the way was tough, despite the early silver spoon.

At age 40 Gary is a level-headed man, full of good humor and candor.

As he sat at a table in the Universal Studio commissary, hardly a person passed without a cheerful hello for Gary.

He has been cast as a costar in the new "Chase" series, removing him from the doleful line of part-time actors. His last fulltime job was in the old "Bill Dana Show."

Recently Gary appeared infrequently on the "Adam-12" series.

"It feels good to come to work every day," Gary said. "Even at 5:30 in the morning it's great to have someplace to go. To know that people need you and are counting on you.

"It's been a long, long time. But I'm a survivor. When things aren't going well a man has to set his jaw and hang in there.

"I'm not complaining because I know there are millions of people in this country who have it a lot worse than I ever did. In fact, I've been lucky.

"My mother (Dixie Lee) left the four of us boys a monthly income when she died. It's still coming in. But I have to work to stay out of debt."

Taxes and inflation have diminished the buying power of his inheritance. But Gary is the only one of Bing's first four sons to remain in show business. Philip, Dennis and Lindsay are involved in other enterprises.

The brothers see one another from time to time. They are not closely knit. Gary is the only one among them to remain married to a single wife. He and Barbara have been married 14 years. Gary adopted her son, Stephen, who is now 18.

Gary was an alcoholic from age 21-28. Barbara has been in and out of hospitals for the past few years. But they are making a go of it.

"I've got my head together now," Gary said pleasantly. "I recognize what psychological problems are now. But if I had to do it all over again, I'd never have gone anywhere near show business."

For most of his life Gary tried to excell as a singer, the specter of his father's fame hanging over him like an ominous cloud.

Nor has Gary encouraged young Stephen to follow in his footsteps.

"Steve has seen me spend 90 per cent of my time sitting in front of the television set waiting for work," Gary said. "He's seen the depressions and the insecurities.

"Few young people see that dark side of show business. He doesn't want to be a part of it at all.

"Actors can't go out and knock on doors looking for work. That's what agents are for. When your picture crosses a producer's desk it's one of 40 actors all wanting the same job. It's up to one guy to choose."

Gary is optimistic. He hopes "Chase" enjoys a long run.

More importantly, the public may think of him as "one of the Crosby boys" or perhaps "Bing's oldest son." But he says, "I know I'm an individual. I have my own identity, and every human being is entitled to that."

Bit Parts: Burl Ives will ride in the Department of the Interior Rose Parade float Jan. 1... Conway Twitty will be a regular on the new "Country Music, USA" series... Jackie Coogan returns to MGM, where he made his first movie in 1926, for a role in "The Phantom of Lot 2" . . .

MRS. GERALD ZIMMERMAN AND HOWARD COWELL

Claremont chapter seats worthy matron

Mrs. Gerald Zimmerman was installed as worthy matron and Howard Cowell was installed as worthy patron at the 60th installation of officers of the Claremont Chapter 324, Order of the Eastern Star.

Other elective officers inducted were Mrs. Ruth Hagoes, associate matron; Mrs. Howard Cowell, secretary; George Redmond, treasurer; Mrs. Doyle Mann, conductress; and Mrs. Chester Olsen, associate conductress.

Seated as appointive officers were Mrs. Walter Johnson, chaplain; Mrs. Meg Barber, marshal; Mrs. Eva May Hall, organist; Mrs. Albert Akin, warder; and Albert Akin, sentinel. The five rays of the emblematic star are Mmes. Elvin Diehl, Adah; William Schaefer, Ruth; Sidney Hopkins, Esther; Leila Bess, Martha; and Dormae Hart, Electa.

Serving as flag bearer this term is Vincent Folonis. Mrs. Kenneth Baughman is prompter and Miss Elaine Pierce is door hostess. In charge of the guest book are Beverly, Elizabeth and Marilyn Caddes.

Guests were welcomed at the installation by members of Claremont Bethel 301, International Order of Job's Daughters, invited to sign the guest book by Misses Elaine Pierce and Marilyn Caddes, and seated by ushers from Claremont Chapter, Order of DeMolay.

The mistress of ceremonies, Mrs. Oren Peck, was escorted into the chapter room by the honorary marshals, Miss Teri Zimmerman and Mrs. Sherri Bayer, daughters of the new worthy matron.

The retiring worthy matron, Miss Maxine Shurtz, was escorted, followed by the other installing officers, Mrs. Robert Powers, deputy grand matron of the 59th district, and Mmes. Cowell, Hopkins, Baughman, Hall Vincent Folonis, Rachel Caddes and Joseph Scott, all past matrons of Claremont chapter.

Bearers of the emblems of the order were Mmes. Oscar Ferguson, Virgil Hansen, Anthony Scalia, Alphonsus Abbott and Miss Helen Meisner.

The Holy Bible was placed by Mrs. Marie Ellington, escorted by Miss Susan Pierce, honored queen, and Miss Linda Ellis, senior princess of Claremont Bethel 301. The flag was presented by Pfc. Phillip Bayer, U. S. Army, and the tribute given by Scott Kolves and Robert Pierce, Order of DeMolay.

During the ceremony, musical selections were presented by the Claremont Job's Daughters Choir. The jewels of office of the worthy matron and worthy patron were borne to the installing marshals by Jay Zimmerman and John Cowell Jr. Oren Peck gave the benediction.

Guests receiving special escort were the grand officer and worthy matrons and worthy patrons of 1973, the past matrons and past patrons of Claremont Chapter, and the worthy matrons and worthy patrons of 1974.

Installation chairmen were Mrs. Hart and Mrs. George Redmond. A reception followed the installation. Mrs. Cowell, reception chairman, was assisted at the tea tables by Mrs. Henrietta Albrecht, Mrs. Alice Tempelen and Mrs. James Westmoreland.

Chino church setting for recent ceremony

Miss Katherine Lovelace and Charles W. Hughes were united in marriage in a Nuptial Mass at St. Margaret Catholic Church in Chino.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Lovelace of Chino was escorted to the altar by her father when she recited vows with the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Hughes of Chino.

She chose a gown of rice paper silk fashioned in an A-line design with a scoop neckline, fitted sleeves and a curtain ruffle edging the hemline of the cathedral-length train. Venise lace and pearls accented the neckline, sleeves and skirt. Her illusion veil was caught to a lace and pearl headpiece.

The bride carried a nosegay bouquet of white roses, Elegance carnations, baby's breath and jackstraw.

Miss Lindi Soper was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Terry Hughes and Kathy Hegarty.

Kathy Brown was flower girl and Jerry Eskola was ring bearer. Susan and Cindy Lovelace, sisters of the bride, handled the guest book.

Fred Abacherli was best man. Ushers were Vincent Hughes and William Vasquez.

A reception at the Uplander Hotel followed the rites. Mr. and Mrs. Hughes will reside in Chino after a honeymoon at Lake Arrowhead.

The couple graduated from Chino High School. Mr. Hughes served four years in the Navy and is employed with Southern California Edison Company as an electrical helper.

A NEW ANGLE — Motorists in Miami recently did a double take when Tom Case zipper past them in this creation combining a Corvair and a Harley Davidson motorcycle. The machine is powered by the original Corvair engine, has an automatic transmission and three sets of brakes. It only took Case six months to build.

Energy crisis is slowing ecology movement

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The energy crisis is threatening to stall, if not stop, the environmental movement even before it has gained any appreciable momentum.

One after another, hard-won gains of environmentalists are being gutted, or shunted aside, ecologists claim. The record tends to support their argument:

—The Alaska pipeline has been given the go-ahead.

—The Interior Department is reported ready to allow more oil drilling in the Santa Barbara, Calif., channel, site of one of the nation's more dramatic examples of the damage caused by an oil spill.

—In Congress, the fight for cleaner air has lost ground, as witness swift movement of legislation giving automakers an additional year's delay in meeting auto emission standards.

—Since coal is more plentiful than oil, the government is allowing plants to reconvert to coal from oil or delay planned conversions to oil, meaning the air will be dirtier.

—Strip mining, a glaring example of land exploitation, is now getting support as the quickest, best way to expand coal production and ease the oil shortage.

—The concept of a superport for oil tankers, carrying with it the threat of giant oil spills, is winning new congressional support as a necessity if the oil shortage is to be solved.

The need for changes is not argued by environmentalists; the matter of degree is.

The National Clean Air Coalition, which includes such environmentalist groups as the Sierra Club and the National Wildlife Association, say some industries are using the energy crisis to obtain from the government gains they could not get in normal times.

The energy emergency bill designed to give President Nixon sweeping powers to handle the energy crisis is described as "a public disgrace" by the coalition. It says energy industries supported the bill because it would benefit "their own selfish purposes."

Industry denies the charges.

Said Frank N. Ikard, president of the American Petroleum Institute, a trade organization representing the major oil producers: "If we are ever going to get out of this mess, we are going to have to make some hard decisions — decisions affecting land use, exploration, research areas, location of refineries, environmental protection, and allocation of our resources."

Ikard ridiculed the idea that there was "some sinister plot among oil and gas men to slip into the White House and steal the public purse."

In weighing arguments and statements of the environmentalists and industry, it is clear that the energy crisis is having a definite impact on the environmentalist movement. How great an impact will depend on the depth of the crisis and the whether the public will support a go-slow approach in downgrading the ecology issue.

New approach to heart disease

LONDON (UPI) — British doctors who believe heart disease is "potentially the greatest epidemic man has faced" have called on the medical profession to use knowledge already at hand to prevent the condition, rather than simply to treat it.

They say too many doctors are waiting for "complete proof" of what causes heart attacks though this may never be forthcoming and recent research has identified certain "risk factors" which can be treated right now.

There is a "strong probability," write Dr. Richard Turner of Western General Hospital in Edinburgh and Dr. Keith Ball of Central Middlesex Hospital in London, that these risk factors are the ones responsible for heart trouble in any event.

"The seeds of coronary heart disease (CHD) are sown before the age of 20 when habits of eating, exercise and smoking are formed, so that prevention must start in youth," they said. "Effective prevention depends on changing our medical philosophy to one of seeking out those people at risk and not of waiting for symptoms to develop."

Noting grimly that the first manifestation of CHD is often sudden death, the doctors gave this list of risk factors:

Family history—a strong family history of high blood pressure, coronary heart disease, sudden death, stroke or diabetes may be due either to inherited factors of a common environment and should be an incentive for preventive advice and action.

Diet—"We believe there are strong grounds for modifying diet in high risk individuals (i.e. those with high cholesterol). We find that most men will accept cholesterol-lowering diets, which have in recent years become much more acceptable through modern food processing."

Obesity —Insurance statistics show that obesity is adverse to health mainly from cardiovascular (heart) and cerebrovascular (brain) disease and life expectancy improves with its reduction.

Hypertension—There is a close relationship between the severity of hypertension (high blood pressure) and the risk of developing CHD.

Smoking — There is now strong epidemiological evidence relating smoking to CHD.

Sudden death seems to be rare in nonsmokers.

France has an idea

University eases retirement woes

By ROSETTE HARGROVE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

TOULOUSE, France — (NEA) — Retirement does not have to be the traumatic end of life's road that it is, unfortunately, so often permitted to be. It can just as well be a new beginning as an ending.

It is to this end that a prominent French educator, Professor Vellas, dean of the University of Toulouse, opened his Faculty of Social Sciences to retirees and thus launched the first "white-haired" university, a program that is attracting much attention not only in France but throughout Europe and beyond.

Professor Vellas' experiment was the outgrowth of his experience as consultant on social problems to various international organizations.

"I decided to approach the problems of the older generation from the public health angle," he explains, "using the available resources of the university to strengthen a sense or moral and physical well being among elderly citizens."

Instant response

The response was instant — more than 400 senior — or "third age" — citizens were soon enrolled. But a certain amount of resistance had to be overcome on the other side of the generation gap. There was a lack of understanding of the program among the university's regular students until Professor Vellas pointed out its purposes and the importance of their cooperation. They responded, with the result that the project is now regarded as a distinct success.

"I have seen older students scrambling up the steps of the lecture halls two at a time, sitting astride chairs and benches or even on the steps, taking notes with the enthusiasm of sixteen-year-olds," one observer comments.

Everything seems to interest them. Neither the complexities of economic conditions on the Ivory Coast nor the perspective of swimming lessons puts them off.

All must die

During one course on "How to Grow Old Gracefully" the lecturer informed his class with complete frankness, "You all know you must die — the later the better — but you must die on your feet." And all his pupils rose to applaud him.

The program is wide-ranging, seeking to involve participants in social as well as intellectual physical activities and the study of problems relating to elderly people.

Weekly seminars start off with a musical background, Bach, Beethoven and Chopin heading into contemporary offerings of Lionel Hampton and Louis Armstrong and ending up with a dash of rock.

Other activities include visits to factories, model farms, museums, research laboratories, archaeological sites. There are also groups practising archery, bowls, joining walking tours, physical culture classes and the like.

Study groups draw full attendance, despite the fact that they go on from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. They bear on questions of general interest approached from the particular angle of retirement — housing, health and family relations.

One might object that the experiment at Toulouse is limited to intellectuals. True, today they are in the majority, probably because the idea of a faculty was not foreign to them.

But there are others too. As, for example, an ex-carpenter who did not even get as far as his school certificate. Every week he travels 250 miles to classes.

Art exhibition

Soon there will be an art exhibition held by university students with some 300 exhibitors. This is another of Professor Vellas' ideas.

"It is essential to develop cultural appreciation in the twilight years. Who knows but that a late-developed genius might not reveal itself?"

The university is kept busy handling inquiries and enrollment requests from all over France as well as abroad.

At the moment, the project suffers from its own success — there are not enough places to go around, not enough room, not enough credits. But with time and patience, it is hoped the experiment will be operating in other centers.

Problem for defense chief: saving cranes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An Interior Department official has concluded that Air Force planes are endangering the rare whooping crane by using Matagorda Island off the Texas coast for practice bombing and strafing.

The problem has been thrown into the lap of Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger, who may come down on the side of the whoopers because he is a long-time bird watcher and amateur ornithologist.

Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton took the problem to Schlesinger after seeing a report on the situation prepared by Andrew Sansom, a special aide in the Fish and Wildlife Bureau in the Interior Department.

Matagorda is adjacent to the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge, where the rare whooping cranes winter after summering in Canada. Sansom said other birds also nest on the southwestern end of Matagorda, one of a string of barrier islands along the Texas coast.

The Air Force, which owns part of Matagorda and leases the rest, has used the island as a practice bombing range since World War II.

Sansom also reported that the island is known to be the "first and foremost an officer's country club." He said facilities include deluxe rooms, a lounge, dining area and chef; a motor pool of approximately 50 vehicles for use in hunting and fishing expeditions; facilities for cleaning and freezing water fowl, fish and deer; storage for fishing and hunting equipment; airmen to serve as guides, and numerous quail shelters and turkey roosts.

Air Force officials said the 100-yard square target area is more than five miles from a place where whooping cranes have been spotted.

The Air Force denied that its activities endangered the whoopers, saying it had taken strict measures to insure their safety. One spokesman pointed to a 1971 agreement between Morton and Air Force Secretary Robert C. Seamans Jr. providing additional protective measures for the cranes on Matagorda.

He said that the population of the cranes in the wild has more than doubled since the bombing range was established now numbering about 50 with an additional 21 in captivity, and that the Air Force had recorded only one death of a whooper, in 1968, and that was due to disease.

Sansom, who grew up about 70 miles from Matagorda, said the overflights, high and low-level bombing, strafing from helicopters, and hunting by military personnel and civilians on the island are disturbing and endangering the birds. He said hunters sometimes kill cranes although they are warned that the birds are protected.

Sansom recommended that all bombing activities on the island be halted from October through April until the Interior Department can acquire the rest of the island to protect the whooping cranes.

Burglar leaves Christmas card

CARACAS, Venezuela (UPI) — A burglar broke into a home in a well-to-do area of Caracas on Christmas eve Monday, helped himself to a drink out of the liquor cabinet and made off with jewelry, cash and electrical appliances while the owners were out celebrating.

The thief, police said, left a Christmas card with the words, "Merry Christmas and thanks for everything."

France says it out loud, while its allies mumble

UPI Foreign News Analyst

If the French weren't there to act as counter-irritants against the United States, then the NATO allies would have to invent them.

The truth is that when French Foreign Minister Michel Jobert questioned the sincerity of U.S. commitments to the defense of western Europe and brought Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger out of his chair in Brussels, he simply was asking the same question others among the allies had wanted to ask but hadn't.

Kissinger's own summation of his debut before NATO foreign ministers suggested he himself felt he had been somewhat less than successful in winning support either for the U.S. concept of the "year of Europe" or its attitude toward the war in the Middle East.

The two-day meeting, he said, had given all hands a "better understanding of each others' position."

The position as stated by the French foreign minister was this:

How could the United States live up to its commitment to the Soviet Union to consult with the Soviets in any situation threatening a nuclear confrontation between the two and at the same time live up to its obligations to defend a European ally under Soviet attack?

The one obligation was incurred during the June meeting between President Nixon and Soviet party Leader Leonid I. Brezhnev and the other under NATO.

The press is barred from NATO sessions but informants said the Frenchman's statement questioning U.S. loyalty to NATO was what brought Kissinger from his chair with the observation that not only was the question based on a misinterpretation but that if such continued to come up, "I would have to come to the conclusion that these are not inadvertent."

To which the poker-faced Jobert replied:

"We will see what interpretation emerges as a result of time."

From the start the French have been outspoken in criticism of the U.S.-Soviet detente which others among the NATO allies have voiced only privately.

Immediately after the Nixon Brezhnev meeting French President Georges Pompidou lost no time in declaring any agreements reached between the two would not be binding on France.

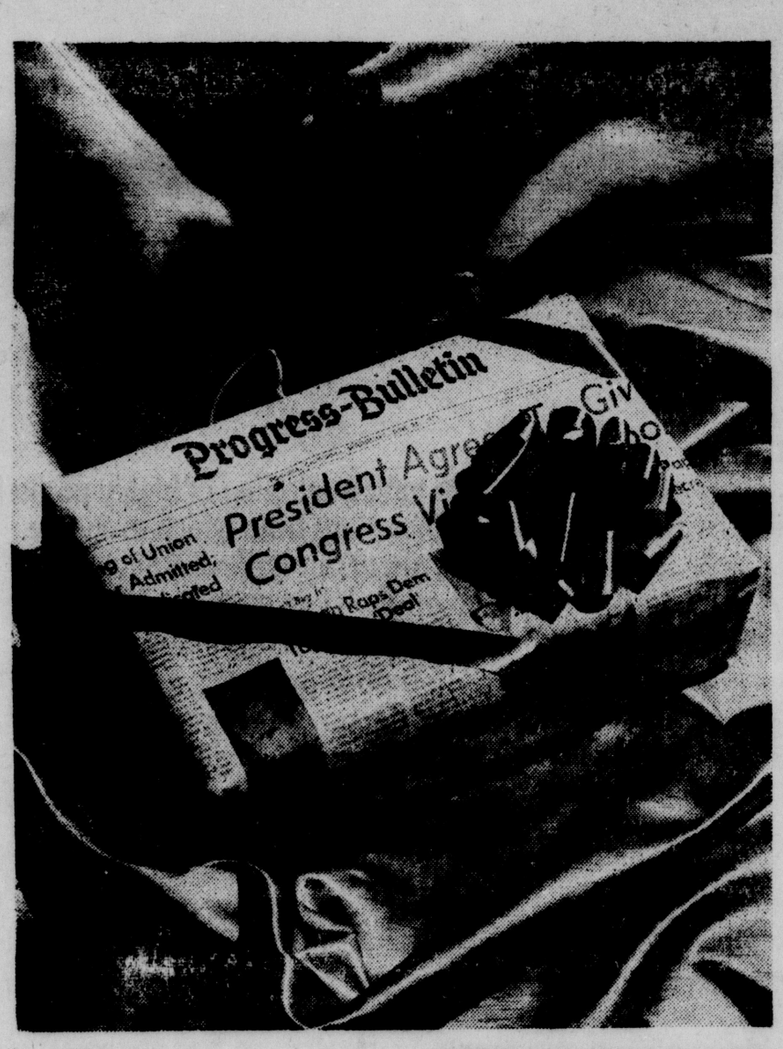

France also took the lead in accusing the United States and Soviet Union of treating Europe as a "nonperson" in steps to achieve a cease-fire in the Middle East.

All European allies have joined in denouncing U.S. failure to consult NATO in advance of its worldwide alert to its forces against a possible Soviet incursion in the recent Mideast crisis.

Further irritating France and Britain has been the U.S.-Soviet decision barring them from Mideast peace talks scheduled to start in Geneva this month.

There are other differences which could be listed, further illustrating the widening gulf between the United States and its natural allies. To these now have been added the oil crisis, contributing a new element to the division of Europe, new economic burdens and a further reluctance to accept U.S. demands that Europe spend more on its own defense.

OLDER SPANISH
Dining Room
Screened Play Room
4 Room Guest House
Here's a "hard to find," authentic Spanish stucco home with red tile roof. Unbelievable massive floor plan features 3 king sized bedrooms, serviced by 2 deluxe bathrooms, with tile walls and floors. Huge front living room with high arched ceilings, Spanish texture walls, large picture window and center heatafator fireplace.
The park-like rear grounds abound in an old world flavor—high block walls, 3 patios, fish pond, and many specimen trees and shrubs. Now don't be misled for this home is in need of some repairs. However with a little imagination and elbow grease it could be a real show place, and look at the price and terms.

FRIENDS,
Here are just a few of the many written comments we receive from our happy customers:

Courteous, cooperative, considerate attention on every detail from all your personnel.
H. & B. RUSH, Mira Loma

Cooperation and concern of your personnel made the transition to mobile home living a pleasant experience.
L. HUTCHINSON, Pom.

Thanks for the fine way you have treated us in our new mobile home and we love every minute of it.
R. & M. BLAND, Pom.

Your Service Personnel have been exceptional, both in workmanship and pleasant attitude. Thanks so much.
A. & D. KRUGER, La Puente

Yes folks, our entire staff of efficient, cooperative personnel are at your service to provide you with courteous customer relations for the rest of your life!
Sincerely
BILL HARRIS

Runaways-turned-hobos—young, hungry, hopeless

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — A new generation American hobo, symbol of hard times in the 1930s' depression, is trudging the streets of U.S. college towns in growing numbers.

"Mister, you got any spare change?" has replaced the '30s lament, "Buddy, can you spare a dime?" The new hobo isn't just down on his luck. He's a reject. And a dime won't do it anymore.

Still in their early 20s, long-haired and often mistaken for hippies or students, the restless new hoboes—and the ranks now include women—come and go from budding "Skid Rows" on the fringes of major college campuses around the country, two researchers say.

The researchers describe these people as victims of a selective depression, primarily the children of blue collar families, many of whom have not completed high school and have less education than their parents. They lack marketable skills and for them unemployment is not a matter of preference.

Along Berkeley's Telegraph Avenue, the "Main Street" of the city's youth culture and frequent battleground of the 1960s, now the local gathering place for the new drifters, a 19-year-old named Judy is smiling at passersby.

Panhandling for wine

"Mister, you got any spare change?" she calls out.

She says she is panhandling to buy wine for her friend, Bob, 21, a wino.

"If I could find a job I'd get it," she says. "You try but you get tired of people's attitudes and you give up."

"When I'm 30?' She laughs as she repeats the question. "Man, that's pretty old. Man, I just want to live. I'd like a family, go up in the hills. Yeah, I want to settle down. Go up in the hills and stay."

They travel by thumb now instead of boxcar, panhandling for food or standing in souplines and they're never in one place long. The space-age hobo, like his depression counterpart, is on a treadmill and not likely to get off.

Uneducated, Unemployable

He is jobless, uneducated, perhaps even unemployable in today's increasingly complex job market, and totally rootless, according to Prof. Henry Miller of the University of California here.

At least 8,000 have passed through here in the past year.

Miller, who studied the hippie "flower children" of the 1960s and recently surveyed young transients here, believes the 1930s have returned for some but there's nothing nostalgic about it.

"The depression is back for these young people," said Miller of UC's Social Welfare Department. "It's a depression like the 1930s, but it has affected only pockets of American society—the young, the old and minorities. And it's as serious for these as it was for the whole country in the 1930s."

The hippie is long gone from the campus and street scene, Miller said. The student revolutionary is gone, too. The new hobo is now the most visible figure on the campus street scene.

Blend in easier

"They pick college towns because there is a relatively congenial environment for young people, and the dress and lifestyle of students is not that much different," Miller said. "They blend in easier.

"Like the depression era when a hobo knew where the best stops were, where they were less likely to get thrown out, these young people have their own circuit.

"Every important campus town in the country has an analagous population on the periphery, and most have the same characteristics as the traditional Skid Row."

Miller and graduate student Jim Baumohl, 24, who also has studied and worked among the street people, surveyed about 300 young transients queing up at a church-run soup line.

A third came from broken homes, a third had quit high school, 22 per cent had received some psychiatric treatment, few had marketable skills and most came from blue collar homes and, in many cases, had less education than their parents, the researchers said.

No women's lib

The average age of the men was 22, of the women 19. One in four was a woman.

"Women's liberation has made no dent on the women in the street," Baumohl said. "They're incredibly dependent on men to stay safe. Some provide sex in return for services.

"When a woman on the street daydreams, it's about a man who'll pick her up and carry her away from street life, which is a very grim way to live.

"Typically, the women quit high school and ran off with somebody. Then they split and she didn't want to go home again so picked up with another guy, and so on. The women are a much sadder group than the men.

AEC 'public' hearings on A-plants a mockery, report says

By DAVID A. MILNE
United Press International

The Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) has frustrated citizen attempts to participate in nuclear power plant decisions by holding token hearings and stacking the deck against the public, two researchers have asserted in a federally financed study.

Dr. Steven Ebbin, a political scientist, and Dr. Raphael Kasper, a nuclear engineer, found that public hearings on construction and operation of nuclear plants are "charades" that give the appearance but not the reality of citizen participation.

Tht AEC is responsible for this because by the time the public hearings begin, the decision to issue licenses and permits or adopt rules already has been made, the study report said.

The study was carried out under a grant by the National Science Foundation (NSF) to the Program for Policy Studies in Science and Technology at George Washington University in Washington.

Ebbin said the 325-page report will be published in February by the Massachussetts Institute of Technology's MIT Press and the NSF has provided $5,100 for final preparation of distribution and to purchase 200 copies. A copy of the report draft was made available to UPI.

Ebbin, who has served as a senior scientist for the National Academies of Science, said the study took 15 months and involved detailed examination of AEC hearings in Michigan and Vermont.

He and Kasper concluded that the major problem is that the AEC is faced with the dual role of promoting the development of nuclear power and of regulating the development to insure public health and safety.

They recommended that the AEC's promotional and regulatory duties be separated and an independent center be created to analyze the impact of technology on the physical, social and human environments.

For citizen participation to become meaningful, they said, the first step should be creation of boards independent of any existing federal agency to conduct the federal hearings.

Marcus Rowden, general counsel for the AEC, said the agency is actively supporting legislation now before Congress which would separate the regulatory functions from the development functions of the AEC. He said the agency now has internal separation but said, "we've reached the stage where it is desirable to go beyond that."

Rowden also told UPI that the AEC has taken steps within the past year to restructure the process of licensing nuclear power plants to disclose as much information as possible and to start public hearings as soon as possible.

"I'd be the last one to claim perfection for the process," he said. But he added that the steps taken are "salutary and sound."

The Ebbin-Kasper report said the AEC licensing process "provides no effective mechanism for the independent analysis of the benefits or hazards of the construction and operation of nuclear power plants."

The public hearings are "neither fair nor expeditious nor democratic in any substantive or meaningful way" because the outcome is predetermined, the report said. "the only consensus among all the parties involved appears to be a general evaluation that the whole process as it now stands is nothing more than a charade."

The report said citizen opponents of nuclear plants are up against huge odds because the hearings are weighted in favor of the AEC, utilities and companies that build the plants.

The AEC's role is characterized by "arrogance, expert elitism, stacked deck proceedings and the consigning of citizens to helplessness before the steamroller of big government," the researchers said.

Beans, beans, beans—all the time

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — Newlyweds John and Agi Weller keep their winter supply of food in a frayed old grocery bag atop their refrigerator.

It's a 10-pound sack of soybeans that over the months will be fashioned into palatable meals such as "pepper-stuffed soybeans," "macaroni soybean loaf," "Italian delight," and many, many more.

The cost per meal is about two to four cents, which was the original reason the young couple switched to the meatless diet.

But now they prefer it, claiming they not only save money, but feel better, too.

"You can take all your favorite meat recipes and substitute the meat portions with soybeans," says Agi, 21, a recent graduate in archeology at Eastern Washington State College. "Through the summer, we got along on a total expenditure of about $100.

"Our biggest cost-items are cheese, milk and eggs," she said, adding a 10 pound sack of whole-wheat flour kept them in bread through the summer.

"It all started when we realized we couldn't survive at the shopping center," John, a 27-year-old nursing student, explained.

He worked as a substitute teacher in the Spokane school system while looking for permanent employment that "wasn't there."

Facing a long summer, the couple planted a vegetable garden and began "the great soybean trip."

"My worst plate was soybean lasagne," Agi confessed. "It was our most expensive meal, too. We bought cottage cheese and mozzarella cheese and all that, but when the soybeans were added, it tasted awful. But the vegetables from the garden and homemade bread saved many of those early-day meals."

Science for You

By BOB BROWN

PROBLEM: Earth magnetism.

NEEDED: A coat hanger, string, a paper clip.

DO THIS: Straighten the coat hanger and hang the wire on a very small thread. This must be done in a room where there are no people and no air movements. Overnight the wire will be found pointing approximately north and south like a compass.

HERE'S WHY: The wire, while not magnetized, will still tend to line up with the earth's magnetic lines of force. The wire is soft iron, which will not take magnetism permanently as steel will, yet it is magnetized as long as it rests in the north-south position. Hold a paper clip near the end, and the magnetism in the wire will attract the clip and move the wire around.

Steel objects become permanent magnets when they remain in one position in the earth's magnetic field for a time. This is true of household objects such as bathtubs, stoves, etcetera.
